Greetings:It has come to my attention that I am free! I mean, as you all know, today is my last day. I have just completed the debriefing process. And, I am heading home for the evening. I just want to commend you all for your valiant efforts in seeing this project through to the end. One piece of advice: be patient with one another and remember that it is hard to take time to understand the perspectives of others when everything is

Body: whirling around so fast. Good luck!
