Dear Mr. Byrne: Many of the Church Committee and Rockefeller Commission records are already in the JFK Collection at the National Archives. The National Archives is the appropriate agency to contact regarding what is in the JFK Collection right now. Phone: 301-713-6620 JFK Assassination Records Collection National Archives and Records Administration 8601 Adelphi Road College Park, MD 20740-6001 In order to bring you up to date on the Board's activities of the past year or so, I am mailing you an information packet. This packet contains press releases and advisories, as well as news clips. For the future, the Review Board will continue to review federal records, and search for additional records in state and local government files and in private hands that should be part of the JFK Collection. I hope this answers your questions. Thanks for writing and for your continued interest in the work of the Board. Sincerely, Eileen A. Sullivan

 Dear Ms Sullivan, Thank you for dealing so promptly and courteously to my recent message concerning the above. I look forward eagerly to receiving the copy of the transcript. Perhaps I could trouble you further if you wouldn't mind. You say that the records of both the Rockefeller Commission and the Church Committee relating to Cuba are defined as "assassination records". Does that mean that they have already been released and are available for inspection? Do you have a listing of the relevant documents, together with those that have not been released? Indeed, are you able to tell me exactly, from the overall perspective, what the ARRB has already looked at and their programme for the remainder of its life? I appreciate that my requests represent unreasonable demands upon your time but I can only say in mitigation that news about the valuable work of the ARRB is scarce on this side of 'the pond'. Sincere thanks once again. Paul Byrne
