On February 15, 1965, the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and the Students Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) held a noon rally on the steps of Sproul Hall, University of California, in an effort to gain support for a mass demonstration on Friday evening in Oakland, California, protesting racial discrimination in Oakland.

Approximately 1,000 - 1,200 people stood in the Sproul Hall Plaza to hear MARIO SAVIO and LARRY KNOP speak regarding alleged racial discrimination in Oakland and spoke of the "inaction of the federal government in Selma, Alabama."

SAVIO and KNOP called for a sit-in in the office of the United States Attorney CECIL F. POOLE at the Federal Office Building, San Francisco. SAVIO stated that the "FBI does nothing except take notes and the agents have become a group of stenographers."

SAVIO announced that cars would leave the campus area to travel to the Federal Office Building at San Francisco beginning at 2:00 PM. He stated that the group would visit CECIL F. POOLE in the Federal Building and ask him to:

1. Insure federal protection for demonstrators at the Jack London Square next Friday night.

2. Request the FBI to investigate the arrest of five CORE members in last Friday's demonstrations in Oakland.

3. To protest the government's failure to aid voter registration in Selma, Alabama.

SAVIO claimed that Title 18, United States Code, made it possible for the Special Agents of the FBI to make arrests without a warrant when they observed a violation of the law.

SAVIO claimed that this action was not taken in Selma, Alabama, because the FBI Director J. EDGAR HOOVER refuses to protect constitutional rights.

JACK WEINBERG then took the microphone and told the assembled group that the Oakland Police Department did everything possible to harrass demonstrators noting that he, WEINBERG, received two tickets last Friday night. WEINBERG urged everyone present to join the demonstration at the Federal Building immediately following the rally.

In addition to those mentioned above, the following persons were observed by the writer to be active in the discussion near the microphone with the various speakers:

MALCOLM BERNSTEIN

ROBERT KAUFMAN

BARBARA GARSON.

The FSM Back in Action

Savio Lashes Kerr as 'Hypocrite'

Leaders of the University of California Free Speech Movement, quiescent since the beginning of the spring semester, staged a noon rally that brought out 2500 students yesterday.

Mario Savio, a former student, lambasted President Clark Kerr as a "two-faced hypocrite" and warned followers not to sign petitions urging Kerr to withdraw his resignation.

He called Kerr's resignation statement "shameful and dishonest" and called for an apology to students, faculty, and administration.

Savio was particularly irked over the suggestion that the Free Speech Movement was in any way associated with the "unfortunate free sexual intercourse movement," which he described as "indefensible."

"But let's assume that they don't expel people from school just for being silly," he said.

Bettina Aptheker, a member of the FSM steering committee, said the real issue on the campus was free speech and not obscenity and warned that Regent "meddling" in internal affairs of the campus "will not be tolerated."

There was a flurry in Sacramento over Savio, who is not presently enrolled as a student. Senator J. Eugene McAteer (Dem-S.F.) blasted the University for permitting Savio to work seven-and-a-half hours as a philosophy reader last January, earning $15.53 for his chores.

University spokesmen said it is "not unusual" for non-students to read examination papers for professors. They said Savio is not now employed, and has not worked at UC since then.

To qualify for payment Savio was required to sign the traditional loyalty oath, swearing to defend the Constitutions of the United States and California and also attesting he belongs to no subversive organization seeking the overthrow of the government by force and violence.

Whether Savio has picked up his $15.53 check is not known, but it was issued on February 8.

On February 11, 1965, a rally was observed by the writer at the University of California ASUC Student Plaza from about 12:00 noon to 1:10 PM. This rally was for the purpose of hearing PAUL GOODMAN, Sociologist, speak on the "free university."

GOODMAN generally advocated abolishment of all laws and restraint of campus activities. At the close of the speech, STEPHEN WEISSMAN representing the Graduate Coordinating Council and DENNIS MOSGOFIAN representing the May Second Movement made special pleas for "as many as possible" to join in a march to Selective Service Headquarters, 2199 Bancroft Way, Berkeley.

MOSGOFIAN stated the purpose of the march was to oppose current U. S. policy in Viet Nam.

Approximately 250 - 300 persons were observed as they assembled at the Telegraph Avenue entrance to the University of California at approximately 1:15 PM. The group then paraded west on Bancroft Way to the Selective Service Headquarters, stopped briefly and then proceeded west on Bancroft Way to Shattuck Avenue (main street in downtown Berkeley.)

The demonstrators paraded four abreast in the middle of Shattuck Avenue north to Center Street, made a U-turn and went south on Shattuck Avenue to Bancroft Way, east on Bancroft Way to Fulton Street, where they staged a protest demonstration on the sidewalk at the corner of Bancroft Way and Fulton Street in front of the Selective Service Headquarters until approximately 2:10 PM.

MOSGOFIAN was observed to mount a street-side mail box and address the demonstrators requesting that all males of draft age sign a declaration which states

Savio Quoted at U.C. Sit-in Trial

BERKELEY — Mario Savio shouted through a bullhorn to his fellow demonstrators in Sproul Hall at the University of California to "move to the upper floors to make the arrests more difficult."

U.C. Police Sgt. Robert Ludden testified to this post-midnight episode in court yesterday as the took the witness stand in the non-jury trial of Savio and 154 fellow demonstrators arrested in the Dec. 2-3 sit-in on campus.

Lunden, on the campus force for 17½ years, said that on that tumultuous night he was stationed near the main doors of Sproul Hall shortly after midnight when an unidentified man called in to tell the sit-inners that he had heard that Governor Brown had ordered arrests.

ACCUSE SAVIO

Ludden said Savio appeared on the first floor to repeat the information and then called on the demonstrators to vacate that floor and move above.

He quoted Savio as advising the demonstrators to give their names and then go limp.

Ludden was to continue under direct examination of Deputy Dist. Atty. Edwin Meese III today in the trial before Judge Rupert Crittenden in the Berkeley Memorial Auditorium.

Preceding Ludden to the stand was Berkeley Police Capt. William Beall who, under cross-examination by defense attorney Stanley Golde, said that sometime after 11 p.m. on Dec. 2 a conference brought together men of U.C. police, Alameda County Sheriff's office, the California Highway Patrol, the district attorney's office and U.C. officials on the take-over of Sproul Hall by the students.

'GROUP DECISION'

Golde asked Beall who ordered him to make the arrests. Beall replied "it was a decision made by the group. It was not an order."

Beall, like a report by U.C. Lt. Merrill Chandler before him, said that he had been told that Governor Brown had phoned at 10:50 p.m. to order that the demonstrators be arrested.

Beall yesterday described the arrests which started with a yell "the cops are coming." Over 700 taken into custody in the early morning. The mass trial of the 155 is on misdemeanor charges stemming from those arrests.

Replay of Savio's Voice

Tape Recording At Sit-In Trial

By FRED ALLGOOD

The voice of Mario Savio, which touched off the Sproul Hall sit-ins last December, was heard in Berkeley Municipal Court yesterday as the trial of the first batch of sit-ins began.

Savio's polemic outside Sproul Hall, delivered on Dec. 2, was captured on tape that day and played before Judge Rupert Crittenden near the close of the first day of testimony.

The speech was a rouser, as witness the fact there are 155 defendants in the trial—and that's only the first batch.

The trial resumes this morning with testimony from Sproul Hall office workers who are expected to tell how much they were discombobulated by the sit-ins.

WARNING BY JUDGE

Berkeley's 300-seat Veterans Auditorium is the scene of the mass trial, which began with a stern warning by Judge Crittenden to the defendants that he will tolerate no disorder and/or demonstrations in his court.

Crittenden cut short noisy student laughter which burst out during Alameda District Attorney J. Frank Coakley's opening statement.

"The purpose here is to give you a fair hearing," he said. "If you don't like remarks that I make please try to control yourselves.

"Many remarks will be made that may greatly incense you, the attorneys and the visitors in the public gallery.

NO JURY

"This trial must be conducted under the strictest rules and this court will not tolerate anything but order," concluded Judge Crittenden, who is hearing the case without a jury.

The laughter came when Coakley launched into an attack on Mario Savio, leader of Student Free Speech Movement which staged the sit-in Dec. 2 but was terminated by the arrest of 773 demonstrators.

Defense attorney Richard Buxbaum objected to Coakley's statement and Crittenden asked Coakley to water down his remarks.

Buxbaum objected a second time when Coakley referred to Savio "as either a good actor or egocentric personality who could easily be manipulated by others."

This time Crittenden told Coakley that he had stretched his remark past the limit of an opening statement.

"I do not want to make a ruling. So kindly temper your remarks," he ordered.

HISTORY OF FSM

Coakley complied.

The district attorney said that during the Fall semester at the Berkeley campus of U.C. a small group of students and non-students formed the Free Speech Movement which was "a hard core of seasoned agitators to which gravitated a motley collection of students."

"Their leader was a student named Savio. Not long out of New York, he foresook the name of Robert to the most glamorous name of Mario.

"He was a junior student in philosophy but soon became what is known as a drop-out and now operates on the fringe," he said.

Coakley said that Savio acted arrogantly and openly defied the Regents, President, Chancellor, and other University officials.

He said the leaders of the FSM organized the sit-in as a spectacular move to boost their slacking movement.

DESCRIBES RALLY

He described the rally which was held on the steps of Sproul Hall on December

2, when the students were urged to march into the Hall of Administration Building "until either the administration capitulate or the students arrested."

The demonstrators roamed around, blocked entrances to offices, interfered with work, were singing, shouting, breaking windows, and making a public nuisance of themselves," he said.

The District Attorney said the students were ordered to leave at 7 p.m. when the building is regularly closed and at 3:10 a.m. by Chancellor Edward Strong.

"Each willfully, deliberately and coercively committed crimes with the full knowledge of their consequences.

THE CHARGES

"They defied the law and invited arrest. The prosecution asks each be found guilty on all counts," Coakley said.

The students are charged with trespass, failure to disperse from an unlawful assembly and resisting arrest.

Buxbaum replied that the prosecution had insufficient evidence to prove its case.

"The evidence will show that the conduct was motivated by high principles negating criminality," he said.

Buxbaum said that the conduct of the students was a petition against grievances and was therefore protected by the Constitution. He said that the statutes under which they were tried were of doubtful legality.

ANSWER ROLL CALL

At the start of the trial Crittenden ordered each defendant to stand up and answer roll call.

First was Mario Savio, who wore a smart clerical gray suit, neatly pressed. He has had a recent haircut.

The students cheered when Savio waved toward them.

Most of the FSM leaders wore suits and looked the models of ideal students. An exception was Arthur Goldberg, who was dressed in a flashy open necked shirt.

The courtroom has 300 seats and was filled almost to capacity.

Draft's Closing In on Savio

Mario Savio, who commanded his own private army of Free Speech Movement rebels at the University of California last fall, moved one step closer yesterday to becoming a private in the United States Army.

He reported at the Army Induction Station at 1515 Clay St., Oakland, for a physical examination.

Savio said afterwards that the Army has completed 90 percent of the tests and pronounced him both physically and mentally fit for draft service. He must return today to complete the examination.

Savio went from the induction station to the Sproul Hall sit-in trial in Berkeley Municipal Court, where he is a defendant.

Savio, who registered for the draft in New York City four years ago when he was 18, has taken part in campus marches protesting United States troops in South Vietnam.

Savio was selected this month for physical examination because he is no longer a registered student, having dropped out from UC last January.

His chances for actual service have increased because the Department of Defense boosted its quotas recently. The May figures are twice those for March.

Draft Call For Savio

Mario Savio may be leading new troops soon!

Inquiries into Savio's absence from today's court session in the trial of University of California Free Speech Movement demonstrators revealed Savio was at the U.S. Army Induction Center in Oakland.

Defense attorneys said Savio had been excused from court today because he had been ordered by his draft board to show up for a pre-induction physical.

Like other 22-year-old single men who are not in school and not employed in industries vital to U.S. defense, Savio is a likely candidate for the draft.

Generally, if a man takes a pre-induction physical examination and is found physically acceptable by the Army, he then is eligible for the next draft call unless he qualifies ~~for a deferment~~.

Award Set for Savio

Mario Savio, the former University of California philosophy student who became a national figure during the Free Speech Movement demonstrations at the Berkeley campus last fall, will be presented a Citizenship Award by the First Unitarian Church of Los Angeles Friday.

Savio is due to be presented the award at an 8 p.m. awards banquet at the church, located in downtown Los Angeles.

Also scheduled to receive an award is Dr. Carleton B. Goodlett, publisher of the San Francisco Sun-Reporter, a Negro weekly newspaper.

"Mario Savio is of the new, militant, young generation who are in the front ranks of the struggle on the campuses, in the slums, and in Mississippi, and Selma and Montgomery," the church said in announcing the award.

Faculty's 'Slap' at Savio

The punishment meted out t week to four students the obscenity demonstra- ns at the University of lifornia was supported last ght by the top faculty com- ttee on the Berkeley mpus.

This support was an indi- ct slap at former UC stu- nt Mario Savio, who nched a series of noon- ne demonstrations in an 'ort to get the administra- n to reverse its decision dismiss one student and spend three others.

The emergency executive mmittee of the Academic nate also supported the n on the sale of two pub- ations on the campus.

The committee noted in a atement that both actions acting Chancellor Martin eyerson had been recom- ended earlier by faculty mmittees.

The statement said in part "In the past few weeks, cting Chancellor Meyerson s acted on two important mpus disciplinary matters, sing his decisions on the commendations of faculty mmittees.

"The first faculty commi- made recommendations ncerning the ban on two blications. That issue was on closed.

"Now that the second fac- ty committee has recom- ended penalties in the ob- enity cases, some persons nd fault with the commit- e and its procedures, and emand that the Academic Senate select another committee to conduct new hearings in the same obscenity cases.

"The emergency executive committee rejects this attempt to discredit the work of the faculty committee.

"An attempt to make the flaunting of obscenity a legitimate use of free speech should not divert attention from the unresolved issues of real substance.

"The emergency executive committee is satisfied that the handling of the obscenity cases has been in accordance with due process.

"We find therefore no merit in the demand for further campus hearings i the obscenity cases."

The faculty statement noted that after the Free Speech Movement demonstrations of the fall semester, "the task of constructing a new community concensus, integrating political freedom and academic order, has required a period of adjustment.

"During this period, students have enjoyed full rights of political advocacy and organization on campus and have been free of harassment in their exercise. In turn, they have co-operated in the observance of interim 'time, place and manner' regulations.

"h'u patient work and mutual forbearance were creating the basis for a new university climate until the obscenity episodes interrupted this progress. . . .

"In the present situation, deliberate violation of existing rules would be particularly destructive."

Savio Quits As Chief of U.C. Rebels

BERKELEY — Mario Savio has abandoned his role as leader of the Free Speech Movement at the University of California.

On the steps of Sproul Hall, where he had electrified many audiences with his speeches on behalf of students' political freedom, Savio announced his resignation yesterday to a stunned crowd of 1,500.

LAST RALLY

"This is my last rally," the curly - haired 22-year-old said. "Good bye and good luck."

His farewell was a dramatic climax to an address in which he castigated a committee of regents for its report calling for more stringent rules governing student conduct. He called it a "catalogue of obscenity . . . far worse than any four-letter word."

One student was dismissed last week and three others suspended for using a four-letter obscenity on the campus during a demonstration.

'UNDEMOCRATIC'

Savio told the rally yesterday he was leaving the FSM because he could "no longer keep up with the undemocratic principles that the university administration is following."

