CIA contends that not only was it there was not a photo of a man on the back, there was not even a photo. Moreover, the card only had one side and so there could not have been a photo of a man on the back. In addition, the card never existed -- although the Agency does have a transcript of the words on the card. The research community says that the man on the back was really David Atlee Phillips wearing a Jim Garrison disguise.Jim DiEuginio says that it was not Jim Garrison, but Clay Shaw wearing a Phillips disguise.DOD has issued a press release saying that it never issued the swipe card to Oswald and that the swipe card was routinely issued to all Marine-assassins and that it is no big deal anyway.Gus Russo knows who was on the back of the card, but he can't say because he has developed a friendship with him and can't disclose it.Jim Lesar is filing a FOIA request on the card today.John Judge is in the lobby, if anyone has any additional information.To:ALLcc:From:Tracy Shycoff/ARRBDate:08/15/95 02:52:32 PMSubject:Access cardsDid anyone borrow the spare swipe card that has the photo of "a man" adhered to the back? It was lent out last week and not returned. Please check all possible places for this card. If we can't locate it, we'll need to reprogram everyone's cards again! Thanks.
