Subject: White House Counsel's Office

I was wondering whether we have a contact in the White House Counsel's Office. If not, I know several people from my time there. The various Associate Counsels tend to get assigned various agencies and areas of the law to monitor. If they have not yet selected someone to deal with us, it may be smart to get someone interested in us beforehand. Then, when an agency appeals the Board's decision, Mikva can turn to one of his assistants(hopefully one we have already spoken to) to help brief the President. Just a thought. Let me know if you want me to make any calls(I won't do so without your instruction).
