Subject: Re: Harvard Public Interest Law Employment Guide

Each year, Harvard Law School publishes a Public Interest Legal Employment Guide that people all across the country use when they are job-searching. I talked to Jeremy about sending them the information about ARRB hiring summer interns and he asked me to go ahead and send it. He also asked me to send you the contact person's name, phone number and fax number for your files. It is: Jill Martyn, Public Interest Career Service Office, Harvard Law School, Cambridge, Massachusetts (617) 495-3108, (617) 496-4944. I have included the e-mails we have been sending back and forth about it. Thanks. Please send the fax to Harvard and make sure Tracy has the phone numbers for her files. To: Jeremy Gunn/ARRBcc: From: Laura Denk/ARRB Date: 04/18/95 04:37:20 PMSubject: Harvard Public Interest Law Employment GuideThe Harvard Public Interest Office has already issued its spring update for the summer of 1995. However, Jill Martyn of the Public Interest Office indicated that she would be happy to alert Harvard students of the internships if we send her the information. In addition, Ms. Martyn told me that if we send her the information, ARRB will automatically appear in the guide for next year. As you probably know, the Guide usually includes the number of permanent staff members already in place as well as information about how many interns and permanent staff the organization expects to hire in the next year. Ms. Martyn suggested that we could include this information in a listing. The Harvard Public Interest Office phone number is (617) 495-3108 and the fax number is (617) 496-4944. Let me know if and how you would like me to follow up.
