Subject: Re: Update from the Big Easy

I'd be happy to tell you the story - it's even true! I don't really know what happened with the crash thing. I called in yesterday morning about 10:00 am and sent several email messages. Everything was fine. I was in the middle of writing another message when the screen went blank\black. I checked the phone line and the electricity - both seemed fine - rather I figured out later that the phone line was fine. I tried five or six times to reboot but got nowhere. It would go as far as the first screen for 5 seconds and then all would go blank. I gave up. I've used it a lot today and everything's been fine.
