Subject: Conference Calls
AT&T has a new "no-show" policy. If you cancel the conference call entirely and don't notify them 30 minutes in advance, you will be charged a "no-show" fee.Also, I have to schedule the call for one hour now instead of 30 minutes. We will not be charged for time we don't use. However, their lines are very busy and we would be allowed to continue the call only if the lines weren't needed by someone else if we went over our allotted time. So I now tell them to reserve an hour.
