

NR_key_name: 5F31DFAA2459127185256464007481E6
SendTo: ALL
CopyTo: DisplayBlindCopyTo:
BlindCopyTo: CN=R ecord/O=ARRB
From: CN=Laura Denk/O=ARRB
DisplayFromDomain:
DisplayDate: 03/24/1997
DisplayDate_Time: 4:18:39 PM
ComposedDate: 03/24/1997
ComposedDate_Time: 4:12:34 PM
Subject: Too much information
A friendly reminder to everyone from your local Privacy Act officer -- Although Jerri may not mind having everyone in the office know about her particular symptoms and medication, other co-workers might not want this type of information about themselves to be widely dispersed. In the future -- something like: "Jerri called and said that she will need to take another sick day tomorrow. You can reach her at home if necessary" will be more than sufficient. Or, better yet -- just tell her supervisor & let him/her enter it on "Where in the World."To:ALLcc:From:Janice Spells/ARRBDate:03/24/97 04:07:39 PMSubject:Jerri OlsonHas an infection and is on antibiotics. Her throat is quite sore and she's running a low grade fever. She will not be in tomorrow but can be reached at home if needed.
Body:
recstat: Record
DeliveryPriority: N
DeliveryReport: B
ReturnReceipt: Categories: