SUBJECT TYPIC/Operational
AMBUD Medical/Vocational Rehabilitation Program

ACTION REQUIRED - REFERENCES

Reference: UFGA-25261, paragraph 11 (3 June 1966) 19-124-25/2

1. The vocational rehabilitation phase of the AMBUD medical program ended on 30 June 1966 with the completion of courses by the remaining trainees. The activity, established in April 1964 by arrangement with the Florida State Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, has reduced the number of medical dependents from 69 to six. One of the remaining cases, [redacted] is [redacted] funded by Headquarters. These six men represent difficult medical problems whose disposition will be the subject of a separate report.

2. The original 69 cases classified as unemployable because of medical disability were referred to the AMBUD vocational rehabilitation activity as a means of terminating WOFAC responsibility for their continued support. Initial processing of the 69 referrals resulted in 58 active participants of which 35 were ultimately returned to employment. Twenty-three were dropped during evaluation or training for many reasons including lack of interest, excessive absenteeism, inability to learn, emotional instability, severity of handicap, relocation, or confinement in an institution. However, some of the marginal cases in this group were given partial training and/or a routine of work which resulted in acquiring sufficient motivation to solve their own work problems.

3. A list of the participants, courses attended, date and reason dropped, or date course completed is attached. It should be noted that most of the trainees also benefited from pre-vocational training English language instruction which made them more attractive to the potential employers.

4. The apparent success of the vocational rehabilitation activity could be largely attributed to the supervisor, Mr. Gordon D. Smith, a senior counselor assigned to the activity by his employer, the Florida State Division of Vocational Rehabilitation. In his handling of the activity, and the trainees, Mr. Smith demonstrated a high level of professional ability, strong interest, and an awareness of the security and political factors involved in what he terms as "a new and unique experience" which will benefit his office in the future handling of "foreign national" cases. Mr. Smith received no personal funding from AMBUD and utilized his own office space in the Miami Division Vocational Rehabilitation offices. He was assisted by a secretary cleared for this work and funded by AMBUD. Mr. Smith arranged for the secretary to be employed and paid by his office effective 30 June 1966. Through secure channels the Station will prepare a letter of appreciation to the Florida State Division of Vocational Rehabilitation for its efforts and professional recognition to Mr. Smith for the successful handling of this activity.

5. Although the final accountings for administrative expenses have not been processed at this date, it appears that the total administrative cost of the activity will be about $46,000.00, $2,000.00 less than the original estimate submitted by Mr. Smith.
