Subject: Invitation to speak at FOIA conference
I've been invited to join a panel speaking on the Electronic Freedom of Information Act in April before a national meeting of librarians. It's being held in Rosslyn in the evening so won't conflict with work hours. Do you have any problem with me doing it ? Should I be identified by my title and agency affiliation or not? (I don't want to create the appearance that I'm talking for the Board on this matter but sometimes they want to identify where people are from.) I'm supposed to get back to them relatively soon.
