Subject: CIA team, weekly update
CIA team has doubled its size with the addition on Monday of Irene Marr and Michelle Combs. As expected, they're proving to be perceptive and fast learners, and as soon as they receive their clearances, will begin to carry their weight in the review process. Barry Harrelson is on vacation this week, but Ellie and Eileen are carrying on in his place. We got the determination forms for the August meeting documents over to them (the non-Scelso, non-Lopez report documents first, as they had requested), and have already received their reply. Everything, except for a couple of very minor technical details, looks clean, and the technical details can be cleared up quickly. The Lopez and Scelso determination forms will go over this afternoon. It's quite possible that we may hear back from HRG on certain of the Board's releases on these two documents. We have most of the June-meeting documents back from CIA, with the exception of the Mexico Chron, and will be preparing these for transfer to NARA.