Savio, who led the mass sit-in at Sproul Hall last Dec. 2-3, advised against a similar action by the students, saying:

"Techniques appropriate last semester are not appropriate this semester. ~~You should~~ be ashamed if people fail to follow through, not on the grounds that they can't deliver but because they'll lose more if they do deliver."

LEADERSHIP GAP

He also expressed disappointment at what he called a growing gap between the leadership of the FSM and the students.

The former honor student in philosophy who dropped out of school this semester said, "Even if I do return as a student, I won't take part in political activity."

There had been rumors of dissension within the leadership of the FSM — some favoring a moderate stand in defense of the students involved in the obscenity case and others, including Savio, arguing for a militant position.

Savio Bows Out At UC—But He'll Stay Close

Mario Savio, unlike the old soldier, probably has little intention of fading away.

He said today he'll stay on in the Berkeley area even though he's quit as leader of the controversial Free Speech Movement at the University of California.

The youthful spellbinder said he decided to quit because he thought the FSM was becoming too undemocratic and himself too much of a Napoleon.

HE MADE his announcement Monday at one of those noon rallies on the steps of his most famous battleground — Sproul Hall.

He stunned the crowd of 1000. His voice was husky with emotion.

"I am leaving the campus . . . I won't return."

THE VOLATILE 22 year old explained his fears about FSM becoming undemocratic, with himself as a Napoleon.

"Therefore, I am stepping down . . . I am out of the movement . . . Goodbye."

Savio has not been a regular student at Cal since fall. He was majoring in philosophy and was a top student.

Savio is currently on trial in Berkeley Municipal Court as one of the 800 arrested in last December's tumultuous Sproul Hall sit-in.

THE PROSECUTION wound up its case this morning after almost five weeks of testimony by 34 witnesses. More than 2000 pages of testimony have been compiled, and 525 exhibits introduced.

The defense begins its case Monday and expects to take three weeks.

Savio took leadership of FSM last fall when he exhorted students to block a patrol car in which a FSM member was held.

Savio was later suspended from UC after a lengthy hearing before members of the Academic Senate. He was a junior majoring in philosophy.

Savio Retires From FSM

By Don Wegars

Mario Savio, firebrand of the University of California's Berkeley campus, yesterday told a student rally that he is quitting the Free Speech Movement.

"Good-by and good luck," he told about 1500 students gathered in front of Sproul Hall, where he led the student sit-in last December 3.

Savio's announcement took the students completely by surprise.

When the meaning of what he had said became clear, applause for him steadily built up to an ovation. Savio said he was quitting because he no longer could "keep up with the undemocratic principles that the (university administration is following."

In a bitter prelude to his announcement, Savio said he was fed up with the university's violation of "the spirit of December 8"—the day the Academic Senate voted to support much of the FSM's program for freedom of political advocacy.

He also expressed disappointment with a growing gap between the leadership of the FSM and the students themselves.

"Any kind of insurrection against institutional tyranny . . . if not organized by you (the students) is not worth organizing," he told the crowd.

The 22-year-old former philosophy major has not been a regular student at Berkeley since last fall's crisis.

Savio said he had been thinking about quitting "for a long time" and there is "absolutely no chance" he will reconsider.

"This wasn't a Kerr-type resignation," he said.

University President Clark Kerr announced his own resignation last month and then withdrew it after receiving a vote of confidence from the Board of Regents.

Savio prefaced his resignation with another harangue against the Regents "and their catalogue of obscenities."

The ostensible purpose of the rally was to discuss what action the FSM should take to protest disciplinary measures meted out against four students who bandied about a four-letter word on campus.

EXPELLED

One of the four, Arthur Goldberg, another FSM leader, was expelled from school, and the other three were suspended.

Yesterday, Savio practically ruled out another mass sit-in.

"The techniques appropriate last semester are not appropriate this semester," he said.

Savio said he would like to remain in Berkeley but does not know if he ~~will re~~-enter the university.

SAVIO QUITS THE FSM

Action Stuns His Followers

'Won't Be a Napoleon'

By FRED ALLGOOD

Mario Savio quit yesterday as leader of the Free Speech Movement at the University of California because he is afraid of becoming a dictator.

He added that he will "leave the campus . . . and I won't return."

Speculation arose, however, that Savio's decision may have been influenced by his draft status. He passed with flying colors his preinduction tests at the Armed Forces recruitment center in Oakland last month, and faces the possibility of being drafted soon into the Army.

He said that the student protests at Berkeley are in danger of becoming undemocratic with himself as a Napoleon Bonaparte.

Savio's principal lieutenants were taken by surprise and gloomily predicted the early disintegration of the FSM.

Savio, a volatile and charismatic leader of Sicilian descent, bowed out in the grand manner on the steps of Sproul Hall, an arena he has dominated for seven months.

The resignation came at [redacted] the end of a speech in which he attacked the University Board of Regents and a draft of new political rules proposed at a regents' meeting in Los Angeles last week.

He called the rules "an act of obscenity I find more offensive than any four-letter word I have heard on this campus."

His supporters in the crowd of 1,500 students at the noon rally warmly applauded in the belief he was trying to generate the right kind of emotional atmosphere for more civil disobedience this week.

ULTIMATUM

Savio sent the regents an ultimatum last week expiring at noon tomorrow which demands the reinstatement of the four dismissed or suspended students involved in the obscenity crisis.

Suddenly Savio's tone changed. In a subdued voice, slightly quaking with emotion, he said: "If any protest against the new rules is to have any meaning or value, it must be organized by you."

He explained his fears that the FSM was becoming undemocratic.

"Therefore I am stepping down. This is my last rally. Goodby."

Savio waved to the stunned crowd and slowly walked, perspiring, to a tree by the side of the Sproul Hall steps and sat down.

Someone shouted, "He can't mean it." But Savio said he did.

He made it clear that his decision was final and irrevocable. He felt that as a non-student he should not have to bear the burden of organizing further student protests.

Savio said he felt the FSM should be reorganized on more democratic lines.

A bitter split in the FSM ranks preceded Savio's withdrawal. Most of Savio's top lieutenants in the movement last semester have since dropped out to concentrate on their studies, and one of the principal leaders, Art Goldberg, has been dismissed from the campus.

Pocketful of Notes

ADD INSIDEMS: Mario Savio had three good reasons for resigning as chief of the Free Speech Movement at Cal: (1) the Regents' flat rejection of his ultimatum, expiring today, that they reinstate the four students involved in the obscenity issue; (2) the Academic Senate's reaction—"not a free speech issue"—and its refusal to back him up, and (3) his dawning realization that he has lost control of the students. Even in defeat, his timing is good.

A Revolutionary Bids Farewell

MANY ADULTS who get their hair cut every two weeks and keep their check stubs correctly have formed unfavorable, even hostile, opinions of Mario Savio, the University of California ex-student who led the Free Speech Movement.

Most of the things young Savio has said and stood for in FSM during the past eight months have struck the orthodox citizen and taxpayer as too defiant, too rudely insistent, too subversive of authority and discipline, too heartless to fit their ordered concepts. The threat to bring one of the great universities of the world "grinding to a halt" is not forgotten.

Yet this undergraduate led a student revolution which will certainly not be successfully confined to the Berkeley campus in extent nor to the fall semester 1964 in time. We are witnessing an upsurge of a whole student generation, many educators warn us; one that is changing the nature and character of campuses and campus relationships. That the revolution of Mario Savio is still shaking the administrators, the Regents, the faculty and courts of Berkeley we in the Bay Area well know. Elsewhere it is only beginning to make itself felt.

A MOST EXTRAORDINARY phenomenon, this young man, who struck fire just at a time when the tinder was ready to flame (it was, we shouldn't forget, at the outset of the Goldwater campaign, with all that that seemed to threaten in the scale of student values).

"Good-by and good luck," he now says to the Cal students. Five years from now, will he be forgotten? Or will he be getting a Ph.D. and heading for one of those teaching jobs that he has made so uncomfortable in the past months?

For the information of the Kansas City Division, San Francisco, on October 29, 1964, advised the New York Office that on October 1 and 2, 1964, massive student demonstrations were staged at the University of California, Berkeley, in protest of University policies in connection with off-campus political activity, solicitation of funds for off-campus organizations and solicitation of membership for off-campus groups. These demonstrations reached massive proportions and centered around a "captured" police vehicle with a prisoner inside the automobile. MARIO SAVIO was the leader and main spokesman for this group of students who used the top of the police vehicle for a speaking platform. SAVIO and the demonstrators defied the local law enforcement officers and refused to permit the police car or prisoner to be moved for a period from Thursday, October 1, 1964, about noon, until Friday, October 2, 1964, about 7:45 p.m.

Why Did Savio Quit?—Inside Sources Hint Split on Tactics

By FRED GARDNER

Mario Savio, who gained nation-wide attention as the leader of the Free Speech Movement in its revolt against the University of California, renounced his leadership of the FSM in a dispute over tactics, sources close to the movement's inner councils said today.

The exponent in the past of direct action, Savio now opposes open revolt and, as a result, is in the minority in the FSM, the sources say.

In his farewell address yesterday from the steps of Sproul Hall, Savio gave weight to this theory when he said that the "techniques appropriate last semester are not appropirate this semester."

Throughout the short, but hectic history of the FSM, it has been divided over tactics. The faction favoring direct action—such as the Dec. 2 and 3 sit-in at Sproul Hall—has been in control most of the time.

Savio was recognized as the leader and spokesman of this group in the past.

It was Savio who inspired the classic direct action of the FSM when its members invaded the Sproul Hall on Dec. 2 for a sit-in that ended in th arrest of more than 700 persons.

But this semester the more peaceful faction which has opposed direction action has had its way most of the time. And now Savio appears to have swung to this side of the FSM.

The newest FSM call for direct action—possibly tomorrow—has further widened the split and Savio, usually the fiery pied piper of the direct action group is more or less on the outside.

The dismissal of Art Goldberg, an FSM wheelhorse, and the suspension of three other students in the obscenity row has triggered the call for direct action even if the results bring disaster to the movement.

Savio, say those close to the FSM, opposes direct action, but his position is the minority one, they add. They claim his resignation was announced because he could not approve decisions taken over the weekend to resort to direct action if the four students are not reinstated by the Regents.

Some see his action as an attempt to split the FSM at this crucial moment and make it impossible for the movement to gather enough strength to mount a new protest.

Savio said yesterday in his surprise farewell address from the steps of Sproul Hall that he was disappointed with the growing gap between the leadership of the FSM and the students themselves. "Any kind of insurrection against institutional tyranny . . . if not organized by you (the students) is not worth organizing."

"The same types of techniques appropriate last semester are not appropirate this semester," he added.

And explaining his reason for opposing direction action at this time, he said, "I don't want to lead people into things that will lead to expulsion if we can't support them."

Just how the FSM will fare without Savio should become apparent in the next few days.

One of the faculty speakers at yesterday's noon rally of the FSM on the University of California campus was Reginald E. Zelnik, acting assistant professor of history, who referred to the Meyer Committee report on recommendations for governing student political activity as "fantastic."

Prof. Zelnik's remarks were initially attributed to Prof. Philip Selznick of the Sociology Department who did not speak at the rally.

Won't Return

Mario Resigns FSM Leadership

By JOHN OPPEDAHL
and BRUNO BRANDLI

Mario Savio unexpectedly stepped down yesterday as one of the leaders of the Free Speech Movement.

His reason for leaving the movement is its "excessively undemocratic character."

He said he "definitely will not come back" to the FSM.

His announcement came at the end of a noon rally and startled the more than 1000 persons who gathered to hear Savio and other speakers attack the so-called Meyer Report on possible new disciplinary procedures for the campus.

Referring to possible upcoming FSM "direct action" against the administration for ousting four students last week he said "If the action isn't organized by you, it's not worth being organized."

"Lest I feel deserving of the charge of 'Bonapartism' which even I sometimes have made against myself, I'd like to wish you good luck and goodbye."

Nobody moved as Savio strode away from the microphone where he has made some of his most famous speeches.

Savio said he did not know if he would leave the Berkeley area.

(Savio, as one of those arrested, evidentally will have to remain in Berkeley until the end of the trial of the 800 persons being tried for sitting-in at Sproul Hall last semester.)

"I've thought a long time about it," he said. "There has been no pressure on me to step down."

He said he may "stick around to watch what goes on" but he will not return as one of the leaders of FSM.

He said he did not know if he would register here against next semester as a student.

Savio hinted at his "departure" as he drew to a close a speech attacking the report of the Meyer Committee of the Board of Regents.

"It has been said certain people have gained their position (as leaders of FSM) here because others lack competence," he said.

"It may well be," he added, "that others with competence have not come forward because the leaders of last semester are still around."

Principal speakers beside Savio at the rally weer Reginald Zelnik, assistant professor of history, and Kenneth Stampp, professor of history.

Both attacked the Meyer Report which would revamp campus disciplinary procedures if it is adopted next month by the full Board of Regents.

A major problem now is how to get the Meyer Report rescinded before the Regents accept it, he said.

Zelnik said three things were wrong with the "fantastic document":

- It "speaks to issues which a statewide administration has no right to consider."
- Fifty per cent of its policies are "obnoxious" on their face.
- It carries the tone of a "restricted document," as if to say "How members of an academic community have to keep in line."

Referring to the sections on student conduct, government, and discipline, Zelnik emphasized, "All students ought to begin telling the Regents the Meyer Report will not be acceptable to any element on this community."

"But this might not work," he added. "We're going on the assumption a significant number of Regents care what the faculty says."

History Professor Kenneth Stampp told the crowd "The report was a disappointment, and reflects one of the problems that confront state universities."

"The Boards of Governors of some Eastern schools—Harvard, Yale, Princeton—function as a cushion between students and faculty and the community-at-large," he continued.

Stampp maintained this does not occur in state universities because "too often, appointments to the boards of regents are politically motivated."

"Inevitably, someone at a University will outrage a significant part of the outside community," he added.

Of the Meyer report, he said, "It is not an inspiring, liberating document but a gloomy, negative one full of pains, penalties, and threats. It has all the idealism and inspiration of a bill of lading."

"It gets the Regents into areas in which they ought not to meddle," he said. "It totally violates campus autonomy."

"I urge students to get to work at once on objections to the Report and send them to the Regents," he continued.

Then came Savio for what would be his last speech from the steps of Sproul Hall.

In the case of the banned magazine "Spider," first the "bad guys, then the good guys" forced decisions from the committee holding the hearings on "Spider," he said.

"But both decisions were corrupt," he added.

"If the courts don't have the conscience, then the people en masse can do justice. But this is dangerous and I hope it does not happen."

He said he did not think the four students involved in the "obscenity" incident "spoke in line with the true function of the University."

However, he said, when that case went to a committee, "even rudimentary demands of due process were denied them."

