COVER PAGE

This investigation was conducted on initial allegation that KEATING, then acting as Treasurer of captioned firm, had visited the Lockland, Ohio, AEC Office, obtained a letter from authorities there classified "Secret" and inturn had written a letter to the Chicago AEC Office on behalf this company which he marked "Secret" and Government was alleged to have disclosed restricted data to non-cleared personnel. Investigation determined that AEC authorities at Lockland had reviewed notes taken by KEATING during his visit and they contained no classified information.

Results of this investigation were furnished to WILLIAM F. TOMPKINS, Assistant Attorney General, Internal Security Division, U. S. Department of Justice, Washington, D. C. who, on 5/9/57, furnished the following written opinion in declining prosecution of KEATING as follows:

"In proof undertaken pursuant to the provisions of 18, USC, 1001, it would be incumbent upon the Government to show that the statement in question was material to the proceedings in which it was made. On the basis of the information furnished by representatives of the AEA, it appears extremely doubtful that materiality could be established in the circumstances of this case. Upon careful consideration of all factors in this case, it is the opinion of this Division that the facts in this case do not constitute a suitable basis for prosecution of the subject under 18, USC, 1001, and it does not appear that further investigation is warranted at this time."

In view of the declination of prosecution above, no mention of this prior investigation was made in attached report.

EMPLOYMENT

The following investigation was conducted at Cincinnati, Ohio, by SA [REDACTED]

b6
b7C

On April 30, 1969, [REDACTED] 1811 Provident Tower, partner in the law firm of Keating, Muething, and Klekamp, furnished the following comments:

b6
b7C

[REDACTED] first became acquainted with CHARLES H. KEATING, Jr., when the two of them were in law school at the University of Cincinnati in 1946. They graduated in the class of 1948, and each of them then entered separate law firms. In February of 1955, [REDACTED] and Mr. KEATING and Mr. KEATING's brother, WILLIAM KEATING, formed a partnership then known as Keating, Muething, and Keating. This partnership continued with this name until WILLIAM KEATING was appointed to the Municipal Bench. WILLIAM KEATING was later elected to the Municipal Bench and ultimately elected to the Common Pleas Court Bench before retiring to run for City Council, which position he currently holds.

In 1962, the firm became a partnership of CHARLES H. KEATING, Jr., [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] [REDACTED] WILLIAM KEATING, the City Councilman, has returned to the office since leaving the Common Pleas Bench, however, he is not currently listed as a partner.

family to be of excellent character, reputation, morals, and is of the opinion that they have an extreme loyalty to the United States. He mentioned that there has never been any friction whatsoever in this law partnership which he has had since 1955 with the appointee and commented, "We don't have a writing between us". He stated that he has complete trust and confidence in CHARLES KEATING and considers him to be a person with untiring energy, and one who is extremely confident and capable in all fields he has undertaken. He advised that one of Mr. KEATING's greatest assets in his opinion, has to do with his loyalty and devotion to duty.

He stated that Mr. KEATING has been quite active in the Milford Retreat for Men and it is his recollection that possibly KEATING's interest in combating obscenity and immoral literature may have originated through a contact with a priest who was active several years ago in the Milford Retreat. He advised that Mr. KEATING has endeavored, through available laws, to combat these obscenities which have become even more prevalent now than they were when KEATING first began this crusade.

advised that the fact that he has been able to remain in a partnership which is completely amiable with KEATING speaks more strongly than any words he could suggest to compliment Mr. KEATING in all respects, and he definitely has the highest respect and the highest degree of confidence in KEATING and would be most pleased to see him appointed by the President of the United States to a position in the Federal Government.

JUDGES

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent [redacted] on April 29, 1969, at Cincinnati:

b6
b7C

Judge JOHN W. PECK, U. S. Court of Appeals, Sixth Circuit, advised that he has known CHARLES H. KEATING, JR., for a period of some 20 years, but in reality, was much better acquainted with KEATING's younger brother, BILL, who has held various positions in the City Government and had been a former Common Pleas judge in Hamilton County. ✓

Judge PECK remarked that he has had no social contact with CHARLES KEATING, JR., but has had quite extensive professional contact with him and always found him to be a person of excellent intelligence, whose reputation was spotless insofar as he knew.

He continued by stating he is also fairly acquainted with the law firm which includes the appointee and that this firm possesses a very good reputation among the other attorneys in the city of Cincinnati. He stated that he had no reason to question the judgment of the appointee since he felt that he was mature, conscientious, intelligent and who had only associated with people of excellent reputations.

