Subject: Gumshoe Database

You created a form for Anne to type letters in Gumshoe and send them to me on e-mail which I then transfer to WordPerfect and make changes. Could that form be altered so that it is easier and less time consuming for me to replace that Gumshoe letter with the final version of the letter that actually gets mailed? As it is now, in Gumshoe I have to delete the address, salutation, and closure by erasing one line at a time (can do only the body of the letter by blocking it). If I copy only the body of the WP letter back to Gumshoe, I would still have to make changes on the date, address, etc. I think we really don't need separate sections set aside for Dave to type in an address, etc. We don't need a line that says "Dear :)" We don't need "Sincerely," etc.
