Jerrie -- how about this?The Review Board read the FBI's draft letter to foreign governments regarding foreign records from the core files. The Board suggested that stylistic changes be made in the letter. Then, the Review Board considered the issue of foreign government information in the segregated collections. Denk presented 53 documents from the segregated collection that contain foreign government information. The Review Board sugtgested that the Review Board staff attempt to negotiate a reduction in the redactions with the FBI. The Review Board agreed that the foreign government information in the segregated collection need not be referred to the foreign governments for release, nor would the Board want to negotiate with diplomatic establishments to attempt to release the information. Thanks --Laura
