Joyce") @ Internet @ WORLDCOM Date: 05/18/96 05:29:09 PM CDTSubject: N. O. memoBegin forwarded message: David: Well, communications can be delicate indeed, even (or perhaps especially!) in 1996. I didn't realize that you called last night until this morning, when I came in and found the message slip in my mailbox. I had returned to the office c. 4:30 last evening after being out for c. 30 minutes, and was here until c.8 p.m.! Today, I came in to find the computer down, and it has only come back up in the last few minutes (the fourth such unscheduled weekend outage that I have encountered in the past several months!). In any case, here (as below, in the document appended to your message) are my edits of your memo... I've put the substantive changes within brackets and expanded modestly your presentation of my qualifications. Did you talk to Henry? (I gather that wouldn't have happened, however, if he was on his way out the door to the birth of a grandchild!) I hope you find these modest changes of use. Let me know if you have any additional questions or comments. --BillTo: WLJOYCE <WLJOYCE@firestone>Cc: Jeremy Gunn/ARRB <Jeremy_Gunn/ARRB%ARRB@notes.worldcom.com>From: David Marwell <David_Marwell@jfk-arrb.gov>Date: 17 May 96 18:30:06 Subject: -No Subject-Mime-Version: 1.0Content-Type: Text/PlainBill:We need to be prepared to file a motion with the court in New Orleans. Art Goldberg and Jeremy would like to include an affidavit from you and me that reports the findings of our inspection visit. I have drafted what follows based on your resume and your e-mail reporting your initial reaction to the Garrison files. It would be most helpful if you would send us your comments by Monday since we want to file with the court on Monday PM. Jeremy and I will be checking our e-mail over the weekend.I called Henry only to discover that he was about to leave his house for the hospital; his daughter was (finally) in labor!Thanks, Bill.David. DRAFT AFFIDAVITA. William L. Joyce1. My name is William L. Joyce2.
