To: ALLcc: From: Christopher Barger/ARRBDate: 07/15/97 09:58:29 AMSubject: Cut it out.This is not necessarily directed to all; rather, it is specifically directed at the person or persons who apparently feel that it is perfectly okay to appropraite supplies from the back copy table where Cathy and I have been working lately. Binder clips keep disappearing from that table, as if people just walk by and say, "Oh! I don't want to ask one of the admin people for some binder clips of my own, so I'll just steal some of these." Pardon my curt tone here, but it is hard enough and difficult enough to make copies of 40 boxes worth of documents and keep them straight and in order without having people steal our supplies. PLEASE don't take the ones at the back table. Please get your own. We have to keep these things straight, and these papers are too thick for staples, meaning that an ample supply of binder clips is our only hope for not getting things hopelessly messed up. Thank you for understanding.And now, the Ray Conniff Singers, performing "Sixteen Tons"