Judge PECK pointed out that he considered the appointee to be a loyal American and who certainly could be trusted in a position of responsibility in the Federal Government. He concluded by stating that based on his own knowledge, as well as information from other sources, he would highly recommend CHARLES KEATING, JR., for a position of confidence with the Federal Government.

U. S. District Judge TIMOTHY S. HOGAN, SDO, advised that his knowledge of the appointee comprised a period of 10 years, most of which has been from information from other members of the legal profession as opposed to direct contact with the appointee. He described the appointee as being a most successful and astute business man and although he realized his next comment was of a ✓ negative nature, nevertheless, he had never heard anything unfavorable concerning appointee with respect to his personal life or professional ethics.

He stated that he was aware that the appointee and his younger brother, BILL, were fairly active on the political scene in Cincinnati and that the appointee was a member of a very profitable law firm in the city. He stated that he would highly recommend the appointee for a position of trust and responsibility with the Federal Government, explaining further that within recent years, he had personally endorsed a young attorney for employment with the appointee's law firm and that this individual is currently affiliated with the law firm with which the appointee is a member.

Judge HOGAN stated he possessed no personal knowledge regarding appointee's habits, but again felt that from a negative standpoint, the appointee is of good reputation, intelligent, conscientious and loyal to the United States.

Judge RAYMOND E. SHANNON, Ohio Court of Appeals, First District, 1115 Paxton Avenue, advised that he has had fairly extensive contact with the KEATING family for a period in excess of 20 years, adding that the appointee's father, who is now deceased, had been a reputable business man in the dairy business in Cincinnati. ✓

He explained that he and the appointee's younger brother, BILL, are members of the same fraternity and although not immediate neighbors, he and the appointee's brother do get together on occasion. He explained that he, himself, had formerly been in the Hamilton County Prosecutor's Office and that at that time, appointee had caused some friction among his personnel in view of his active part in the Citizens For Decent Literature Committee. He explained this remark by stating that the appointee was a very aggressive, intelligent, conscientious man, who, in his opinion, projected two images.

He stated the first image was that of a very mature and conscientious individual who was most opposed to any form of pornography and who was very vocal and articulate in his role on behalf of the Citizens For Decent Literature. He stated that along this line, the CDL had filed amicus curiae (friend of the court) briefs in behalf of CDL in connection with cases involving smut literature and/or films. He added that the appointee was an expert in this particular field and had gained national recognition for his standing against pornography.

He explained that since the appointee was an articulate speaker, he could generate the general populace to become agitated against anyone arrested in connection with a pornographic matter, but that he felt since the appointee was a respectable attorney, he, the appointee, should and undoubtedly did realize the limitations that the Prosecutor's Office had to cope with in connection with this type of case.

He stated this is what he meant when he initially remarked that appointee projects two images, namely, that of active vocal opponent in connection with anything pornographic, but yet an attorney who would undoubtedly be familiar with any problems of law enforcement officials in combating pornographic matters.

[] stated he considered appointee to be honest, most reputable in his professional dealings, and an expert in the decent literature field. He stated that he was aware that the appointee had testified both in state courts in Ohio, as well as other states on behalf of the prosecution in pornographic cases and in his considered opinion, the appointee could be trusted in a responsible position with the Federal Government.

[] concluded by stating that he believed the appointee to be independently wealthy as a result of his partnership in a profitable law firm, adding that he heard he was worth some four million dollars and he believed this figure to be substantially correct.

He concluded by stating that the appointee's partner was a very respected and conscientious attorney, who, although not as forceful and aggressive as appointee, was in large measure responsible for the success of the law firm, since he was a very thorough, quiet individual who had an excellent reputation in legal circles in the Cincinnati area.

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent [redacted] at Cincinnati, Ohio, on April 29, 1969:

b6
b7c

JOHN W. KEEFE, Judge, Court of Common Pleas, Hamilton County, Ohio, was interviewed. Judge KEEFE had previously served four terms as Municipal Court judge and one term in the Court of Appeals. Regarding his knowledge and association with CHARLES H. KEATING, JR., Judge KEEFE advised as follows: ✓

He has known the appointee for approximately 15 years and described him as highly intelligent and very high morals. He opined that KEATING would be especially well qualified for a presidential appointment. He opined that KEATING's loyalty was unquestionable. He termed him a confident lawyer and felt that there would be no conflict of interest in any such position, to his knowledge. He reiterated that KEATING was singularly well qualified and would so recommend him.

