Subject: Today's Update

(1) I returned the call to Lynn Garner in Ishtook's office. I finally got out of her that she was an intern making a round of calls to relevant agencies under Treasury and Postal jurisdiction for a legislative assistant named John Albaugh. Her question was "Have we submitted a 1998 budget?" Based upon Mrdeza's guidance and the fact that I was talking to an intern, my answer was simply, "No we have not submitted a 1998 budget." I said that if they wanted more info, her or Albaugh could call me back.(2) I called Joyce Larkin in Stokes' office and left a message. Unfortunately, I did not hear back from her by the end of the day. I'll try again on Friday.(3) I returned the call to Kevin Mathias in Specter's office and left a message. No return call from him. I'll put a call into Rich Hertling on Friday, since Mathias had said he was a friend of Hertling's.(4) I have not heard from Jack about anything from the White House.(5) I'll hope to talk to Bruce Hitchcock, the intern teacher, on Friday. I did not get him today.(6) As Jeremy knows and at his request, I went to the JFK Library and reviewed some recently discovered DOJ microfilm. There were a total of eight pages on Roselli and Giancana. There were some interesting references in these pages. In response to my inquiry, Stephanie Fawcett, the Library staffer with whom I dealt (very cooperative), indicated that there were many other names of organized crime figures on the seven rolls of microfilm. I specifically asked about Marcello and Trafficante. She remembered seeing something on both of them (and I saw one section on Trafficante that Fawcett remembered seeing earlier). I reported on my review to Jeremy. We agreed that the microfilm should be sent to the Board for review.

Body: Fawcett agreed to FedEx the seven rolls and they should arrive on Friday at the Board office.
