The portion of the fileplan with the change is located at r:\fileplan\outline. Jeremy had me put it there so each analyst would have access to the most updated version for reading and printing purposes at their leisure. You are more than welcome to print an update from that file anytime you want. I don't print updates for everyone each time an update is made because of the paper cost. Sometimes there are multiple changes in one day and that could get expensive. Thanks for understanding.

There have been enough additions and changes to the filing system since you last gave us a print-out, do you think you could give us an updated version?
