Subject: Missing ID
My apologies, I managed to lose my government ID last night. I believe the clip popped open while I was climbing into my father's car outside the Pentagon City Metro station. I discovered the ID missing a few minutes later . We immediately went back to look but had no luck. It was raining heavily when I got into the car and I think the badge must have fallen into the stream of water by the curb and been carried into the storm sewer which was less than two feet away. It is not like me to lose something and I will do my best not to lose the next one. Sorry for the trouble.
