Subject: Re: SS Request no. 1

I will take note that Jeremy did not attend the entire Board meeting. He left the room several times and spent a considerable period of time in his office with the door closed. His preparation for the Board meeting did not include a study of the Secret Service materials--which he was forced to admit under questioning by a Board member. The preparation Jeremy describes is to be expected. I am mystified by his need to boast. Since Jeremy seems to have a specific set of documents in mind that he wants from the Secret Service, it is best that he request them. His request does not coincide with my understanding of how the Secret Service organizes its files. Nor does it reflect any understanding of that agency's behavior over the last several months. Of course it would not take Jeremy long to draft a letter that does not reflect any study of Secret Service inventories or our prior--and pending-- requests. He did not make his request that I draft his letter a week and a half ago, either. I will monitor the results of his request to the Secret Service with great interest. When he receives his reply, we will all be able to check out the feeble results.

Joan will take note that I was in attendance at all of the Board meeting, prepared a great deal of documentation in conjunction with the Board meeting, was preparing for a meeting with DOD including preparing documentation, was making arrangements for the issuance of subpoenas, was handling many other matters AND THAT I WROTE THE LETTER THAT I HAD REQUESTED THAT JOAN WRITE MORE THAN A WEEK AND A HALF AGO. I think the record will show where the feebleness lies.

David: Jeremy is well aware of the fact that the Board was meeting yesterday and that they would be considering Secret Service liaison materials. Jeremy also understood that the Board's decision about how to review these materials would have further implications for other Secret Service records. I prepared summaries of the contents of these sections on Monday and Tuesday. I was attending the Board meeting when these materials were under discussion. I was also present while the Board discussed other FBI-related matters. I would point out that my review of the Secret Service liaison sections was hampered and delayed by Jeremy's ill-conceived insistence last Friday morning that I rush through a review of the Secret Service HSCA material. I attended the Board's open meeting on Monday in order to learn about your plans for the next several months. Since Jeremy has failed to communicate his plans to me, I had no choice but to learn--along with members of the public--what he has in mind. I would have drafted his letter this morning. I will at this point record my objection to the path he has chosen, and I will monitor the results of this letter. I note that he has failed to provide me with a copy of his Record
