Subject: VanHoesen Interview Arranged

I just spoke with John VanHoesen (he pronounces his name "Van Heusen") and he says that traffic around Cobb Island is a nightmare on Fridays, and would be very bad for us. He highly recommended Wednesday, September 25, so I accepted. Our goal is to arrive at his house at Cobb Island at about 11:00 A. M. next Wednesday. He said that he did receive our earlier mailing. Directions follow: Exit Beltway going south at route 5; get on route 301; follow 301 south, until we turn onto route 257 (last left turn before the Potomac); go about 11 miles on route 257; turn right onto route 254; go about 1.5 miles; go across a bridge; he lives at 17551 Oriole Drive--his house has a flagpole and a wheel chair ramp out front. He says that for a person accustomed to the drive it takes about 1.5 hours...for newcomers, maybe 2 hours. END
