Subject: heaters

I have checked with the building management company regarding space heaters. They, as well as GSA, specifically prohibit the use of space heaters in the building. If they see any, they will confiscate them. The heat in the building is turned off over the weekend and turned down during weekday evenings. Therefore, the mornings will be cool in the office. If you think that your office is having a problem that does not relate to the procedure mentioned above, please let me know and we'll have it looked at. Thanks.
