Subject: Re: the smell!

This title of this e-mail is priceless. At first, I thought it might have something to do with personal hygiene. Relieved to read on and find out it was not about me, I appreciated the update.

I have smelled everything in the fridge, the sink, the disposal, the trash can, and every cupboard in the kitchen and can't locate the smell. (I believe it smells like sour milk.) Through the process of elimination, I have decided that the smell must be in the carpet-- perhaps someone spilled some milk and it didn't get wiped up well enough. We have put in a request to the cleaning service to have the kitchen carpet shampooed. In the meantime, we'll just have to grin and bear it.
