Subject: Re: this is not a joke
It seems the quick correct feature is also activated during spell check. So the best way is to delete the offending quick correct item from the quick correct list. To delete Quick Correct items go to WPTools\QuickCorrectOn the QuickCorrect Screen Scroll thru the list to the item or type the item out. When the item is highlighted use the delete button on the right hand side of the screen.To:Chet Rhodes/ARRB, David Marwell/ARRBcc:From:Phil Golrick/ARRB Date:01/22/97 11:45:42 AMSubject:This is not a jokeIs there any way I can have quikcorrect permanently, and I mean permanently, disabled from my computer's WordPerfect? Yesterday and today, it has fouled up a document I am working on; each time, upon checking the appropriate screen, I find that quikcorrect is supposedly already disabled. Please do not patronize or dismiss this complaint -- I'm doing what I was told to do in last week's training session, to no avail; the problem is recurrent and non-imaginary.
