You decide... Hill columnist/Hotliner Ken Rudin notes that in Sunday's Super Bowl, 14 points were scored in the first quarter, the game was won by the AFC, and the MVP award went to Broncos RB Terrell Davis. Only once before in Super Bowl history, Rudin reminisces, has the MVP been a running back in a game won by the AFC team where 14 points were scored in the first quarter. That was in Super Bowl VIII, where Miami RB Larry Csonka starred in the Dolphins' victory over the Vikings. Significance? The game took place on Jan. 13, 1974 -- the one time a president has resigned.
