No harm done. I see your point but I believe you'll find in the long run it's easier just to keep it going chronologically. It is NO problem to open a new issue, I can even do it from downhere so let me know if you want new issues opened.

Anne...I hope you received my first reply to your question on the placement of the items within that Issue...As I said before, I am the one that moved the items around to organize the "sub-categories" within the Issue...After careful thought, it does make more sense to keep everything in chronological order & it obviously shows what I have done next...I will modify my organization style accordingly ...Once again, I hope you have not been greatly iinconvenienced ...Dave
