Subject: Logging In

During the past few days, I have been told that I have "x" number of days to change my password. Today I was told I have 0 days left. Unlike the pre-Windows 95, where I was able to change the password, there is now no explanation as how to change the password. My concern is that the next time I log in, there will be no explanation as to what I need to do. Please let me know sometime today whether there will be a problem and what I should do.Thanks.
