The presentation from Assassination Records Review Board Executive Director David Marwell and Computer Specialist Chet Rhodes will focus on the use of the groupware product Lotus Notes as a document tracking tool. The ARRB has been mandated by Congress with reviewing and releasing to the public as many government documents as possible relating to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. The Agency is tracking over 200,000 documents and uses Lotus Notes to allow staff members to review documents in a systematic way. Marwell and Rhodes will discuss the way that groupware shaped the process of the review and the implementation of a complex system. Further discussion will center on the costs of implementing a system and how Lotus Notes in particular is well suited for a team review process.
