Subject: Re: Back safely in Phoenix...

If you didn't get bored with all of my pictures (Kevin's actually were wonderful), then you are even more kind and patient than I had previously thought. And, I'm not sure that is possible. It was great to see you, but Kevin and I both like it better when you come and stay for awhile and you have a chance to get into the swing of things around here, so I hope you CAN come and do that soon. It would be especially good for you to come in September, because we've now had all of our "catching-up" conversations during this last visit so that, if you came again in two or three weeks, we could get down to having our good old conversations about aliens and Irish stuff (well -- you can talk to Kevin and Eileen about the Irish stuff.) I did, in fact, run right by your street on that canal path. We ran up that swanky street that leads to the Biltmore Hotel and then turned right on the canal path. Then, we ran for about 2 miles (I think) on that path, and back. It was fun, but HOT! I remember crossing some streets and seeing a nifty looking mountain over on the left (across the canal) but I don't specifically remember a stoplight. Next time, I'll have directions and will be able to stop by. :-)) Please don't thank us for spending time with you -- it is always a pleasure! I just hope I didn't run too slow for you! Let us know about the next visit and I'm glad you're back safely!

Subject: Back safely in Phoenix..... though still dehydrated from yesterday's run (the first thing I did upon my return was throw that Georgetown Law t-shirt in the washing machine!) I'm so glad I made the trip! It was really nice seeing folks. And (you won't believe me, though you should!) I enjoyed the wedding and Greece pictures very much (as well as the Grace -- or should I say Dinah -- photos!). Thank you for sharing them and the scrapbook (which was very nice) with me. I mean it. I've had a preliminary chat with Carolyn about the possibility of my coming to Washington for a week or so in September: it went about as I expected, which is to say there's some chance she'll permit me to go! I will keep you posted! I trust you weren't late to your appointment yesterday afternoon, and that all went reasonably well? I meant to follow up with you on this, but maybe I was too busy gasping for oxygen at the time: if you ran on the Phoenix canal path at the Biltmore Hotel, you were very close to our house! We live just east of the Biltmore. If you head east on the canal path from the Biltmore (or to the right, if you're standing on the path looking across the canal at the front of the Biltmore), you come, after more than a quarter but less than a half mile (after passing the #1 hole of the Biltmore Links course on your right) to a fairly busy north-south road (32nd St.). There's a traffic light there, right where the Canal goes under 32nd St. and Stanford Drive (our street) runs into and has its western terminus right there at 32nd St. The canal trails off to the southeast from there, but if you left the canal and followed Stanford Drive from that point, you'd be running past our house in 5 minutes! It pleases