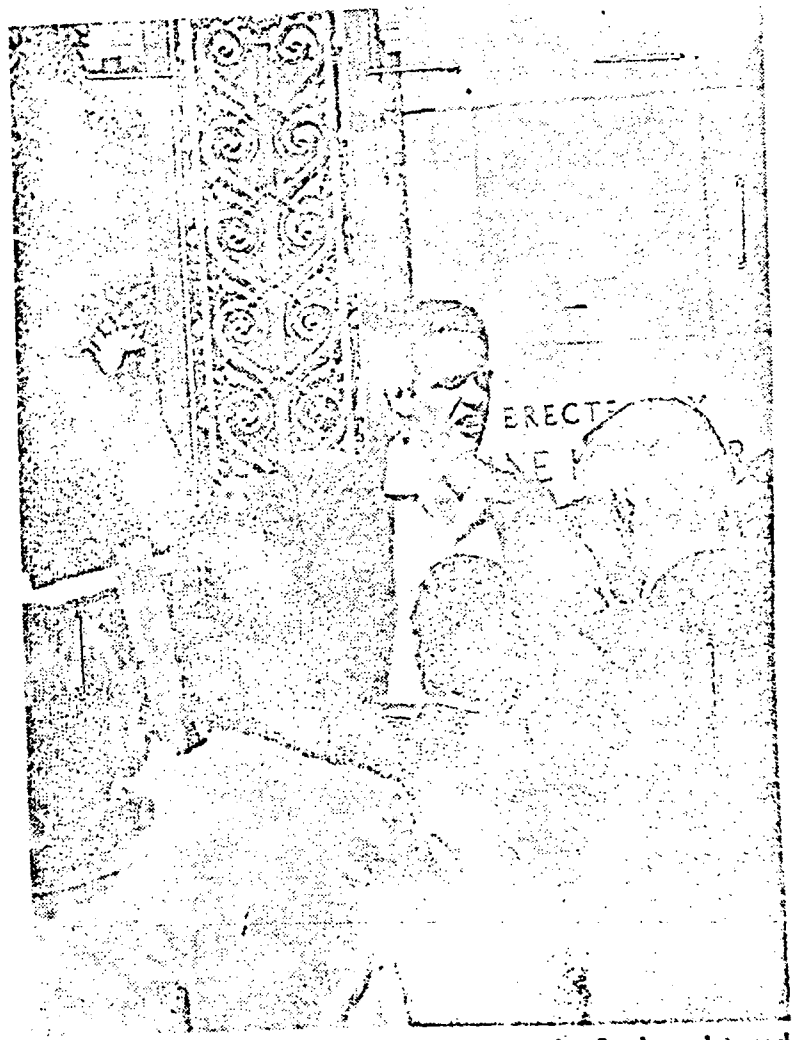
"Those people who backed the administration last year said we didn't use orthodox channels."

"What can those people say now when the Regents deny us those channels?"

"This Board of Regents, unredeemed by any sort of social value, makes it very difficult for us to respond in a measured way on Wednesday."

(Savio was referring to implied threats in a telegram sent last week to the Regents from FSM urging the four students ousted last week be "reinstated immediately.")

"I don't think anyone would be ashamed of the demand made of the Regents. It's the minimum required for a fair hearing," he said.



FSM LEADER SAYS GOODBYE . . . Mario Savio, pictured last semester delivering one of his fiery speeches which moved many to action, yesterday said the students should act by themselves, wished them goodluck and goodbye and walked off campus.

(Editor's note: The following is the text of a letter by Mario Savio received late yesterday by the Daily Califorinan. Tuesday Savio stepped down as one of the leaders of the Free Speech Movement.)

To the Berkeley Students and Faculty:

I had believed that I said yesterday only one thing which could have been misinterpreted. My saying "goodbye" could have been taken to mean that I would not re-enroll or that I was leaving the city.

I don't feel bound to either course of action. For now, I am ceasing all direct participation in the movement for student rights on this campus—a fortiori in any role of leadership.

This does not preclude, however, my participation in campus political activity at sometime in the future.

People of some influence and of varying degrees of responsibility have tried to find reasons behind reasons for my "resignation."

The Examiner suggests a change in my draft status; Mr. J. A. R. Editor, of the Daily Californian hints that I was part of a discredited faction which was urging "direct action," but which has now been defeated by the forces of moderation both in the leadership and on campus generally; the Gazette has it that I was part of a discredited faction which was urging moderation, but which has now been defeated by the forces for "direct action."

Oh well.

The reasons I gave in what I still believe was a relatively clear speech may well be too simple for some journalistic minds to comprehend:

The campus must organize itself.

If the student rights movement at Berkeley must inevitably fail without my leadership, then it were best that it fail.

I should do a great disservice to our community if I were to make myself indispensable; and in recent weeks I have become very nearly indispensable.

But I am confident that this community is entirely capable of organizing itself into the powerful trades union form of organization which this "knowledge factory" calls for.

Concerning the recent cases of alleged obscenity: despite the attempts to label us "degenerates" this semester—remember, it was "anarchists" last fall—the truth is that even members of the Faculty Forum now recognize the importance of our demand for due process in these cases and share our shock at punishments which seem to bear no rational relationship to the "crimes."

Furthermore, since it can be argued that these "crimes" were attempts at legitimate social criticism, I believe there is room for serious doubt that the four ought to have been punished for "conduct unbecoming a student."

I believe no one should feel ashamed at having supported an ultimatum looking toward action to protect our fellows who were so unfairly treated. I also believe that in the changed circumstances of this semester no one should feel ashamed at deciding not to march into Sproul Hall at high noon on Wednesday.

Let me add that perhaps the saddest thing about this community is the continuing reluctance of faculty to defend the rights of students to self government, to due process, and to a full and liberal education as opposed to the factory training which we students have generally had to suffer.

The Berkeley students have been forced to desperate acts because their professors repeatedly have failed them.

I can only hope more faculty members may soon shoulder the responsibilities they have toward their students.

Good luck,
Mario Savio

Trial Testimony

Savio Starts His Saga of the Sit-In

Mario Savio, the 22-year-old firebrand who led the student rebellion at the University of California last fall and winter, was the very model of decorum yesterday when he took the stand at the Berkeley trial of 155 Sproul Hall sit-in demonstrators.

Savio dropped out of UC late last fall — but he revealed on the stand that he had applied for re-admission, had been accepted and would re-enter either in September or next spring.

Savio declined to take the customary oath and merely "affirmed" his intent to testify truthfully.

BEGINNING

Then he began his account of his involvement in the now-defunct Free Speech Movement, and the student demonstrations that began early last September.

During the summer of 1964, Savio said, he had been a Student Non-Violent Coordinating Council volunteer in Mississippi, teaching school and assisting in voter registration.

These experiences, he said, motivated his activities in the Sproul Hall sit-in.

He testified that he had been scheduled to become chairman of the Campus Friends of SNCC, but had failed to organize the group because of administration prohibitions on advocacy and political activity.

DIARY

Then Savio began an almost day-by-day report of his attempts to persuade the University administration to change the rigid rules.

He told of the violent student demonstrations of October 1 and 2 and the resultant indefinite suspension of eight students — among them Mario Savio.

He interjected the comment that President Clark Kerr "had no idea of the need for student political activity."

The suspensions, he said, came after 409 students trooped in to see dean of men Arleigh Williams and "confessed" individually and collectively that they too had violated campus rules by manning SNCC recruiting tables in the forbidden Sather Gate area.

Savio's running account will be continued Monday.

Kerr May Testify at Sit-In Trial

By FRED ALLGOOD

Dr. Clark Kerr, President of the University of California, is likely to be called to testify in the Sproul Hall sit-in trial on Thursday in Berkeley, the day the Board of Regents meets in Riverside, it was learned yesterday.

The Regents are due to decide on student disciplinary procedures and campus rules and to start comparing notes on the reactions to the controversial Byrne Report which criticized them for their method of governing the university.

Malcolm Burnstein, chief attorney for the 155 defendents now on trial before Munucipal Judge Rupert Crittenden, said that according to his list of witnesses Kerr will likely be called Thursday.

If, however, the current witness, Mario Savio, one of the defendents and former leader of the demonstrators, is cross examined lengthily, Kerr may not be called until Monday.

The trial developed yesterday in a sharp battle of wits between Savio and the prosecuting attorney Lowell Jensen, who cross-examined him during the afternoon session.

Jensen fed Savio some innocent questions and then snapped some carefully worded ones.

"Did you set up a card table on campus Sept. 29?" Jensen asked.

"I believe beyond a reasonable doubt that I did not," Savio replied.

"Did you tell the Heymen Committee that you set up tables on that day?" Jensen asked.

"Consistent with my last answer, no," Savio replied.

The Heyman Committee was set up by the Academic Senate last October to hold hearings in the case of eight students suspended Sept. 30 for allegedly violating rules on political activity at Berkeley.

In its report it said "Mr. Savio freely admitted that he set up a table in the area in Sept. 29."

At this point Judge Crittenden called a recess until 10:00 this morning.

Savio answered aggressively, sometimes corrected Jensen's grammar.

Savio's Story of The Sit-in

Mario Savio, the 22-year-old leader of the University of California Free Speech Movement, finished his saga of the great sit-in yesterday in Berkeley-Albany Municipal Court.

Lowell Jensen, assistant district attorney prosecuting 155 of the sit-ins, began going back over some of the details of Savio's day and a half of testimony.

He also determined that Savio once flunked a German course and got incomplete grades in chemistry and philosophy.

Savio explained that the free speech activities got in the way of chemistry and philosophy but he had now completed his philosophy work. He intends to get the chemistry done when he reenters the Berkeley university next year.

Savio also conceded under Jensen's questioning that he instructed the 773 students who spent the night in Sproul Hall, last December 2, that they should "go limp" when police arrested them.

"I was aware," said the student leader, "it would delay police somewhat from removing them from the building."

"Were you lying there on the floor shouting and yelling?" the prosecutor asked.

"I was not being listened to when I tried to find out if I was under arrest," Savio said, "so I spoke to be heard."

The trial is before Municipal Court ~~Judge~~ Rupert Crittenden.

Savio's Name Switch Told at Sit-in Trial

The prosecution revealed yesterday at the Berkeley sit-in trial that Mario Savio has used other names.

During his direct testimony three days ago, the lanky Free Speech Movement leader said his name was simply Mario Savio.

Yesterday, however, Deputy District Attorney Lowell Jensen produced a baptismal certificate from New York dated January 24, 1943 giving Savio's name as Mario Robert Savio.

Jensen also asked Savio if he had used the name Robert Richard Savio while attending college in New York.

"Yes, I did," Savio replied.

Savio explained from the witness stand that he had not attached much importance to it when first asked his name.

"There were important things I was testifying to," he said.

Savio and 154 other University of California students are standing trial before Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden for their part in the mass sit-ins at Sproul Hall on the Berkeley campus last December 2-3.

Cites First Amendment

Savio--Sit-in May Be Legal

By H. W. Kusserow

Student sit-ins in university buildings may be legal under the First Amendment of the U. S. Constitution, Mario Savio, leader of the defunct Free Speech Movement at the University of California, said today.

He said UC had no right to single out an individual student for discipline for sitting-in and blocking the entrance to the dean's office in Sproul Hall last Oct. 1.

HE ADDED the sit-in may eventually be ruled legal under the Constitution.

Savio, under cross-examination as a defendant in the Berkeley sit-in trial, didn't vote last Nov. 3, although Assistant District Attorney Lowell Jensen said the student claimed to be "vitally concerned" about national and international affairs.

Jensen put the question to Savio, 22, Tuesday afternoon as the former FSM general continued on the stand before Berkeley Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden in the trial of 155 Sproul Hall sit-in demonstrations.

The defense objected, but Jensen made it clear he was trying to "impeach the state of mind" of the University of California radical militants during last fall's free speech crisis.

JUDGE CRITTENDEN overruled the objection and Jensen asked, "Did you vote?"

"I did not," Savio admitted, but did not go into detail.

Chief defense counsel Malcolm Burnstein told newsmen during a recess that Savio didn't vote because he had been a day late securing an absentee ballot, being out of the state on Nov. 3.

Savio continued to testify on how he had been disturbed at Berkeley's new political advocacy and activities rules laid down last Sept. 14.

He was most upset, he said, at stipulations barring students from on-campus fund-solicitation, advocacy and activities for off-campus organizations.

The rules dealt a blow to civil rights movements, he said—particularly CORE and SNCC, the group to which he belongs.

HE ALSO said such rules barred students from actively involving themselves even with key state issues—such as Proposition 14, which he vehemently opposed.

Savio added that when students were barred from placing political activity tables at the Bancroft Way-Telegraph Avenue entrance to UC-Berkeley they had recourse to city property.

The Berkeley Police Department informed them they could set up only three tables at the entrance—instead of the six to 10 they had been allowed previously, he claimed.

CONCERNING formation of the Campus Committee on Political Activities, Savio said the FSM, in a "bargaining session" with the administration Oct. 14, had made it clear it would not go along with the committee if it were set up on a 4-4-4 ratio of students-faculty-administration.

FSM wanted it 6-6-6 with FSM to have four of the six student delegates.

He said he knew that having four FSM members on the student delegation would mean that FSM would have "effective veto power."

DURING THE day, Savio and another FSM leader, Bettina Aptheker, issued a joint statement on statements by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover concerning Communist activity in the UC campus crisis.

It said in part:

"We find Mr. Hoover's statements . . . patently absurd. It once again indicates Mr. Hoover's inability to grapple with and understand that there were real issues confronting the students at the University of California."

Savio Says Letters Lifted From Files

By TOM KNOX

Former FSM leader Mario Savio yesterday testified two letters were taken from the files of University President Clark Kerr last October without Kerr's knowledge.

The letters were taken from the files "by someone in President Kerr's office," Savio admitted under cross-examination. He said he could not remember the person's name.

Published in part in the Nov. 5 "Daily Californian," the two letters were addressed to the Regents and dealt with campus regulations on political activity.

One of the letters, bearing the typewritten name of Kerr, but not signed by him, proposed a change in rules to prohibit on-campus recruitment of students for unlawful off-campus action.

Kerr immediately repudiated the contents of the letter adding it was never submitted to the Regents.

In spite of the repudiation, the letter became the basis of FSM charges of administration bad faith.

Deputy District Attorney Lowell Jensen's cross-examination also delved into the source of FSM funds.

Savio testified money came "from funds collected at tables wherever political rules allowed tables to be set up. Also at rallies."

Savio also told the court no attorneys were "retained" by the FSM prior to the Dec. 3 sit-in at Sproul Hall. Several lawyers did act as "advisors" however, he added.

Savio will resume the stand in cross-examination tomorrow.

He is one of 155 demonstrators being tried for their part in the Dec. 3 sit-in at Sproul Hall.

Subversives in FSM, FBI Chief Contends

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Forty-three persons with "subversive backgrounds" took part in the so-called free speech demonstrations last fall at the University of California, according to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

According to testimony released Monday, Hoover told a recent House appropriations subcommittee hearing that the 43 included five faculty members, whom he did not identify.

He said the demonstrations on the Berkeley campus of the university were not orginated or controlled by Communists, but that they were "exploited by a few Communists for their own end."

He said that Mario Savio, a student leader and spokesman for the Free Speech Movement, had associated with a member of the "Marxist - oriented" W.E.B. Dubois Club of Berkeley.

Hoover did not refer to Savio as a "subversive" in published testimony. But he said Savio had traveled with Bettina Aptheker on a tour of midwestern and eastern colleges to seek financial backing for students arrested in the demonstrations.

Miss Aptheker was Savio's "close adviser" on the tour, Hoover said. He identified her as a member of the W.E.B. Dubois Club and as the daughter of Herbert Aptheker.

Savio and Miss Aptheker were the only two persons associated with the Berkeley demonstrations whom Hoover mentioned by name in published testimony before the subcommittee headed by Rep. John J. Rooney, D-N.Y.

Hoover gave detailed information about Savio's background after telling the committee that "rioting and picketing recently at the University of California at Berkeley demonstrated disrespect for authority."

Savio Admits His Grade Points Down

By LARI BLUMENFELD

Cross examination of Mario Savio, the ex-leader of the former Free Speech Movement, continued today.

Savio, whose direct testimony on the events leading up to his arrest Dec. 3 in Sproul Hall, ended at the noon hour yesterday, is undergoing painstaking, exhaustive questioning by Deputy District Attorney Lowell Jensen.

The former UC student's sometimes glib answers are met with cutting rebuttals by Jensen.

