Subject: JFK Throat Wound

Just between you and me...if you can recall this week any statement where a Dallas doctor says JFK's throat wound was just above the collar line (I think it was Carrico), let me know who said it and where...also, same goes for our joint impression that the anterior throat wound was just barely to the right of the midline... These are not urgent or "project-related", but are small questions troubling me, since I recall reading about both and cannot now remember where. Thanks.
