Subject: Update from the Big Easy

It's hot. Today is very sunny and in he high 80's, just like it's been since I got here. It's Sunday afternoon and I'm writing my interview reports from last week. No, I haven't been to any jazz clubs or good restaurants. I've just had too much scheduled to fit in any of that stuff, although after the lap top took a mini crash yesterday I went to Grand Isle, LA which is on the Gulf of Mexico. The sea was wild with Hurricane Opal brewing offshore. They were evacuating the offshore oil rigs in anticipation of the storm. I heard on the news this morning that the mayor of Grand Isle ordered a mandatory evacuation of the island because of flooding. I guess I went and got off again just in time. See you all next week.