An example during the one-hour afternoon session yesterday concerned Savio's actual arrest around 4 a.m. on Dec. 3.

Q. "And were you laying on the floor?"

A. "I was lying on the floor."

Q. "We'll get to the subject of your 'lying' later, Mr. Savio."

Jensen's questioning of Savio began with a resume of where he lived during the initial formation of the FSM group and his grades at UC.

Savio said he entered the University in the fall semester of 1963 and received incompletes in chemistry and philosophy at the end of the spring semester, 1964. He said he was a philosophy major, though for a brief period took pre-med courses.

Q. "Were your grade points up or down?"

A. "Down, because I had the two incompletes."

Q. "Did you have to repeat any courses?"

A. "Oh, yes, German."

Q. "You mean you flunked German?"

A. "That's right."

Prior to this line of questioning Jensen delved into Savio's employment by the University of California after the Oct. 2 demonstration in which a UC police department car was held captive 32 hours.

Savio said he had been hired as a reader in the philosophy department, reading and grading final papers. He was not a student at the time, having been "indefinitely suspended" by former Chancellor Edward Strong.

Savio concurred with Jensen that he did raise his voice in talking to UC Lt. Merle Chandler when he tried to obtain permission for the admittance of Attorney Alex Hoffman prior to his arrest. He said he became "irritated, angry, and no longer amicable" when Lt. Chandler continued to answer his request in the same manner.

Q. "And when you left did you say, 'God damn you' to Lt. Chandler?"

A. "I may have."

Savio said it would be a "fair interpretation" to say he "went limp" when an unidentified police officer "edged" him down the stairs following the confrontation with Lt. Chandler.

He admitted under questioning to urging other demonstrators to go limp.

Savio couldn't remember whether he had manned tables on Sept. 29 as he had told the Heyman Committee on Student Conduct.

"I'm sure I did on the 30th," he said, "but I'm confused about the 29th."

Trial proceedings are being held in Veterans' Memorial Bldg. Auditorium, 1931 Center St., before Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden. It is a non-jury trial.

CROSS EXAMINATION

Mario Savio, under cross examination in the trial of 159 demonstrators in the Dec. 3 Sproul Hall sit-in, today recalled the events ~~that led~~ up to the police car entrapment of Oct. 1.

Savio told of petitioning the Dean of Students office with some 500 signatures, asking that disciplinary action be taken against those signing as well as the five who were given suspensions for breaking UC regulations on campus political activity.

Some of the 500 who had signed had not actually participated in the breaking of University rules, and were asking to be disciplined without having been engaged in actual violation. However Savio maintained that those signing were "jointly manning" the tables where collections were being taken.

It's Mario Robert Savio

By JAN FABER

Both names and frames were the subject of the probing, sometimes poking, questioning of Mario Savio yesterday in the trial of the Sproul Hall demonstrators of Dec. 2-3.

In a bandy of questions and answers Prosecuting Attorney Lowell Jensen, referring to prior testimony from Savio, asked if his full name was indeed Mario Savio.

This line of questioning at long length succeeded in proving that Savio's full name, according to his baptismal certificate, is Mario Robert Savio.

In the afternoon session Jensen read to the court the statement made by former Chancellor Edward Strong in Sproul Hall Dec. 3.

Strong had read this statement to the demonstrators on each floor of Sproul Hall just prior to the arrests.

The statement identified the Chancellor to the demonstrators and then informed them their assemblance in Sproul Hall was illegal; that it "seriously impaired the workings and purposes of the University"; that such action "would not be tolerated anywhere in our society"; and concluded "Please go."

The statement also alluded to two claims:

- The University administra- was always open to hear grievances.
- The administration had exercised considerable restraint in using their "legitimate authority" to constrain campus political activity.

When asked what his reaction was as he listened last Dec. to Strong's words, Savio replied, "I could not help but to be dismayed at their hypocrisy."

Savio later expounded his thoughts.

He told the court of the "difficulty" throughout the entire fall semester of negotiating with the University.

Even when all people below President Clark Kerr in the University hierarchy had failed to achieve a solution, direct discussion with Kerr was never forthcoming, Savio said.

"It was [illegible] could [illegible] interpretations of the edicts of the administration," Savio continued, "but never could the real issue of the rules themselves be seriously discussed."

Savio cited the use of police force against students at least twice last fall (the suspension of the eight students in November, and the arrest of Jack Weinberg) as instances which render hypocritical Strong's allusions to the University's "restraint of the use of their legitimate authority."

This testimony was entered as a factor of Savio's frame of mind during the Dec. 2-3 sit-in.

In further questioning Savio was asked if in setting up tables last semester, he had intended to purposely violate University rules.

"By setting up tables we only intended to continue those actions which we had freely engaged in over the last years," Savio testified. "It so happened that since Sept. 14 such action violated University rules, but this was not our purpose."

Constitutional rights became the topic of inquiry as Savio was asked if it was his feeling that right of petition had been denied by the administration.

Though petitions from student organizations were received by the administration last semester, Savio testified, he could not see that any "right" had been granted.

"I see the right of petition as including a response," he continued.

The defense will call their next witness to the stand when court convenes at 10 a.m. today.

MARIO SAVIO appeared at the Berkeley Resident Agency at 4:05 pm in connection with the investigation of an extortion case wherein SAVIO is the victim of threatening letters. SAVIO was accompanied by ALEXANDER HOFFMAN. SAVIO made a remark when entering the Resident Agency, "So this is the Federal Bureau of Inquisition". SAVIO was immediately advised that he was in the Berkeley Resident Agency of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and interviewing Agents identified themselves as Special Agents of the FBI. SAVIO was advised that the FBI is in possession of letters which threaten him with physical harm and that the interview was in connection with this extortion case.

SAVIO was asked why Mr. HOFFMAN accompanied him and SAVIO stated "ALEX is just a friend". After asking HOFFMAN if he was representing SAVIO as an attorney, HOFFMAN stated he was "here to help MARIO". After three direct questions regarding the status of HOFFMAN and his reason for accompanying SAVIO, HOFFMAN stated "I am MARIO's attorney and I am here to advise or help him in any way I can".

A careful explanation was made to SAVIO and HOFFMAN regarding FBI jursidiction and responsibility in the extortion matter.

SAVIO was then advised that the FBI could not vouch for the confidential matter of information if a third party is present and therefore, preferred not to discuss this matter in the presence of Mr. HOFFMAN.

SAVIO stated he would "trust ALEX with his life" and was willing to tell HOFFMAN anything. SAVIO was advised that this was his privilege, however, we preferred not to discuss the matter in the presence of a third party.

SAVIO declined to cooperate in the interview and was intent on bringing extraneous matters into the interview. He attempted to cite his experience with University of California (UC) officials during the FSM controversy during the Fall of 1964, and Spring of 1965, as a rule of procedure for this interview.

SAVIO was advised courteously, but firmly that this interview pertained to the extortion case and unrelated matters were not germaine.

SAVIO then attempted to launch into a critisism of the Justice Department and the FBI for "failure to make arrests and take action in the South where human rights are being violated everyday."

SAVIO was again reminded of the nature of the interview and was firmly advised that the FBI has and will continue to fulfill its investigative and jurisdictional responsibilities in every case.

It was suggested to SAVIO and HOFFMAN that no reason existed to prolong the interview unless SAVIO wished to furnish any information he might have regarding the extortion letters. SAVIO opined that he could furnish no information. HOFFMAN stated to SAVIO "I think we should respect the policy presented by these Agents and terminate the interview". The interviewing Agents agreed with this conclusion and respectively suggested to SAVIO that we would appreciate his help in this extortion case and would attempt in every way to determine the identity of the person or persons who prepared and mailed the threatening letters.

As SAVIO and HOFFMAN were leaving the Resident Agency, SAVIO made a rather feeble apology for his"contemptuous language" upon his arrival at the Resident Agency.

On a Honeymoon

The Savios Get Time Off

Student firebrands Mario Savio and Suzanne Goldberg were on a brief honeymoon today.

Due back in court for the continuing Berkeley sit-in trials, they were granted an unofficial excuse by understanding officials.

The youthful leaders of the now defunct Free Speech Movement at the University of California were married at the Beverly Hills home of Municipal Judge Jerome Pacht.

SAVIO, 22, and Miss Goldberg, 24, met at a campus sit-in last September. Both were members of the FSM's executive committee, and both have been arrested several times.

Rumors of their romance had repeatedly spread through the marathon trial.

Savio quit UC, but plans to return this summer to major in math and physics. Both he and his wife are brilliant students. She has a master's degree in philosophy and will study for her doctorate.

THEY PLAN to live in an apartment in Oakland and, Savio shrugged, "It looks like we can't go on a honeymoon for a long time."

His parents, Joe and Dora Savio, were at the wedding. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goldberg of Westport, Conn., phoned their congratulations.

Her father is a New York attorney.

The "I dos," as might be expected, didn't still political passions.

There's one thing we'd really like to have as a wedding present," Savio said. "We would like President Johnson to withdraw all our troops from Vietnam and from the Dominican Republic. Very little would make us happier."

FSM Leader Testifies

Savio Recalls October Days

By TOM KNOX

Mario Savio relived the frantic October days of the police car sit-around yesterday, as he took the stand in the trial of himself and his fellow Sproul Hall sit-ins.

A noon rally had been planned the day non-student Jack Weinberg was arrested by campus police for soliciting funds against University regulations, Savio told the court, and consequently numerous students were in the area.

Savio described the student reaction to the arrest: "Some moved to sit in front of the police car, others behind it, and others to the sides."

Both he and ASUC President Charlie Powell spoke from the top of the auto, Savio remembered.

Following the speeches, "We went to the dean's office . . . and from there to see the Chancellor," the FSM leader recalled.

"Charlie Powell said he was trying to use the good offices of his presidency to bring the Chancellor and demonstrators together," Savio testified.

At the meeting with then Chancellor Strong, Savio told the court, "I then explained we wanted charges against suspended students dropped, we wanted Jack released, and we wanted to enter into negotiations on the subject of student political rights."

"What was Chancellor Strong's reaction," the defense counsel asked.

"'No,'" replied Savio.

On Oct. 2, student leaders of the incipient FSM met with President Kerr and Chancellor Strong in the President's office at University Hall. At that time, Savio testified, Kerr proposed a four point plan.

- students cease the unlawful demonstration and free the automobile.
- a faculty-student-administration committee would be set up to consider the problem of political expression.
- an Academic Senate committee would consider the cases of students under University discipline.
- Jack Weinberg would be released on his own recognizance and the University would not press charges.

Objection to Kerr's first point, Savio said he had insisted it applied only to the present demonstration and not be restrictive of any future demonstrations which might be unlawful.

Strong and Kerr then left the room and FSM leaders pondered the offer, Savio said.

MARIO SAVIO, former leader of the Free Speech Movement, University of California, Berkeley, spoke during the early morning of May 22, 1965, at the Vietnam Day Community Meeting, May 21-22, 1965, University of California, Berkeley, California. Before making his speech, SAVIO said that MIKE KLEIN, who may be identical to MICHAEL LOUIS KLEIN, had an announcement to make.

KLEIN urged all in attendance to proceed with him to the local draft board, located about one or two blocks away, to burn their draft cards to evidence their protest against the United States being in Vietnam. He said that this proposed burning of draft cards would take place immediately following the close of the Vietnam Community Day Meeting. He said that he realized that everyone there would not be able to burn their draft cards, but expressed his hope that from one to two thousand people would be on hand to participate in or observe the protest action at the draft board.

MARIO SAVIO said that he did not claim to know the answers about Vietnam, but he did have a lot of questions. He spoke about the American Revolution in 1776 and the French Revolution in 1789 and tried to draw an analogy between the attitudes or spirit of the people of those days with the revolutionary aspects of life in the world of today.

SAVIO said that he did not pretend to be an authority in world affairs, but had found that drastic changes were necessary at the University of California and that he and others had done much towards rectifying the oppression of the University of California Administration through their demands and their work in the Free Speech Movement. He indicated that he felt that the same kind of action is needed to make sure that the Government of the United States conducts itself properly.

Judge to Fix New Savio Court Date

BERKELEY — Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden will try again Tuesday to refer Mario Savio and other convicted University of California sit-in demonstrators to the probation department for pre-sentence reports.

Savio, 22, his wife, the former Suzanne Goldberg, 26, and several others scheduled to make personal court appearances Friday for referral were absent. The Savios reportedly were in New York and short of travel money.

Judge Crittenden ordered bench warrants with $550 bail for absentees Mona Hutchin, 19, Edward J. Rosenfeld, 25, and Wendel C. Brunner, 19, to be issued Tuesday. Defense attorneys said Miss Hutchin was attending a school in New York and Brunner was in the south for the Congress of Racial Equality.

With two more convictions Friday, 634 demonstrators have been found guilty of trespassing in Sproul Hall Dec. 3. Of these, 516 also are guilty of resisting arrest.

Crittenden will pass sentences one by one, starting July 19.

Mario Savio, former FSM leader at University of California here, and his wife, the former Suzanne Goldberg, leave court after he was found guilty of trespass in the UC sit-in demonstrations last year. Savio is to be sentenced July 26. Since resigning his FSM leadership, Savio has worked at UC as a research assistant in physics. Howard Jeter, a San Francisco school teacher who was arrested in sit-in at Sproul Hall on Dec. 2-3, told the court that attorney Vincent Hallinan would represent him in a jury trial. Sentencing of those found guilty will start Monday and continue through the week.

Approximately 500 persons heard ROBERT KAUFMAN, JOSE NUN, visiting Professor of Political Science from Argentina, SEYMOUR BENJAMIN CHATMAN, Professor of Spanish, University of California, PAUL JACOBS and others condemn the United States "invasion" of Santo Domingo and attack United States foreign policy. JAMES PETRAS was the master of ceremonies of this rally. Following the rally, which was held on the steps of Sproul Hall, Universtiy of California, approximately 300 persons marched behind a simulated coffin which had been covered with black crepe paper. This coffin was carried to the local Selective Service Board 46 - 48, 2199 Bancroft Way, Berkeley, and placed on the counter inside the Social Security Office.

During the demonstration at Selective Service Headquarters, the crowd of demonstrators swelled into the street and local police officers were called to the scene to keep traffic lanes open. The coffin bore a sign, "We mourn the Dominican dead fighting for self-determination" While the demonstration was being carried on at the Local Draft Board, DENIS MOSGOFIAN and RICHARD ROMAN mounted a United States street mail box and urged the crowd to continue their protest against United States foreign policy. ROMAN bitterly, verbally attacked a Berkeley Police Officer, who was photographing the demonstrators. The demonstrators them formed a football type huddle on the sidewalk and began to burn what they alleged were draft cards.

At the center of the crowd of approximately 300 milling persons, an unidentified individual began to count audibly as individuals presented draft cards for burning. Number 30 was the last number heard by the observing Agent.

Mario Savio Guilty —'Leave Me Alone'

Mario Savio, the former Free Speech Movement leader at Cal, was back in the limelight yesterday, but this time he didn't open his mouth.

The young firebrand who delivered dozens of speeches on the steps of Sproul Hall during the University of California demonstrations and was an outspoken commentator in court, stood silently in Berkeley Municipal Court as Judge Rupert Crittenden found him guilty of trespass and ordered him to report to the probation officer for interview.

His jaw thrust aggressively forward, Savio accepted a slip of paper, detailing the time for his appointment and strode poker-faced back to his seat.

Earlier in the Sproul Hall sit-in trial he spent four days on the witness stand—longer than any of the 61 testifying—describing the tumultuous events of last fall. Once he was cited for contempt of court and sent to jail for two days.

