Subject: SI and H Experimentation, Wednesday, 17 October 1951.

On Wednesday, 17 October 1951, Messrs.

and the writer conducted experiments in SI and H With:

In view of the fact that the state of scapacity for attaining a true SI state had been consistently questioned for some time by Messrs that the entire session was to be devoted toward obtaining at least a light SI state in the tests primarily to give the confidence. The ability in obtaining deep SI and consistently maintaining such has been previously established.

Accordingly in the first attempt, used a commanding approach and directed full attention of land to obtaining a complete body catalepsy.

did not respond at all to these suggestions, obtaining no depth the tracever and coming awake in a standard "falling" test.

In the other hand, while not fully completing the "falling" test, nevertheless maintained a complete SI state throughout.

After some discussion and following prearranged plans, the writer then working directly with sused a very, very slow "hand levitation" test with a reasonably good SI sleep w state. At the same time, or rather during the operation of the technique on by the writer, was directed into an SI state by who noted that was becoming completely engrossed in the writer's work with The writer thereafter awakened slowly by the 12345 method both M and Both M and Both M and and wakened a good SI state at this time. Thereafter, was entirely successful both from the observer's point of view and according to both participants.

subjects with a slow awakening. After giving a standard post hypnotic to the effect that both subjects would go to sleep when he rapped on his shoe with a pencil which he held in his hand.

After boths and were awakened, the post hypnotic was tried and each subject responded very easily to the post hypnotic suggestion.

Since the induction had been in a very slow and deliberate manner, consuming from 15-20 minutes during each test, it was decided to conclude the evening's work.

COMMENT:

Slow inductions are/necessary on the part of since she is capable of obtaining quite rapidly an excellent deep SI and the only reason for continuing this work with her is to assist in helping gain confidence in her ability to attain a true SI condition.

lost ground during this session and her three inductions appeared entirely successful. She, herself, admitted that she had, in each case, attained a deeper state than she had in many sessions previously. Further work along this line of slow deliberate induction technique appears necessary before she can be tried on more advanced experimentation
