Thank you.

No change in status, although I have asked Cathy to look at the notes, letters, etc... to make sure that no unreviewed rolls were sent back to the JFK Library. I really can't imagine that Phil would have taken the active step of sending any rolls back that he was not entirely sure were reviewed and contained no assassination or marginal assassination records. Here is a proposed plan:
1) enlist someone to do the review and compile review information into one memo. 2) meet with them to look at all of the documents copied from the microfilm.3) write a letter to the Library with our findings, saying that if they disagree with any of our notions of what is an assassination records, then we are willing to show the documents to the board for formal designation, otherwise they should proceed with processing the newly designated documents.