Savio was one of the last of the demonstrators to appear before Judge Crittenden although he was the first into Sproul Hall on Dec. 2. He will be the last to be sentenced—on July 26, one week after the bulk of the students learn their fate.

Savio refused to pose for photographs when he arrived with his wife, the former Suzanne Goldberg (also a defendant), and rasped, "Why don't you leave me alone?" when newspapermen approached him.

Since resigning his leadership of the FSM in May and marrying Suzanne, he has worked at UC as a research assistant in physics.

Judge Crittenden completed handing down judgments on the 773 demonstrators yesterday—all were found guilty—and sentencing begins Monday.

All UC Sit-Ins Guilty --Sentencing Is Next

Sentencing begins next Monday for the 773 defendants in the mass "free speech" demonstrators' trial before Berkeley Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden.

He finished handing down judgments on the University of California demonstrators Wednesday.

All 773 were found guilty.

Among the last to be found guilty by Judge Crittenden Wednesday was Mario Savio, the former leader of the defunct organization which garnered many headlines during the UC unrest of the past school year.

He was found guilty of trespass and ordered to report to the probation officer for interview.

Once a ready dispenser of commentary, Savio would only tell newsmen as he arrived, "Why don't you leave me alone?"

Savio and Wife Ordered to Jail

By LARI BLUMENFELD

Free Speech leader-spokesman Mario Savio received a four-month jail sentence for his participation in the mass Sproul Hall sit-in last fall.

Savio, 2, received the stiff jail term when he rejected Berkeley-Albany Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden's probationary terms banning unlawful "sit-ins, lie-ins, walk-ins, or stand-ins."

Scheduled today in court was the sentencing of some 48 defendants who pleaded "no contest" for the Sproul Hall demonstration, the first to be judged with this plea.

The FSM leader's wife, Susanne Goldberg, was given a 45-day jail sentence. She too, refused to accept probation.

JAIL FOR OTHERS

More than 60 per cent of those sentenced by Judge Crittenden took the same stand against his decision and were given a choice of doubled fines or jail sentences.

Meanwhile, seven University of California professors appeared in court unofficially at the end of the long session seeking ways to lie the burden of the $550 appeal bail bond imposed by the court.

John R. Searle, associate professor of philosophy at UC, led the group of professors. He said a petition was now being circulated on the campus and is already signed by 70 professors. The petition asks the Court to release the defendants on their own recognizance, wtih the professors as character references.

Named on the petition so far are defendants Susanne Savio, Kate Coleman, David Kolodney, Lynn Hollander and Roberta Gregory.

Tension marked the afternoon session in court, with the defendant and spectator section at the Veteran's Memorial Building auditorium filled to capacity.

The defendants were taken in groups of 10 for their sentences to be read and each group was represented by one of the battery of defense attorneys, including Richard Buxbaum, Norman Leonard, Stanley Golde and Henry Elson.

Eighteen of the 46 to be sentneced rejected probation and more than half of these were allowed to give brief statements by Judge Crittenden, who looked rested and well after a five-day bout wit ha virus infection.

Three demonstrators said they would not appeal the judge's verdict, one of whom was Hollis Chenery, fined $100 and given a 10-day suspended jail term.

LIGHTEST SENTENCE

The lightest sentence handed out by Judge Crittenden yesterday was a $50 fine and one year probation to Mona Hutchin, Gordon S. Bergsten, and Stewart Gladstone. They accepted the probation terms.

Probation Rejected; Jail Ordered

Generally, Judge Crittenden doubled the fine and/or jail sentences of those who rejected probation.

Savio held a press conference on the Veterans' Building steps following the lengthy, 4-hour afternoon session. He was surrounded by sympatheitic demonstrators and a large press contingent.

"With Amerircan politics in the hands of the morally and intellectually bankrupt," Savio said, both in the courtroom and to the press outside, "rebellion is a positive duty."

His wife Suzanne quoted Thomas Jefferson, "The right to revolution is the right of a free people."

Others receiving jail sentences were Anthony Wilde, 45 days and Syd Stapleton, 30 days.

Those appearing and their sentences were:

Kate Coleman, accepted probation and $150 fine.

Stephanie Coontz, accepted probation, two year probation, $150 fine.

Matthew Hallinan, rejected probation, $300 fine or 30 days in jail.

Edward Rosenfeld, rejected probation, $300 or 30 days.

Wendell Brunner, rejected probation, $200 or 25 days.

Victoria Blickman, accepted probation, one year and $150.

Thomas Sullivan, rejected probation, $250 or 35 days.

Lynne Hollander, rejected probation, $300 or 30 days.

Gary Sugarman, accepted probation, two years and $150.

Brian Turner, accepted probation, two years and 60 days.

Conn Hallinan, rejected probation, $250 or 25 days.

Robert Novick, accepted probation, two years and $50.

Alice Weldon, rejected probation, $100 or 10 days.

Shannon Ferguson, accepted probation, one year, $150 and 10 days.

Roberta Gregory, rejected probation, $350 or 25 days.

David Richardson, rejected probation, $250 or 25 days.

Barbara Silverman, rejected probation, $250 or 25 days.

Jo Freeman, accepted probation, one year, $150.

Stewart Gladstone, accepted probation, one year, $50.

Joann Biasotti, accepted probation, one year, $150.

David Kolodney, rejected probation, $250 or 25 days.

Albert Litewka, rejected probation, $250 or 25 days.

Peter Franke, accepted probation, no appeal, two years, $150 fine.

Stephen Crafts, accepted probation, one year and $50.

Judge Crittenden told the packed audience he would tolerate no outbursts in response to those who made statements. The demonstrators obeyed.

Generally, those who spoke rejected probation on the basis it would curtail their participation in civil rights movements. Conn Hallinan said he sat-in at Sproul Hall because of restrictions and rejected the probation on the same terms.

A rally is planned by the Viet Nam Day Committee on Thursday, with plans set to march from the UC campus to Civic Center Park opposite the Veterans' Building courtroom where another rally will be held.

SENTENCING TODAY

Reckoning for Savio

The hour of reckoning arrives at 2 p.m. today for Mario Savio, leader of the student demonstrations at the University of California last fall.

The 22 year old New Yorker who thundered defiance against authority almost daily from the steps of Sproul Hall on the Berkeley campus last fall will stand before Berkeley Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden to learn his fate.

At the end of a 10 week trial Savio, along with his followers who occupied the administration building at Berkeley on Dec. 2, was found guilty of trespass and resisting arrest.

One of the ringleaders of the student revolt, Michael Rossman, was given a three month jail term before sentencing was delayed by the illness of Judge Crittenden last Tuesday.

After resting at home for six days Crittenden said yesterday he will be back on the bench today.

The second person to be sentenced today will be Savio's wife, the former Suzanne Goldberg, another member of the top policy making committee of the Free Speech Movement and a frequent speaker at noon rallies.

Of the 653 demonstrators found guilty, only 79 have been sentenced so far, two receiving jail terms, seven $200 fines, 69 fines of $150 and one the minimum of a year's probation.

Fifty defendants told the judge they will refuse to accept probation — which Crittenden said he will give all demonstrators — because the conditions limit them to lawful activities.

Savio Set To Protest Probation

Mario Savio, firebrand of last fall's demonstrations at the University of California, isn't going ot take his sentencing sitting down.

He's going to protest.

He and his bride, the former Suzanne Goldberg, were to be sentenced later today.

Both indicated they'll turn down any probation that will restrict their participation in sit-ins, lie-ins, sleep-ins and other protests.

These activities are strictly prohibited under probation ordered by Berkeley Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden.

Savio and Suzanne are among the leaders trying to get most of the more than 700 defendants in Berkeley's mass sit-in trial to reject probation.

Crittenden resumed sentencing today, after an absence since last Wednesday because of the flu.

So far, he's sentenced 91. Thirty-seven have refused probation outright, and most of the others have asked for time to decide.

All were arrested last Dec. 3 in a sit-in at Sproul Hall.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR Thursday, July 29, 1965 3

Two symbols

An exit, entrance, on Berkeley campus

By Harlan Trott
Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

Berkeley

Two men, two symbols, crossed paths on the University of California's Berkeley campus this week.

Arriving was Dr. Roger W. Heyns from Ann Arbor, Mich., ready to tackle his new chancellor's job Oct. 1.

Leaving was Mario Savio, the rebel student leader, who drew a 120-day jail term for trespassing and resisting arrest during the civil strife stirred up by the free-speech movement last December.

To many onlookers, Dr. Heyns is an affable symbol of a hopeful new era in the tumultuous times of one of the world's great universities.

Likewise, many observers hopefully view Mr. Savio's sentencing as the complete and final erasure on a university blackboard crowded for months with controversial writing.

Warm endorsements are being heaped on the University of Michigan man by Dr. Clark Kerr, UC president, and by spokesmen for the regents, faculty, alumni, and student government. Dr. Heyns has served as the University of Michigan's vice-president for academic affairs since 1962.

This takes in just about everyone here except the 773 students now being sentenced in bunches by the court for disturbing the peace and resisting arrest during last winter's Sproul Hall sit-in.

Student-supported campaign was largely successful. Mr. Savio's remander to jail doesn't belie that.

Now the administrative focus is seen to be on needed teaching reform. Dr. Kerr says Dr. Heyns fills the bill because he is considered an outstanding and experienced leader from another great state university and he is said to be the chief architect of Michigan's new residential college system, a plan being given a wider role in California's statewide university program.

Faculty study

(Under the residential college scheme, several highly self-contained colleges are established on a single large university campus.)

The need for educational reform is further highlighted in a recent study by 10 Berkeley professors. They urge that:

- Undergraduates be given lighter course loads, simplified grading, professional advising, less restrictive degree programs, more distinguished professors to teach their courses, and more coherent general education courses.
- Graduate students be offered "reasonable programs" that will let them obtain doctors degrees in three to four years (versus up to eight now), be protected from overwork as teaching assistants, and be accepted by the faculty as "respected junior partners."

These suggestions by the select committee on education at Berkeley are due for some tough evaluation. In this, Dr. Heyns presumably will have a part to play.

Savio Gets 4 Months

By FRED ALLGOOD

Mario Savio was sentenced to four months in jail yesterday for leading the student demonstrations at the University of California last fall.

His wife Suzanne, also a key figure in the Free Speech Movement which organized the all night sit-in at Sproul Hall on the Berkeley campus Dec. 2, got a 45-day jail sentence from Berkeley Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden.

Two other leaders of the sit-in students were ordered jailed, bringing to six the total jail terms handed down to the 773 defendants since sentencing started last week.

Another 18 students were given the option of paying up to $300 in fines or spending 30 days in jail after they refused to accept probation because the terms prohibited them from indulging in unlawful sit-ins.

Ten defendants accepted probation and were fined $150.

Judge Crittenden looked fit after his six day flu-enforced absence from the courtroom. He allowed Savio to read a statement explaining why he rejected probation.

"The terms of probation imply that politically motivated civil disobedience is somehow bad behavior. Far from it.

"With American politics in the hands of the morally and intellectually bankrupt, rebellion is a positive duty," he said.

"If the court means to prescribe how we act politically, it sets itself squarely against the noblest of our heritage," he added.

Suzanne Savio quoted from Thomas Jefferson when she was given permission to address the judge.

"The right to revolution is

"I know your father. He is a very eloquent man," said the judge with a smile. "I hope you'll be brief."

He was, merely stating that he declined probation. He was fined $300 or given a 30-day sentence in jail.

His brother Conn, also declining probation, was fined $250 or had the option of a 25-day jail sentence.

Also jailed by the judge was Brian Turner who got 60 days. A former FSM leader, he is now a senator in the Student Government in Berkeley. Syd Stapleton, a member of the FSM steering committee, received 30 days. All sentences were stayed pending appeal.

BRIAN TURNER
He got 60 days

One of he nine four-letter-men convicted of obscenity last June, Ed Rosenfeld, made a defiant statement rejecting probation.

"If the defendants had chosen to accept probation, the anti-social forces in the community would have won a great victory. But they failed."

Albert Litewka mildly rebuked the judge for provoking defendants by spelling but conditions of probation limiting civil rights activity.

The lightest sentence yesterday wnt to Mona Hutchin, the young co-ed who was arrested on a San Frncisco's cable car last November for insisting on standing up on the outside. She was fined $50.

The box score of sentences to date: jailed 6; fined $300, 15; fined $250, 3; fined $150, 79, fined $50 one; no fine, one.

Sentencing resumes this morning.

Savio Spurns Probation, Handed 120-Day Jail Term

16 Other Demonstrators Also Reject Judge's Terms

BERKELEY — Mario Savio, his wife — the former Suzanne Goldberg — and 16 other convicted Sproul Hall sit-in demonstrators turned down Judge Rupert Crittenden's terms of probation yesterday and drew stiff sentences.

Savio was sentenced to two concurrent 120-day jail terms and his wife drew 45 days on counts of trespassing and resisting arrest.

Judge Crittenden, back on the bench after a battle with the flu, had warned he would hand stiffer terms to those refusing probation.

DECISION RAPPED

Savio denounced the judge's sentences and probation as "a legal crime" and "too harsh" at a press conference on the steps of the Veterans Memorial Building.

Meanwhile, a group of 70 University of California professors launched a campaign to have the students among the defendants released on their own recognizance, which would make the appeal bails, ranging from $220 to $550, unnecessary.

John R. Searle, associate professor of philosophy, said the professors are ready to sign statements saying that students they personally know "are responsible members of the student community."

APPEARANCE GUARANTEE

The statements also would vouch for the students' return to court, when their appeals come up.

Judge Crittenden said at the close of yesterday's session that he is willing to consider these statements. The jurist asked the attorneys for the defendants to present him with the first vouchers today.

Dr. Searle, Benjamin Papermaster, assistant professor of bacteriology; Reginald Zelnik, assistant professor of history; and Charles Dekker, professor of biochemistry, were present in the courtroom and conferred with the defense attorneys after the session.

18 REFUSE TERMS

They were provided with a statement form written by attorney Richard Buxbaum, who urged the professors to sign as many as possible before today's morning session.

Of the 46 convicted demonstrators on yesterday's afternoon calendar, 32 were sentenced and 14 others saw their cases put over.

Of those sentenced, 18 refused to accept the terms of probation forbidding participation in sit-ins, stand-ins and lie-ins for the duration of the probation.

After each defendant stated his objections to the terms, the judge changed the original sentence and imposed a stiffer one.

In Savio's case, the judge had meted out a 90-day jail term and two years' probation, but when Savio refused the terms of probation, the sentence was changed to the 120-day jail term.

"NO SPEECHES"

Judge Crittenden had refused to let defendants give speeches following the July 19 courtroom uproar when Michael Duke rejected the terms of probation. But when defendant Matthew B. Hallinan, 24, asked to address the court, the judge loosened his discipline, but not without a battle.

"You may address the court through your attorney," Judge Crittenden said.

Attorney Norman Leonard responded: "I should like to urge upon the court that Mr. Hallinan has the right to address the court," and he cited a case where the Supreme Court ruled that even the most persuasive attorney cannot convey the full emotion of a defendant in certain instances.

CHANGES ORDER

Judge Crittenden said he recognized this right, adding:

"Orderliness is a prime necessity if we're going to get through with this, so let's just get this thing over with," the judge said, "go head Mr. Hallinan."

Hallinan said he felt the free speech controversy was brought on by the university adminsitration, not by the students. "I feel that I cannot accept any restriction on my rights, and I refuse the terms of probation," Hallinan concluded.

The judge then sentenced him to a $300 fine or 30 days in jail.

