On Thursday, September 21, [Screened by: NARA RD-F on 12/23/2016 according to the John F. Kennedy Records Collection Act of 1992, 44 U.S.C. 2107 6(3)]--- requiring my early departure from the office, probably in the vicinity of 3 or 4 PM. I will fill out a form that day once I get the call [Screened by: NARA RD-F on 12/23/2016 according to the John F. Kennedy Records Collection Act of 1992, 44 U.S.C. 2107 6(3)] -- it isn't clear how long it will take. The day before -- Wednesday, September 20th -- the Red Cross is having a blood drive on Capitol Hill (where I have periodically given blood in the past). I've received a "Local Emergency!" letter from the RC informing me that it faces a "critical shortage" of my quite common blood type (A+). I guess I'm inclined to set up an appointment for mid-day and go over, though the total time lost (travel and blood-giving time both) will probably be in the 2-hour range. Let me know if this is OK. Many thanks.
