Name Richard Dennis Call Date June 6, 1978 Time 4:00 p.m.Address Box #623 A, Route 5, Fleming-Place Residence ton, New Jersey 08822

Interview: Mr. Call stated that in 1959 he was in the United States Marine Corps and stationed at El Toro Bay Marine Air Station in Santa Anita, California. He stated that at the time he was a Sergeant in the Marine Corps and that his Marine military speciality was aeronautical electronics operator. He stated that Lee Harvey Oswald was under his immediate supervision.

Call stated that his duties and that of his unit was to track aircraft on a radar scope. He further advised that his unit at that time only worked two or three days out of a week. He stated further that Lee Harvey Oswald's specific duties involved sitting in front of a large radar screen that constantly scanned certain areas for aircraft. Once the aircraft was spotted, it was his duty to track the aircraft until it had cleared the area. Call further continued and stated that his unit had security clearance and he described this level of clearance as being "confidential." He indicated that the security clearance was necessary due to the nature of the work that his unit was doing and also because of the type of radar equipment.

ment the unit used. Mr. Call stated that he was Oswald's immediate supervisor. He was not a close friend of Lee Harvey Oswald but the interest they shared was mainly the game of chess. Oswald would play chess with him quite often. He described Oswald as being quiet. He didn't talk very much. During any conversation that went on, the other person had to solicit it from him. He described him as being a loner, staying off to himself, not having very many friends or having very much contact with other people in the unit. In his words, Mr. Call described Oswald as being "an oddball." Call stated that he had never gone off the base or socialized off the base with Lee Harvey Oswald. He knew of no civilian or military personnel who he was particularly friendly with.

In regards to whether or not Mr. Call knew that LHO was studying a foreign language, Mr. Call stated that LHO was studying the Russian language. He had many books and he purchased Russian records, that is, records of music. Mr. Call could not recall the title of the books but he did state that LHO subscribed to two Russian periodicals, or newspapers. He stated that the two newspapers were the two most popular Russian newspapers in circulation in the United States today. Mr. Call recalled a particular record that he owned that was in Russian. The name of the record he said was "Russian Fireworks." He said that LHO enjoyed listening to the Russian music that he owned, that is, Mr. Call's. Mr. Call recalled to memory that on occasions he would be playing Russian music in his quarters and if LHO heard the music he would respond to where he was and reply "Did you call?" Mr. Call stated that it was common knowledge in his unit that LHO was studying the Russian language and that he was very interested in the Russian way of life. Mr. Call knew of no persons that Oswald was studying Russian with. He stated that LHO also had a security clearance, the same security clearance as everyone else in the unit. Call was not sure of what particular training LHO had had; however, he did indicate that LHO had had training in the use of radar tracking equipment. He stated that LHO was a very tight person with money. He never knew him to have an over-abundance of money. Call stated that he had no knowledge of any military personnel who LHO had close contact with, with the exception of a lieutenant by the name of Donavan who he used to play chess with. He also played chess with a Marine by the name of Botello. Call stated that he did/<sup>not</sup> know Botello's full name, but he believed he was a major in the Marine Corps, that at the present time Botello is a judge in the state of California. although he isn't certain of which state. As far as LHO's interests--personal or professional--were concerned, Call stated that he had no knowledge except that LHO was very interested in the Russian way of life. He was extremely interested in trying to learn to speak the Russian language, so much so that it became a joke in the unit. Instead of calling LHO

"Lee," the men in the unit would call him either "Comrade" or "Oswaldovitch." Lee would show his interest in the Russian way of life by, on occasion, when he was playing chess, if he was asked which men he wanted out of the set of red and black men, LHO would say "the Reds always." Mr. Call knew of no particular military program that LHO was interested in. However, he did state that in 1959 he, LHO, and another Marine named Delgado, all qualified on the rifle range. He considered LHO a very good shot with a rifle. LHO qualified with a score of 212. He stated that he shot right alongside LHO during their qualification. This witness knew of no organizations or informal groups that LHO belonged to. Mr. Call stated that LHO had never spoken to him about the U-2 program. Call further continued and stated that at that time he didn't know what the U-2 program was, that is, Mr. Call didn't know what the U-2 program was. Mr. Call stated that he knew that LHO had shot himself in the arm, or that he had been shot in the arm, that he heard from other men in the unit that Oswald had shot himself in the arm. Call did not know the particulars of the incident. Call stated that he did not know that LHO had a family until 1959 when he was about to be discharged from the service. LHO came to him and told him that his mother was ill and that he was getting a hardship discharge from the service. Call stated that before this time, LHO during the entire time he knew him, had never spoken of any member of his family. Call indicated that he was quite shocked to learn that LHO was getting out on a hardship discharge. Call further stated that prior to his discharge from the Marine Corps, LHO told him that he had been accepted to study at a university in Switzerland. Mr. Call knew of no long extensive periods of time that LHO was separated from the unit while he was under his command. When asked if he, Mr. Call, had been questioned by any federal agency after the assassination, Mr. Call responded that about a week after the assassination of President Kennedy, he was interviewed by agents of the FBI. He does not recall the agents' names. Mr. Call further stated that about a year ago, he was contacted and interviewed by Edward Jay Epstein, the author of the book entitled, "The Legend of Lee Harvey Oswald." Mr. Call described LHO as being a person who was very discontent with the conditions in the United States at that time. Mr. Call stated that he had never heard LHO make a threat against the President or any other official of the United States.