Mario Savio also was allowed to make a statement, after the judge urged him to be brief. Savio, in turning down probation, declared that "with American politics presently in the hands of the morally and intellectually bankrupt, rebellion is a positive duty."

'ATTACK ON RIGHTS'

When Suzanne Savio asked to address the court, Judge Crittenden said: "Mr. Savio spoke very eloquently, and aren't husband and wife one?"

Attorney Leonard ignored the jurist's smile and answered that the Savios are before the court as individuals.

Mrs. Savio said in her address to the court that she considered the judge's terms of probation "dangerous and anti-democratic and an attack on the tactics of the civil rights movement."

She quoted Thomas Jefferson as saying that the right to rebel is the first right of a free people, and she added: "If it weren't for that right, we would still be British subjects."

Judge Crittenden then sentenced her to the 45-day jail term.

Several other defendants addressed the court, but few drew comment from the judge.

Savios Expect To Be Three

Mario Savio, Free Speech Movement leader on the Berkeley campus of the University of California, and his bride, Suzanne, are expecting a baby.

This was announced today by Mrs. Susan Stein, FSM spokesman, in a release describing "Operation Fight - Back," a legal move to try to keep Berkeley Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden from setting bail at $550 for defendants appealing convictions resulting from campus sit-ins last winter.

Savio Takes 120 Days, No Probation

Mario Savio, the 22-year-old firebrand who led last year's "free speech" uproar at the University of California, was sentenced yesterday to 120 days in Alameda County Jail for his participation in December's Sproul Hall sit-in.

He elected to decline Berkeley Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden's sentence of two years probation and a 90-day jail term.

Addressing the court before sentence was imposed, Savio said that by rejecting probation, with its prohibitions against illegal sit-ins, lie-ins, stand-ins or similar demonstrations, he was "fighting the same restrictions" that existed at the University of California.

He said he preferred a straight jail sentence because it "might be necessary for defendants to demonstrate against a government that was morally and politically bankrupt."

"I welcome the opportunity to reject probation and to make public the court's purpose . . . which might be in the future to impose severe penalties for acts which are political activity," he said.

"I am also, in a sense, rejecting the coercive State power which acts against the claim of individual liberty."

Savio's 26-year-old bride, the former Suzanne Goldberg, followed her husband's militant lead and also refused to accept two years probation and 30 days in jail. Instead, she was sentenced to two 45-day jail terms to run concurrently.

Altogether, 48 defendants were scheduled to appear before the court yesterday. Fourteen accepted terms of the court and were given the by-now standard penalty of one or two years probation, a $156 fine and a ten-day suspended sentence. Eighteen refused and were either given terms of jail or fined; and 14 did not appear and had their sentencing dates rescheduled.

Among those joining the Savios in declining probation WERE Sidney Stapleton, 19, and the Hallinan brothers, Matthew, 24, and Conn, 22.

Stapleton and Matthew Hallinin were given the choice of a $300 fine or 30 days in jail, while Conn Hallinan received the option of a $250 fine or 25 days in jail.

After refusing probation, the same choice—a $250 fine or 25 days in jail—was offered to Edward Rosenfeld, 25, and Anthony Wilde, 19.

Judge Crittenden, who is recovering from a case of influenza, deferred until August 3 the sentencing of Jacqueline Goldberg, 20, sister of another Free Speech Movement leader, Arthur Goldberg. Judge Crittenden said he had not yet found time to read Miss Goldberg's pre-sentence report from the Alameda County Probation Department.

It is anticipated that about half the 653 demonstrators found guilty by Judge Crittenden of trespassing and resisting arrest may refuse the court's stipulation they must not take part in illegal demonstrations during their probationary periods.

Appeals are being filed in behalf of virtually all of those found guilty.

Seven UC professors, headed by Professor of Statistics Jerzy Newman, sat through the afternoon sessions in the hopes of seeing Judge Crittenden to plead for the release under their own recognizance of defendants planning to appeal.

The professors were unsuccessful. But just before the court adjourned at 5:45 p.m., defense attorney Richard Buxbaum requested that five defendants already sentenced by released without bail. One of the defendants was Mrs. Savio.

The Judge said the request was difficult to comply with; however, he withdrew sentence on the five and said he would impose the same penalty on them today.

This, he said, would give them time to make formal motions for release without bail.

A noon rally was held on the UC campus yesterday to enlist support for the "probation rebels" and another is scheduled for noon Thursday in Berkeley's Civic Center park across from the Veterans Building where court proceedings are under way.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date August 4, 1965

Special Agent [redacted] arrived at the campus of the University of California, Berkeley, at approximately 1:10 p.m. on July 29, 1965.

An unidentified person with a mike was announcing from the steps of Sproul Hall that a rally protesting jail sentences, bonds and probation handed down by Judge CRITTENDEN against students arrested in the Sproul Hall sit-in had just been concluded, and that the persons attending the rally were now marching to the courtroom. He stated that all interested persons were urged to immediately join the protesters at the court in the vicinity of Grove and Center Streets, Berkeley. The rally commenced at the Civic Center Park, which is across the street from the Veterans Memorial Building where the court was supposedly in session, and the general theme was an attack on President JOHNSON, United States foreign policy and United States intervention in Vietnam, as well as denouncing Judge CRITTENDEN for the sentences which he had handed down to convicted students.

MARIO SAVIO spoke and outlined plans for more demonstrations against the court and made an appeal for bail money. SAVIO stated that in October another Vietnam Teach-In will be held at the University of California, after which civil disobedience will occur against United States intervention in Vietnam. He suggested that the Vietnam Day Committee organize a defense committee for the purpose of defending those who will be arrested at that time.

BETTINA APTHEKER was introduced to the crowd and her first comments were that she would like to point out Agent [redacted] of the FBI who was in the crowd. At this point she pointed towards [redacted] and stated, "He has been shadowing me for three

Other speakers were STEPHEN SMALE, ALLEN GINSBERG and PAUL IVY. The last speaker was BARBARA GULLAHORN, who identified herself as Secretary of the Vietnam Day Committee. She stated that the word is out all the radical students in the country are coming to Berkeley in the Fall. She stated it was the responsibility of Vietnam Day Committee to orient these students properly and this they intended to do. She stated that by orientation I don't mean just reading them rules laid down by the Administration.

The rally concluded by most of the persons in attendance milling across the street to the courtroom.

FSM Leaders to Visit England

The Savios to Go Abroad

Mario Savio, the 22-year-old firebrand who led the University of California's student revolt last winter, and his bride, Suzanne, 25, are planning to forsake the Berkeley campus and its environs.

The two young leaders of the now-defunct Free Speech Movement are going to England in the "very near future"—Savio to study and his pregnant wife, to work.

The Savios themselves could not be reached for comment on their plans, but friends said they obtained their passports in New York a few weeks ago. The British consulate here said neither Savio nor his wife had yet made application for work permits, nor for the visas required for a prolonged stay in England.

Savio has, however, spent considerable time in the British Information Service library in recent days.

SENTENCE

Both he and his wife are under sentence for the part they played in last December's Sproul Hall sit-ins. Savio was given a four-month jail term by Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden and Mrs. Savio, 45 days—both for trespassing and resisting arrest.

The Savios are among the 480 sentenced so far who are appealing their convictions. Savio has posted bond of $1100 and Mrs. Savio has put up $550.

APPEAL TIME

It is expected it will take between six and 18 months for the appeals to travel through higher courts and if the appeals fail, the couple will return to Berkeley to serve their jail sentences.

Savio dropped out of UC during the FSM flurry and initially planned to re-enter next month as a junior. He said he planned to switch his major from philosophy to physics or mathematics.

Now, friends say, Savio is uncertain about what he wants to do, and feels a period abroad may help him make a decision.

Mrs. Savio, who already holds a master's degree in philosophy, has been working for her Ph.D.

Savios Going Abroad

Mario and Suzanne Savio are planning to go to England in "the very near future", according to friends, to give the former spokesman of the Free Speech Movement a chance to find himself.

Both are under sentence for their leadership roles in the FSM demonstrations at the University of California last Fall — he for four months and she for 45 days in the Alameda County Jail.

Both are out on appeal and have posted a total of $1,650 bond. It is expected that the appeals will travel to higher courts than the Berkeley-Albany Court of Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden where they were sentenced and that it may be anywhere from six to 18 months before the Savios' next court appearance may be required.

The couple would return to Berkeley in time for future legal action, friends reported.

Friends say Savio will study and Suzanne will work in England, but the British Consulate in San Francisco said neither had applied for work permits or visas, both needed for entry into the country. Reports were that the Savios have obtained passports, however, from U.S. government offices in New York

Savio was a philosophy major at UC when he dropped out due to the full-time demonstrations. He had planned to return to UC to study mathematics or physics, but is now undecided about what he wants to do.

A period abroad — in the classic American tradition — may help him return with fresh perspectives on where he will fit in this society according to friends.

Mrs. Savio has completed her master's degree in philosophy at UC and has been working toward her doctorate. She is now a mother-to-be.

SUBJECT: MARIO R. SAVIO
SM - C

This case has been kept open to determine result of Subject's pending trial in Berkeley Municipal Court. SAVIO was recently convicted on charges resulting from the Free Speech Movement sit-in demonstrations at UC, Berkeley, on 12/3/64. SAVIO was fined and sentenced to 4 months in the Alameda County Jail. His case was appealed and Judge RUPERT CRITTENDEN set bail at $550. Bail was posted by SAVIO and his appeal is pending.

In view of the fact that the appeals in the Free Speech Movement cases may drag through the courts for several months, it is not deemed necessary to keep SAVIO's case pending during the period of appeal. A summary report was prepared on SAVIO in March, 1965. No other leads are outstanding.

Records of the Passport Office, United States Department of State, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, were reviewed by a representative of the Federal Bureau of Investigation on June 10, 1965, and these records reflect that Suzanne Savio applied for a new passport on June 10, 1965. Her address was 2127 Blake Street, Berkeley, California. She was born June 6, 1939, at Brooklyn, New York, and described as:

Height:	5 feet 2 3/4 inches
Hair:	Brown
Eyes:	Brown
Scars and Marks:	None
Occupation:	Student University of California (UC) Berkeley, California

Her parents were listed as Charles Morris Goldberg, born January 3, 1909, in St. Louis, Missouri, and Nettie Spritzer, born June 6, 1912, in New York, New York. Suzanne Savio stated she was married May 23, 1965, to Mario Robert Savio, born December 8, 1942, in New York City. She indicated she wished to travel to England, Italy and France to study. Her purported length of stay was indicated as two years and her date of departure as September, 1965. In case of death or accident the person to be notified was Charles M. Goldberg, father, 17 Sniffen Road, Westport, Connecticut.

Suzanne Savio was formerly issued passport 2268460, issued June 1, 1960, under the name Suzanne Marilyn Goldberg. She had not received a new passport number from the Department of State.

The "Berkeley Daily Gazette" newspaper carried a recent news article which said in part, "Mario and Suzanne Savio are planning to go to England in the very near future to give the former spokesman of the Free Speech Movement a chance to find himself."

MARIO ROBERT SAVIO
SUZANNE SAVIO

On September 14, 1965, it was learned through a suitable pretext by an Agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation that Mario and Suzanne Savio left Berkeley, California, about September 7, 1965, to travel to New York where they boarded an Italian ship to travel to Italy and then to England. The Savios plan to stay in England for six months to one year.

#3 The Free Speech Movement (FSM) was an organization formed at UC, Berkeley, by a group of students and others to protest UC rules and regulations pertaining particularly to recruitment of members, solicitation of funds and distribution of literature for "off-campus" type political organizations. The FSM gained national recognition beginning in September, 1964, when a group of several thousand captured a police vehicle on the UC campus with a prisoner inside the automobile on October 2, 1964. Demonstrations then continued almost daily until a massive sit-in took place in the administration building at UC, Berkeley, on December 2 and 3, 1964, which resulted in the arrest of about 780 persons. Most of these individuals have been convicted in Berkeley Municipal Court of trespassing and resisting arrest and most cases are currently pending appeals.

#5 Mario Savio was convicted in Municipal Court, Berkeley, California, on June 28, 1965, for resisting arrest and trespassing as a result of his arrest in connection with the FSM sit-in December 2 and 3, 1964. Mario Savio was sentenced to 120 days in jail and one year probation. Mario Savio is currently on bail pending appeal.

Suzanne Savio was also convicted of trespassing and resisting arrest and is currently out on bail pending appeal.

#4 Mario Savio was the leading spokesman and leader of the FSM and his wife, Suzanne Goldberg, was extremely active in the FSM. A source advised periodically between September, 1964 and February, 1965, that Mario Savio and Suzanne Goldberg Savio were seen in close conversation with Bettina Aptheker and Robert Paul Kaufman, both active in the FSM.

Mario Savio resigned from his position of leadership in the FSM at a UC rally on April 26, 1965. He gave his reason for his withdrawal from the FSM as "fear that I would become an indispensable part of the FSM" and stated that it appeared the movement would be unable to carry on without him.

On February 11, 1965, Mario Savio participated in a demonstration against U. S. policy in Vietnam at Selective Service Headquarters, 2199 Bancroft Way, Berkeley, California. He signed a "declaration" at this rally of his "refusal to fight against the people of Viet Nam".

Mario Savio led a rally at UC, Berkeley, on February 15, 1965, at which time he called for a sit-in at the office of U. S. Attorney Cecil F. Poole at the Federal Office Building in San Francisco to protest "the Government's failure to aid voter registration in Selma, Alabama". He stated, "that the FBI does nothing except take notes and the Agents have become a group of stenographers."

Mario Savio spoke at a rally on August 20, 1965, at the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union Hall in San Francisco. This rally was held for the purpose of raising funds for the Berkeley FSM defendants who are presently out on bail pending appeal. At this rally, Mario Savio verbally attacked the "Establishment", which according to him includes UC, many community groups, the Governor of the State of California, and the President of the United States.

COMMUNIST INFILTRATION OF THE FIRST UNITARIAN CHURCH OF LOS ANGELES

A source advised on April 29, 1964, that the premises of the First Unitarian Church of Los Angeles have been utilized for meetings by Communist Party members and sympathizers over a period of years. Speakers and lecturers at the church frequently espouse Communist causes or follow the Communist Party line. Communist front group literature is distributed at the church. The church is used by some Communist Party members for "mass concentration" work.

This same infiltration extends to adjuncts of the church such as the Unitarian Public Forum and the Unitarian Fellowship for Social Justice.

STEPHEN H. FRITCHMAN has been minister of the church since 1948.

Reverend STEPHEN H. FRITCHMAN is described in the Fourth Report, Un-American Activities Committee in California, 1948, page 115, as a very active "Communist fronter" and connected with numerous "Communist front organizations and activities."

Membership in the First Unitarian Church does not of itself connote membership in or sympathy with the Communist Party.

W.E.B. DU BOIS CLUBS OF AMERICA - BERKELEY BRANCH;
W.E.B. DuBois Youth Club - Berkeley Chapter;
Berkeley W.E.B. DuBois Club, Berkeley DuBois Club;
East Bay DuBois Club

A source advised on April 12, 1963, that the W.E.B. DuBois Youth Club - Berkeley Chapter, was originated in October 1962, principally through the efforts of MATHEW HALLINAN.

This same source advised in October 1963, that MATHEW HALLINAN was elected as Chairman and Communist Party (CP) Youth Commission Representative of the Berkeley CP On-Campus Youth Club during September 1963.

A second source advised that a leaflet distributed by the Berkeley DuBois Club in September 1964, reflected the name of that organization to be the "W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America - Berkeley Branch."

