Subject: Re: Administrative issues re: NSA documents
 Manuel and I discussed this earlier. Without a doubt, the number of documents going to Steve is 84. There is a discrepancy, however, in the total number of this "batch." Originally it was thought that there were 87 total. We now have accounted for 88 documents. 75 postponed in part 6 consent release 3 postponed in full 2 for reconsideration 1 sent to FBI 1 admin oversight 88 documents total Manuel is checking on this. I beleive that 127 would have made 85 (rememeber it was hidden under 125 and probably not counted). Now, that 127 is pulled, we stay at 84 total - - if my theory is correct). When it comes in I'll attach it to my set and the set going to NARA.  Date: 08/14/97Subject: Administrative issues re: NSA documentsSummary of the Call: Our poc at NSA returned my call at 1030. I told her that we wanted to inform her of two minor, but problematic administrative issues. 1. I informed her that we were not in possession of the redacted page two (2) of document # 144-10001-10093. (This document is part of the batch of "84" awaiting delivery to NARA.) She informed me that she would go back into their files, make the proper redactions, and fax the page over to us. We agreed that ARRB staff would have to verify the redactions before the document is sent it over to NARA. 2. I informed her that, due to an administrative error on our part, document 144-10001-10127 was not formally voted on by the Board and will not go to the Archives with the rest of the "84" scheduled to be delivered to NARA this week. I told her that the document will go before the Board at the next meeting (17 September 1997) and will likely be handled as a routine manner, before shipment to NARA. (Note: This document was never entered into Review Track before yesterday, and therefore was never formally voted on by the Board. In addition, it was not "noticed" in the Federal Register with the other documents in this batch.) This makes a new total of 83 documents (out of a shipment of 87) that will be shipped to NARA: (= 87 minus 1 (to FBI); minus 2 (reconsideration) and minus 1 (admin error).)
