Subject: Re: USSS data disk
I'm confused by Steve's comments. One can (as I have) access the NARA Website and search the JFK database. Whether it is up to date is another matter. Stop by and I will show you.To:David Marwell/ARRBcc:Jeremy Gunn/ARRB, Chet Rhodes/ARRB From:Joan Zimmerman/ARRB Date:05/02/97 04:22:12 PMSubject:USSS data diskYesterday, I asked Chet to install the disk we received from John Machado earlier this week. Chet said he had other priorities and he could not do it. John indicated to me that he put USSS postponements for the protective surveys on this disk. Would you please ask Chet to install the Secret Service disk when he comes on Thursday?On another matter: Steve Tilley told me that the Secret Service gives him disks, but the FBI and the CIA do not. Steve said he is still not able to update his database information and that RIFs for the JFK collection are not put on the internet by NARA. I did not know this. His system is still set up the way it was four years ago. I had thought that researchers could access a web site for the JFK collection prepared by NARA. I gather that ARRB is currently the only source for updates on released documents and RIF numbers.