This same leaflet, under the heading "The DuBois Clubs of America" reads as follows: "The Berkeley DuBois Club is a part of a nation-wide socialist youth organization founded in June of this year. It attempts to bring together those action-oriented youth who consider socialism to be a visible alternative to the ills of this society."

As of April 23, 1965, the Berkeley W.E.B. DuBois Club was registered with the University of California as an "off-campus" membership organization. As such, it could present lectures on campus with prior University permission and was allowed to set up and maintain a literature table on campus.

W.E.B. DU BOIS CLUBS OF AMERICA

A source has advised that on October 26-27, 1963, a conference of members of the Communist Party (CP), including national functionaries, met in Chicago, Illinois, for the purpose of setting in motion forces for the establishment of a new national Marxist oriented youth organization which would hunt for the most peaceful transition to socialism. The delegates to this meeting were cautioned against the germ of anti-Soviet and anti-CP ideologies. These delegates were also told that it would be reasonable to assume that the young socialists attracted into this new organization would eventually pass into the CP itself.

A second conference of over 20 persons met in Chicago on December 28-29, 1963, for the purpose of initiating a "call" to the new youth organization and planning for a founding convention to be held in June 1964.

A second source has advised that the founding convention for the new youth organization was held from June 19-21, 1964, at 150 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California, at which time the name W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America was adopted. Approximately 500 delegates from throughout the United States attended this convention. The aims of this organization, as set forth in the preamble to the constitution, are, "It is our belief that this nation can best solve its problems in an atmosphere of peaceful co-existence, complete disarmament and true freedom for all peoples of the world, and that these solutions will be reached mainly through the united efforts of all democratic elements in our country, composed essentially of the working people allied in the unity of Negroes and other minorities with whites. We further fully recognize that the greatest threat to American democracy comes from the racist and right wing forces in coalition with the most reactionary sections of the economic power structure, using the tool of anti-Communism to divide and destroy the unified struggle of the working people. As young people in the forces struggling for democracy, we shall actively strive to defeat these reactionary and neo-facist elements and to achieve complete freedom and democracy for all Americans, thus enabling each individual to freely choose and build the society he would wish to live in. Through these struggles we feel the American people will realize the viability of the socialist alternative."

The constitution further states that this new organization shall be a membership organization open to individuals, or if five or more people so desire a chapter can be formed which shall in turn be guided by the policies and principles of the parent organization.

The second source advised in April 1965 that the headquarters of the organization continues to be located at 1853 1/2 McAllister Street, San Francisco, California.

Both sources have advised that at the founding convention two officers were elected:

PHILIP CHAPIN DAVIS - President

CARL ELLENGER BLOICE - Publications Chairman

A third source has advised that on October 26, 1962, PHILIP DAVIS attended a CP recruiting class held at 1579 Scenic Avenue, Berkeley, California.

A fourth source has advised that CARL BLOICE, reporter for the "People's World" newspaper, was, on April 3, 1964, elected to the newly organized San Francisco County Committee of the CP.

The "People's World" is a west coast communist newspaper published weekly in San Francisco, California.

Crittenden Ailing; Sentencing Delayed

Sentencing of Free Speech Movement defendants was cut short here yesterday afternoon when Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden was ordered to bed for a virus infection by his doctor.

The magistrate was unable to preside at the afternoon session. Municipal Judge Floyd Talbott substituted long enough to continue the 63 cases before the court to Friday, July 30 at 2 p.m.

Judge Crittenden has been "battling a bug" over the weekend, his wife said, which "caught up to him yesterday." His doctor ordered bed rest and treated him for fever.

Mrs. Crittenden said he hopes to resume sentencing tomorrow.

Meanwhile, it was like old times at the University of California today with much the same issues, battle cries, noon rallies and pamphlets that kept the Berkeley campus in an uproar throughout last fall.

The new rally was kindled by growing numbers of students unhappy over sentences against convicted demonstrators by Judge Crittenden for their part in the Dec. 2-3 sit-in at Sproul Hall.

Judge Crittenden placed all defendants on one or two years probation on grounds they do not during that time participate in "illegal sit-ins, walk-ins, stand-ins, or lie-ins."

Two leaders of the Free Speech Movement, which led last fall's revolt and then disbanded, distributed leaflets to the defendants Tuesday. The leaflets, handed out by Mario Savio and Jack Weinberg, argued against accepting the probation terms.

The campaign appeared to be bearing fruit as 37 of 91 defendants so far sentenced during the first two days have refused probation. These cases were put over until next week.

It looked and sounded like Fall 1964 all over again yesterday on the UC campus when more than 400 students gathered for a rally in support of pleas from Free Speech Movement defendants to protest or reject probation terms meted out by Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden. Second theme of the rally was U.S. commitment in Viet Nam.

Savio Debates Scholarships

Mario Savio, leader of last semester's Free Speech Movement, is in England, trying to decide whether to accept a scholarship from Oxford University or one from the University of London.

The latter is in physics and the former in philosophy, said Susan Stein, who recently received a letter from Savio.

Mrs. Stein was also active in the FSM.

When she received the letter, Savio and his wife of four monhs, Susan Goldberg Savio, were living with a friend in London, Mrs. Stein said.

Savio may have decided by now which scholarship to take, she said. School starts there in November.

Savio Applies At UC

Mario Savio, a leader of the now-defunct Free Speech Movement at the Berkeley campus, has applied for readmission to the University of California.

Savio and his wife, the former Suzanne Goldberg, returned to Berkeley last week after spending the past year in England. Before leaving UC on a fellowship, Savio said he planned to return and switch his major from philosophy to physics or mathematics.

The former leader of the Free Speech Movement is free on bail pending the appeal of his conviction for trespassing during the UC sit-in demonstrations of 1964.

Friends said Savio intends to stay out of political activity.

Savio Asks Re-admission

Mario Savio, now 23, the former leader of the Free Speech Movement at the University of California, has applied for readmission to UC, according to reports today.

Friends say Savio, married to another FSM, leader, the former Suzanne Goldberg, and the father of an infant son, will stay out of political activity to pursue a degree in physics or mathematics.

Savio returned to Berkeley at the same time the Viet Nam Day Committee celebrated its first anniversary with a sparsely-attended protest rally on campus. About 500 persons turned out to hear a series of speakers. It was a year ago that the VDC sponsored an "International Days of or Protest" weekend on campus attended by thousands.

Savio and his wife left Berkeley shortly after appealing their convictions in the massive trial of more than 700 demonstrators arrested in the Sproul Hall sit-ins of December, 1964, and lived in England for a year.

Savio was back in town last week and was said to be intent on resuming his UC studies.

Mario Savio Returns to Berkeley

Mario's back in town.

To the uninitiated, those new to Berkeley, or any person who was living in a cave during the winter and spring of 1964-65, Mario is Mario Savio, the fiery student leader of the University of California Free Speech Movement.

Savio, then a junior student at UC, emerged as the most articulate spokesman for the new student generation, and became a specialist in delivering fierce orations, liberally sprinkled with quips and puns, from the tops of automobiles, the heads of long lines of marching students, and —of course—the steps of Sproul Hall.

Savio, a native of New York whose parents live in Southern California, threatened in the name of UC students protesting procedures governing political activities on campus, to "bring the wheels of the university grinding to a halt."

Leading thousands of students into Sproul Hall, the UC administration building, the night of Dec. 3, 1964 Savio almost succeeded.

Now known as the "Berkeley revolution," the Free Speech Movement ended after an unprecedented mass trial, held at the Berkeley Veterans Building, and considered the largest mass trial in the history of recorded American jurisprudence.

Judge Rupert Crittenden, who won praise for his handling of the trial, died at the age of 53 last month.

After the trial, at which almost all of more than 700 defendants were convicted of misdemeanor offenses, Savio and his wife, the former Suzanne Goldberg, went to England where Savio was last reported studying at a univeristy there.

Savio was seen yesterday, with his wife and young son by UC Journalism Professor Peter Steffens, who noted that the former FSM leader seemed heavier, wore clothing similar to that he wore before, and still had a full head of bushy hair.

The 'New Mario Savio' Wants Independent Party

SUZANNE SAVIO AND SON STEFFAN
"Permanent residents of the Bay Area"

By LYNN LUDLOW

Mario Savio wants to help organize an independent radical political party in the East Bay.

The young man who led the nation's most convulsive student revolt is disappointed today in the protest tactics of the past, the marches and demonstrations aimed at arousing moral indignation.

Power, he said, is more effective.

Savio disclosed his aspirations and theories in his only interview in the two months since he returned with wife and baby boy to become "permanent residents of the Bay Area."

ILLS OF SOCIETY

He was as vague about personal events of the past year as he was specific about such issues as leftist politics, educational reform, public leadership and the ills of society.

His bushy hair is even bushier now, but he no longer affects the fleece-lined rancher's coat that was an inevitable part of his rebel costume during the mass sit-ins, mass arrests and mass trials of the Free Speech Movement of 1964-65

So far he has remained in seclusion, a theorist instead of the activist leader who became a symbol of extremist discontent among the nation's new generation.

HALF-SERIOUS

He won't make public appearances even for causes he supports, but a goodly number of University of California students continue to regard him, in the half-serious words of one FSM veteran, as "Mario, our Savio."

It is a role that Savio says he detests. He blames the newspapers.

"To focus on personalities rather than on issues is to obscure the issues and encourage the least democratic sentiments of the public," he said.

Unless public leaders live outside the limelight, Savio worries, they are tempted "into confusing their personal destinies with their political role — and therefore into using the political arena to act out solutions to their personal psychological quirks."

A desire to prevent becoming a dictator was the reason given by Savio in April of 1965 when he abruptly quit the FSM.

In May he married another FSM leader, Suzanne Goldberg.

In July he was sentenced to four months in jail for leading the Sproul Hall sit-in of Dec. 2-3, 1964, in which 773 demonstrators were arrested. At the same time, UC had granted most FSM demands.

He left with Suzanne in September for England, where he enrolled as a physics student at St. Catherine's College of Oxford University. He dropped out four weeks later "for reasons only peripherally connected with education." He wouldn't give the reasons.

In February the Savios returned to the United States for a long visit with his parents in New York City. They decided to return to the Bay Area in May, and with them is Steffan Savio, 7 months. Their sit-in appeals are still in the courts

He described as incorrect an earlier report that he has re-applied for admission to UC, where he would be a 24-year-old junior. He may reapply next year, he said, and then again, maybe he won't.

When informed that his readmission is opposed by Max Rafferty, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Savio just smiled.

It was the kind of smile

His Status Now

Mario Savio was never officially penalized by University of California authorities for his role in the Free Speech Movement of late 1964, although he never returned to his classes.

He was registered as a junior in September, but before he could file a study list — necessary registration step—he was put on suspension by then-Chancellor Edward Strong on Sept. 30.

Savio's suspension, one of eight following the first sit-in Sept. 30, was later changed to probation on recommendation of President Clark Kerr, with the consent of the UC Board of Regents.

Subsequent disciplinary action against Savio and other FSM leaders led to the mass Sproul Hall sit-in of Dec. 2. Five days later, Kerr granted amnesty to them because of the sit-in arrests.

Before the end of the semester, Savio was permitted to withdraw from UC as of Sept. 30. He had not attended classes for three months.

His Opinions Now

Mario Savio offered opinions on a full range of questions during a lengthy interview with Examiner writer, Lynn Ludlow.

Answers included the following comments:

ON FATHERHOOD:

"Becoming a father doesn't make me less angry at how society harms growing children through their families, but it makes me much more sensitive to how very difficult it is to avoid hurting one's children in some way—just by being a parent.

"This helps me to regard with greater sympathy those whom I consider political enemies because they, too, were little children at one time and are not less victims of an ill society."

ON VIETNAM:

"The war is only the most excruciating instance of what's wrong with society."

ON THE DRAFT:

"My view is summed up by that button you can get on the campus."

(The button, on sale for 35 cents, says: "War Is Good Business—Invest Your Son.")

"It's clear that if investment in war production were to be ended rapidly and soon, the U.S. economy would be, at least over the short run, crippled."

ON CIVIL RIGHTS:

"It's become very clear that the techniques of the past are not going to win for Negroes the kind of gains projected now. . . .

"Picketing the Seawolf in Jack London Square isn't really going to get many jobs for Negroes. What's important now is to gain political power for Negroes."

ON FRUSTRATION OF RADICAL THINKERS:

"It happens (a reference to a question about some student radicals who become so hopeless about change that they become helpless). It must be seen in the context of a society which has so structured its institutions as to make dissent entirely irrelevant."

ON POLITICAL PARTIES:

"Of the two, the less impervious to progressive political ideas, the Democratic Party, is in no sense committed to a political program that is publicly discussed.

MARIO SAVIO

"In California, large numbers of people have no place to go.

"The Republican Party can be moved more easily to the right, as was demonstrated by Goldwater and Reagan, than the Democratic Party can be moved left."

ON COMMUNISM:

"The reason that FSM spokesmen were consciously determined not to discuss the Communist issue was because it was clearly irrelevant to the civil liberties questions involved and would have served only to make all the easier an attempt by the press to deal with the most sensational issues. . . .

"It's bad to be an unthinking anti-Communist, as many of our countrymen are. It's also bad to be an unthinking anti-anti-Communist, to refrain on all occasions from criticizing Communists. I think they should be treated like Republicans and Democrats."

that Leo Nomellini might wear if challenged to a fight by, say, Mario Savio.

NON-STUDENT

Savio, the valedictorian of his high school in Queens and a student at Manhattan and Queens colleges before he came to UC in 1963, has no immediate plans to change his status as a non-student.

During the FSM tumult, he was allowed to withdraw retroactively from classes.

UC officials have said that Savio, if he re-applies, will be handled "as any other student."

He is looking for odd jobs, and he has tended bar in a beer hall for the radical crowd, labored at yard work and written a piece for Harper's Magazine.

TIRED, THIN

To complete this, the sort of personal account that Savio dislikes so intensely, it should be reported that he looks tired, thin and, at times, uneasy.

He repeatedly uttered this remark: "You can't become a man until you perceive your independent power."

In discussion of the independent powers to be achieved by a new political party, Savio talks about "black power" and its manifestation as the Black Panther Party of Lowndes County, Alabama.

"The use of the tactics of mass sit-ins, mass arrests, etc., has diminished because the other side always has the ultimate weapon, courts," he said.

It is clear that Savio. many other political fig of the hither left wing longer has much liking the gentle forms of civil bedience advocated by tin Luther King and Ba Rustin.

"It's no longer serio believed that whites, if see you kneeling in streets, will open their he and pocketbooks," he sai "The naivete is gone."

Rafferty Objects to Savio's Return to UC

Savio Hasn't Asked to Be Re-Admitted

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Dr. Max Rafferty says University of California Regents would be "nuts", if they permitted the readmission to the Berkeley campus of Mario Savio, leader of the Free Speech Movement.

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction said in a letter to Board of Regents Chairman Theodore Meyer Friday that "rumor and the daily press", indicated Savio, leader of the 1964 student demonstrations which rocked the campus, "is about to be readmitted."

However, Meyer responded in a telegram to Rafferty which said, "I am advised that Mr. Savio has not applied for readmission to the Berkeley campus."

Rafferty, who called Savio "ineffable," said in his letter, "if we let this character back in, we've got to be nuts."

Rafferty, himself a regent, said Savio changed the "respected image of the university a few months ago to that of a baggy-pants slapstick comedian." He said that if Savio were readmitted, "I suggest that we regents submit ourselves forthwith to group psychotherapy."

Savio returned to Berkeley recently after a year's study in London, and indicated that he might apply for readmission to the University.

