

NR_key_name: DB69C723EE03EB728525624D0045D074

SendTo: CN=Tracy Shycoff/O=ARRB @ ARRB

CopyTo:

DisplayBlindCopyTo:

BlindCopyTo: CN=R ecord/O=ARRB

From: CN=Christopher Barger/O=ARRB

DisplayFromDomain:

DisplayDate: 10/06/1995

DisplayDate_Time: 8:45:06 AM

ComposedDate: 10/06/1995

ComposedDate_Time: 8:42:33 AM

Subject: Response

Hey, Tracy... we talked this a.m. and everything has been cleared up. FYI, I am forwarding her response, but you should know that it is settled in our minds and is no longer an issue. Thanks for your support.To: Christopher Barger/ARRBcc: From: Noelle Gray/ARRBDate: 10/06/95 07:52:05 AMSubject: ResponseAll I can say to that is - COMPLETE MISUNDERSTANDING! I can't be anymore emphatic that that in writing. I meant absolutely none of the things you interpreted. However, I am a strong believer in what someone interprets is more important than what the originator meant to convey. In other words, if you were hurt or insulted by what I said that is more important than the fact that none of it was meant that way, AT ALL and for that I apologize. If that made no sense to you please let me know. I can explain it better verbally.I do want you to know that everything I put out on musings is in a joking tone, like everyone else in the office. However, I also agree strongly that written banter can be construed as biting, rude, or more harsh than verbal banter and that is the exact reason I do not muse often. I did not want to offend, upset, or have the situation we are having right now with anyone in the office. However, I read everyone else's banter and sometimes think they are harsh and see that everyone takes it in fun, so I think "hey if everyone else reads this stuff and doesn't get upset, then they won't get upset at what I write." I hope you believe what I am telling you, quite honestly because it is true. I will probably muse even less often now, but know that this entire event was a misunderstanding. Additionally, I can only hope that you have kept this between you and I and will continue to do so. As far as I am concerned this is over and life can go on as if this never happened because it was misunderstanding and never meant to happen.

Body:

recstat: Record

DeliveryPriority: N

DeliveryReport: B

ReturnReceipt:

Categories: