My e-mail is even moreproblematical than usual. I know that our meeting this week is already overbooked but I have someitems that I think need to be addressed. I'm not sure the board is up to speedon some of these issues. 1. There are still a number of loose ends that need to be tied: LBJ Library, JFK Library, NSA (surely there are more records) and those places in the CIAwhere there are not supposed to be anymore records. NSA and CIA, in particular, will need "help" in their compliance and we need the time to look at therecords. 2. We need a guick update on depositions and what has been learned. Are thepertinent Miller files valuable? Do we have any need to decide whether or notsome of these files are assassination files? 3. When records other than the sequestered files are evaluated, we probablyneed to see the yellow ones- maybe even a few green. We have new people inplace who did not participate in our earlier discussions and are mostly attuned to the rules surrounding the sequestered files. 4. This extra year was supposed to be for the completion of agency records. It is my personal opinion that investigations of the bullet, autopsy recordsand depositions should begin winding down and come to an end between Thanks-giving and the first of the year. I think Jan-Oct should be spent on recordsand the final report. We've been at this a long time and I think our weariness is beginning toshow. Everyone knows I had little enthusiasm for another year, but next Oct.we have to sign our names to a report. I get an uneasy feeling when I begin tofeel that I am losing touch. You have done your best and I'm sure Jeremy willalso try to keep us informed. But we have to be available, ask questions keepin touch with record decisions if we want to do this right. If not at this meeting than at the next, I think we should take time todiscuss completion of projects and priorities for the next year. Anna
