Subject: Re: The @$!#@$ report

Here it is with revised format. This may not be the final way we want it yet, but I concede this is better (certainly easier) than columnar format. I'd like to have a background summary of each general issue area similar to the one I've written about the trip to the South Pole that gives some context/sets the stage for what the specific issues are. I'd also like to make the whole thing longer and more comprehensive, adding to it as many relevant quotes as we can in each area. I know this may be time consuming since we don't have a full transcript, but a good approach could be to look for his responses to the question list I used for the interview -- mostly I followed that pretty carefully. The work you've done so far is exactly what we want/need, we just need to make it bigger. I'd like this to be the definitive work on Mr. Prouty. . .