He was the leader of the December, 1964, sit-in in Sproul Hall, that provoked a number of sweeping proposals by the administration, the faculty, and students for revamping the University's educational system.

The young man who led the nation's most convulsive student revolt is disappointed today in the protest tactics of the past, the marches and demonstrations aimed at arousing moral indignation.

Power, he said, is more effective.

Savio disclosed his aspirations and theories in his only interview in the two months since he returned with wife and baby boy to become "permanent residents of the Bay Area."

ILLS OF SOCIETY

He was as vague about personal events of the past year as he was specific about such issues as leftist politics, educational reform, public leadership and the ills of society.

His bushy hair is even bushier now, but he no longer affects the fleece-lined rancher's coat that was an inevitable part of his rebel costume during the mass sit-ins, mass arrests and mass trials of the Free Speech Movement of 1964-65

So far he has remained in seclusion, a theorist instead of the activist leader who became a symbol of extremist discontent among the nation's new generation.

HALF-SERIOUS

He won't make public appearances even for causes he supports, but a goodly number of University of California students continue to regard him, in the half-serious words of one FSM veteran, as "Mario, our Savio."

It is a role that Savio says he detests. He blames the newspapers.

"To focus on personalities rather than on issues is to obscure the issues and encourage the least democratic sentiments of the public," he said.

Unless public leaders live outside the limelight, Savio worries, they are tempted "into confusing their personal destinies with their political role — and therefore into using the political arena to act out solutions to their personal psychological quirks."

A desire to prevent becoming a dictator was the reason given by Savio in April of 1965 when he abruptly quit the FSM.

In May he married another FSM leader, Suzanne Goldberg.

In July he was sentenced to four months in jail for leading the Sproul Hall sit-in of Dec. 2-3, 1964, in which 773 demonstrators were arrested. At the same time, UC had granted most FSM demands.

He left with Suzanne in September for England where he enrolled as a physics student at St. Catherine's College of Oxford University. He dropped out four weeks later "for reasons only peripherally connected with education." He wouldn't give the reasons.

In February the Savios returned to the United States for a long visit with his parents in New York City. They decided to return to the Bay Area in May, and with them is Steffan Savio, 7 months. Their sit-in appeals are still in the courts

He described as incorrect an earlier report that he has re-applied for admission to UC, where he would be a 24-year-old junior. He may re-apply next year, he said, and then again, maybe he won't.

When informed that his re-admission is opposed by Max Rafferty, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Savio just smiled.

It was the kind of smile that Leo Nomellini might wear if challenged to a fight by, say, Mario Savio.

NON-STUDENT

Savio, the valedictorian of his high school in Queens and a student at Manhattan and Queens colleges before he came to UC in 1963, has no immediate plans to change his status as a non-student.

During the FSM tumult, he was allowed to withdraw retroactively from classes.

UC officials have said that Savio, if he re-applies, will

To complete this, the sort of personal account that Savio dislikes so intensely, it should be reported that he looks tired, thin and, at times, uneasy.

He repeatedly offered this remark: "You can't become a man until you perceive your independent power."

In discussion of the independent powers to be achieved by a new political party, Savio talks about "black power" and its manifestation as the Black Panther Party of Lowndes County, Alabama.

"The use of the tactics of mass sit-ins, mass arrests, etc., has diminished because the other side always has the ultimate weapon, the courts," he said.

It is clear that Savio, like many other political figures of the hither left wing, no longer has much liking for the gentle forms of civil disobedience advocated by Martin Luther King and Bayard Rustin.

"It's no longer seriously believed that whites, if they see you kneeling in the streets, will open their hearts and pocketbooks," he said.

"The naivete is gone."

The file on MARIO SAVIO was reviewed by the writer. It was determined that although the file has a considerable amount of information therein no subversive-type information is contained in this file. SAVIO continues to be a figure who attracts newsmen and other news media and is therefore given publicity in the newspaper and local press media because of his becoming a "cause celebre" in the 1964 Free Speech Movement controversy at the University of California, Berkeley. For example, the July 10, 1966, Sunday "San Francisco Examiner," MARIO SAVIO and his wife were pictured along with an interview conducted with MARIO SAVIO. During this interview he stated

"I See Savio..."

Mario Savio, who no longer engages in the politics of protest, will meet with members of the Community for New Politics this Saturday to engage in what?

According to David Kolodny of the CNP Steering Committee, Savio, Kolodny, Carl Bloice, Bob Avakian, and Benson Brown will select a panel to present various alternatives for the November Congressional election to a general membership meeting July 30.

The panel will present arguments for a writ - in campaign, running an Independent Candidate, or doing nothing on the election, to the all-day meeting. Then the meeting will break into groups "to hammer out proposals. There will be a plenary session and a vote will be taken," Kolodny said. The meeting will begin 10 am. July 30.

An earlier general meeting, Wednesday July 27, will discuss peace action, the Oakland Schools, Jobart, and the proposed Statewide convention of political radicals in September.

Place of both meetings has not, at BARB presstime, been decided.

Mario Savio wants to help organize an independent radical political party in the East Bay.

His Status Now

Mario Savio was never officially penalized by University of California authorities for his role in the Free Speech Movement of late 1964, although he never returned to his classes.

He was registered as a junior in September, but before he could file a study list—a necessary registration step—he was put on suspension by then-Chancellor Edward Strong on Sept. 30.

Savio's suspension, one of eight following the first sit-in Sept. 30, was later changed to probation on recommendation of President Clark Kerr, with the consent of the UC Board of Regents.

Subsequent disciplinary action against Savio and other FSM leaders led to the mass Sproul Hall sit-in of Dec. 2. Five days later, Kerr granted amnesty to them because of the sit-in arrests.

Before the end of the semester, Savio was permitted to withdraw from UC as of Sept. 30. He had not attended classes for three months.

His Opinions Now

Mario Savio offered opinions on a full range of questions during a lengthy interview with Examiner writer, Lynn Ludlow.

Answers included the following comments:

ON FATHERHOOD:

"Becoming a father doesn't make me less angry at how society harms growing children through their families, but it makes me much more sensitive to how very difficult it is to avoid hurting one's children in some way—just by being a parent.

"This helps me to regard with greater sympathy those whom I consider political enemies because they, too, were little children at one time and are not less victims of an ill society."

ON VIETNAM:

"The war is only the most excruciating instance of what's wrong with society."

ON THE DRAFT:

"My view is summed up by that button you can get on the campus."

(The button, on sale for 35 cents, says: "War Is Good Business—Invest Your Son.")

"It's clear that if investment in war production were to be ended rapidly and soon, the U.S. economy would be, at least over the short run, crippled."

ON CIVIL RIGHTS:

"It's become very clear that the techniques of the past are not going to win for Negroes the kind of gains projected now. . . .

"Picketing the Seawolf in Jack London Square isn't really going to get many jobs for Negroes. What's important now is to gain political power for Negroes."

ON FRUSTRATION OF RADICAL THINKERS:

"It happens (a reference to a question about some student radicals who become so hopeless about change that they become helpless). It must be seen in the context of a society which has so structured its institutions as to make dissent entirely irrelevant."

ON POLITICAL PARTIES:

"Of the two, the less impervious to progressive political ideas, the Democratic Party, is in no sense committed to a political program that is publicly discussed.

MARIO SAVIO

"In California, large numbers of people have no place to go.

"The Republican Party can be moved more easily to the right, as was demonstrated by Goldwater and Reagan, than the Democratic Party can be moved left."

ON COMMUNISM:

"The reason that FSM spokesmen were consciously determined not to discuss the Communist issue was because it was clearly irrelevant to the civil liberties questions involved and would have served only to make all the easier an attempt by the press to deal with the most sensational issues. . . .

"It's bad to be an unthinking anti-Communist, as many of our countrymen are. It's also bad to be an unthinking anti-anti-Communist, to refrain on all occasions from criticizing Communists. I think they should be treated like Republicans and Democrats."

UC Says No To Savio

Mario Savio, once the silver-tongued orator of the University of California student Free Speech Movement, was denied readmission as a student at the Berkeley campus yesterday—but only on a technicality.

University officials, who previously had denied receiving an application for readmission from the 23-year-old firebrand, declared that Savio simply applied too late.

Savio's application, said Fretter, was not received until last Friday, a full week after the final deadline.

He may still apply until November 1 for admission to the winter quarter, which begins January 3.

He would be a junior in physics.

Savio, who became the unofficial spokesman of the Free Speech Movement of 1964-65 on campus, spent most of the past year in England, where he attended Oxford University.

Prior to leaving, hs married the former Suzanne Goldberg, another Free Speech leader. they have an eight-month-old son, Steffan.

Since his return to Berkeley Savio has shied from the spotlight, working as bartender at the Steppenwolf on San Pablo, a tavern popular with UC students.

Savio Bid To Re-enter UC Blocked

Mario Savio will not be readmitted for the fall term at the Univeristy of California in Berkeley, UC officials said today.

The firebrand orator of the Free Speech Movement in 1964-65 waited a week too long before deciding to submit an application.

He was informed by Dr. William B. Fretter, dean of the College of Letters and Sciences, that the application had been rejected because it arrived after the Aug. 5 deadline for exceptional cases.

The deadline for routine undergraduate admission applications was June 15, and at that time Savio was telling friends that he was undecided about his future.

The effect of the rejection was to postpone until after the November election a lively dispute over whether Savio should be readmitted at all.

RAFFERTY FIGHT

UC administrators had promised to handle his case "like any other student," but a fight within the UC Board of Regents was promised by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty. He said the Regents should submit to "group psychotherapy" if Savio were permitted to enroll again.

With his wife, the former Suzanne Goldberg of the FSM, and their infant son, Steffan, Savio returned to Berkeley last May after nearly a year in England and New York City.

Now 23, he is three years behind his class. If he reapplies, as expected, for the winter quarter at UC, he would become a junior student with a major in physics.

OXFORD DROPOUT

While in England, Savio attended St. Elizabeth's College of Oxford University for about a month before dropping out for "non-educational" but otherwise undisclosed reasons.

Before coming to UC in 1963, Savio had attended Queens and Manhattan colleges in New York City. He had been valedictorian of his high school class.

Savio and other FSM leaders were placed on suspension for a Sproul Hall sit-in at the start of the 1964 fall semester, and the subsequent student unrest culminated in the arrest of 773 demonstrators at a mass sit-in in Sproul Hall. Savio's conviction still is on appeal.

Dean Fretter said all applications since Aug. 5 have been denied unless the delay was caused by reasons "beyond the student's control."

Savio, in seclusion since his return to Berkeley, has been working at a series of part-time jobs.

Savio Seeks Winter Enrollment at U.C.

The application of Mario Savio, leader of the Free Speech Movement and sit-ins at Berkeley, for admission to the winter term of the junior class at the University of California is on file today.

Savio, awaiting the outcome of his appeal from a four-month jail sentence, sent his application yesterday from a Berkeley address. He spent last year at Oxford University, England. His application for the Fall term was denied this week.

A spokesman for the university said Savio's application, with those of other prospective winter term students, will be considered after applications for the Fall term have been processed.

The winter term commences Jan. 9.

Savio was arrested with 570 other Sproul Hall sit-ins Dec. 2, 1964. The late Superior Judge Rupert Crittenden, then a Berkeley Municipal Court judge, found Savio guilty and imposed the four-month sentence.

Savio is 23, married and the father of an 8 months old son, Steffan.

M. Savio's Application Turned Down

The University of California here has informed Mario Savio, a leader in the Free Speech Movement disturbances in the fall of 1964, that his application for re - admission for the fall quarter was not approved because it was submitted after the deadline.

Dean William B. Fretter of the College of Letters and Sciences advised Savio by letter of his decision.

The college, part of the UC Berkeley campus, has been denying re - admission requests since Aug. 5 except to students whose "late application is due to causes beyond the student's control."

The official deadline for undergraduate admissions was last June 15, with exceptions being made on an individual basis through Aug. 5. Savio failed to file application until Aug. 12.

Processing of admissions for the fall quarter indicates that the Berkeley campus will be at or near its planned enrollment peak of 27,500 graduate and undergraduate students.

Savio will have to reapply if he wants to be considered for admission to UC for the winter quarter.

Savio May Return in Fall

Mario Savio, former leader of the Free Speech Movement at Berkeley in 1964, has applied for readmission to the University.

After spending last year at Oxford University in England, Savio, his wife, the former Suzanne Goldberg, and their eight-month-old son, Steffan, returned to the Bay Area a few months ago.

Mrs. Savio confirmed that Savio intends to file for admission to the fall quarter, for which he is late. The deadline was July 15 for returning students. A University spokesman said that after that date applications are handled on an individual basis.

University spokesmen say Savio's application will be handled as that of any other student.

Savio was one of more than 700 persons arrested in the Dec. 2, 1964, sit in at Sproul Hall. His case and those of 570 others are being appealed.

In other action on the Free Speech Movement Front, as the Wire Services might say, Jacqueline Goldberg, the sister of Art Goldberg, and along with him a much publicized member of the Free Speech Movement leadership, last week petitioned Berkeley Judge Floyd Talbot for release from two years probation and a $400 fine. Her attorney, Stanley Gold, said that she was unable to teach at Illinois public schools while on probation. She has paid her fine and completed half her probation.

Talbot denied her request and said that she could teach in Illinois private schools until the end of her probation. She went to the University of Chicago this past year to get a teaching credential.

Two others convicted for the sit-ins withdrew their Superior court appeals last week. Sander Fuchs, who faces concurrent 30-day county jail terms for trespassing and resisting arrest, and Marjorie Wennerberg, facing a fine of $276.

Mario Savio Asks Permission to Re-enter UC Here

By FRED GARDNER

Mario Savio yesterday took out registration papers to apply for re-admission to the University of California.

The 23-year-old firebrand who gained renown as the most articulate spokesman of the 1964-65 Free Speech Movement appeared at the Registrar's window at 2:45 p.m. to pick up his application forms.

He also visited the Dean of Students office to clarify his status as a former and possible re-entering UC student.

His acceptance or rejection, of course, cannot be determined until he has completed the application forms.

The Dean of Students office stated that Savio was not under probation and was academically eligible for re-admission.

While the deadline for new students has passed, Savio could be eligible for admission because of his status as a former student in academically good standing. Exceptions have been made for students applying late for re-admission.

If admitted, Savio would be a junior. When previously enrolled, he had filed as a physics major.

He spent the past academic year in England studying at Oxford University, and the possible transferred credits could advance his standing. He returned to Berkeley this past June with his wife, Suzanne, and his eight-month-old son, Steffan.

Savio has stated to friend and acquaintances that if he returned to UC, he would devote his time to his studies and not participate in student politics.

Commenting on his taking out registration papers, a UC spokesman said, "Savio's request for admission, like those for all other students, will be treated as would any other student who applies."

The University of California here has informed Mario Savio, a leader in the Free Speech Movement disturbances in the fall of 1964, that his application for re - admission for the fall quarter was not approved because it was submitted after the deadline.

Dean William B. Fretter of the College of Letters and Sciences advised Savio by letter of his decision.

The college, part of the UC Berkeley campus, has been denying re - admission requests since Aug. 5 except to students whose "late application is due to causes beyond the student's control."

The official deadline for undergraduate admissions was last June 15, with exceptions being made on an individual basis through Aug. 5. Savio failed to file application until Aug. 12.

Processing of admissions for the fall quarter indicates that the Berkeley campus will be at or near its planned enrollment peak of 27,500 graduate and undergraduate students.

Savio will have to reapply if he wants to be considered for admission to UC for the winter quarter.
