Subject: Re: Information in Support of 6th Floor Museum Subpoena for List of Holdings

We will be asking for most of this material. The immediate question is: did the WC or the HSCA have access to the originals? (This makes it easier for us to subpoena (and keep) the originals.)To: Jeremy PMSubject:Information in Support of 6th Floor Museum Subpoena for List of HoldingsFirst, in direct answer to your question "Did the Warren Commission study Governor Connally's wounds?", the answer is yes, and the evidence is those pages of CE 392 (specifically, pages 531-537 of the Report itself) which are the contemporaneous written statements of Governor Connally's treating physicians. Furthermore, Governor Connally's wounds are discussed in the text on page 3 of the Report, as well as in other locations.Second, I forward the following recommendations (for inclusion in the subpoena) in response to your request:-any records pertaining to the wounding, treatment, death, and subsequent autopsy of Lee Harvey Oswald;-any records pertaining to the subsequent exhumation and post-exhumation examination of the remains of Lee Harvey Oswald (including any audiotaped or videotaped records of that event);-any records pertaining to the wounding, treatment, death, and autopsy on Dallas policeman J. D. Tippit;-any original documents reproduced in the Warren Report as CE 392 (on pages 516-537); these are the contemporaneous or near-contemporaneous written statements of the Parkland physicians who treated President Kennedy and Governor Connally. In a September 15, 1997 written reply to an inquiry of mine, Mr. Steven Tilley wrote that the only original document from CE 392 located by Archives staff was the two-page typed summary of President Kennedy's wounds prepared and signed by Dr. Kemp Clark that is published on pages 517-518 of the Report. NARA staff does not know the whereabouts of all of the other original documents reproduced within CE 392.
