I think I can do that--unless I have to take Adrian to the airport--or if I receive another offer I can't refuse.

This is my final try as cruise director. If this fails, I give the job back to C. Barger. How about a happy hour for the 21st. It's not Valentine's Day, the holiday that was invented to drain money from our wallets. It is not the start of a three day weekend when people will be heading out of this paradise on the Potomac. So there is no excuse for attending for at least an hour.