Judge KEEFE had no information regarding the appointee or his family, or background, of a derogatory nature.

Interview was had with Judge OTIS R. HESS, who has served on the bench since January 1, 1930, and is currently in the Court of Appeals, First Appellate District of Ohio.

Concerning his knowledge and association with CHARLES H. KEATING, JR., Judge HESS advised as follows:

He has known Mr. KEATING for approximately 20 years, dating back to his, KEATING's, college days when he was an Olympic swimmer. Judge HESS is also a close associate of the appointee's brother, WILLIAM J. KEATING.

Judge HESS has followed the career of the appointee after his graduation from the University of Cincinnati Law School and through his successful legal practice. He described KEATING's morals as beyond reproach and his legal abilities as extra ordinary. He felt also that the appointee had a great ability to organize and lead in matters socially and civically.

Judge HESS was cognizant that in recent years, Mr. KEATING has engaged in the fight against indecent literature through the Citizens For Decent Literature, Incorporated. He opined that the appointee presently occupies a high position in the aforementioned organization on a national level. ✓

Judge HESS felt that Mr. KEATING's loyalty was beyond reproach. He knew of no conflict of interest. He further opined that the appointee would put a large amount of his own funds into the organization to fight pornographic and indecent literature.

He described Mr. KEATING as a hard working extraordinary hard driving individual and when he undertakes a position wholeheartedly, functions in that regard. He felt that his legal ability speaks for itself in that he represented one of the largest financial institutions in this area, namely, the Lindner organization.

Judge HESS further opined that the community and university ties, as well as religious activities of Mr. KEATING, all lead to a man of exceptional capabilities. He knows of no derogatory information relating to appointee or his family.

Interview was had with Judge FRANK M. GUSWEILER, Court of Common Pleas, Hamilton County, Cincinnati, Ohio, where he has been a judge since 1958.

Judge GUSWEILER has known CHARLES H. KEATING, JR., since 1956. He opined that he was possibly better acquainted with the appointee's brother, WILLIAM J. KEATING, in that WILLIAM had replaced Judge GUSWEILER as a judge in Municipal Court in 1958. Judge GUSWEILER knows the appointee's wife and family. He described Mr. KEATING as a good lawyer and his character and background is "of the finest". In the appointee's current ✓ position heading a law firm, he felt his intelligence was of the highest.

Judge GUSWEILER reflected on only one disagreement, if you could call it that, that he had with CHARLES KEATING, JR., dating back to 1950. At that time, the appointee was in charge of the Citizens For Decent Literature, Incorporated and in this capacity, was attempting to promote public appeal concerning violations of the obscenity laws. At that time, a couple of local theaters were showing adult questionable films and the CDL, along with other related groups, including a labor union and church groups, were "needling the prosecutor" into bringing charges regarding said theaters.

Judge GUSWEILER was the presiding judge of the Municipal Court at that time and one of the theater men was arrested on an obscenity charge. The CDL, along with other groups, appealed to public opinion in a large "write-in campaign" which, in essence, Judge GUSWEILER felt was attempting to sway the presiding Judge DENNING at the time.

The presiding judge therefore requested in view of the volume of mail received, that the case be reassigned which was done and Judge GUSWEILER presided in the matter. Judge GUSWEILER opined that he did not feel at that time that it was proper to try to influence a presiding judge and the court in advance. In other words, evidence should speak for itself.

The only conflict, if you could call it that, at that time, was in Judge GUSWEILER's opinion, that of the volume of mail being deluged on the court. Judge GUSWEILER took the attitude that the public should not direct letters to the court, but should speak out in public opinion polls and direct correspondence to Congress, thereby activating legislation in that regard.

Judge GUSWEILER termed the appointee's legal abilities as excellent and opined that Mr. KEATING was never unprepared and always well briefed when he presented a case in Judge GUSWEILER's court and he faced the issues legally and forcefully. His character, reputation and intelligence are above reproach.

He opined that there was no conflict of interest other than the fact of close family ties, in that the appointee was his brother's, WILLIAM's, close advisor and supporter and would certainly desire to further WILLIAM KEATING's political career.

He opined that WILLIAM KEATING would like to advance to Congress and, in fact, it was his brother's suggestion that along those lines, he could probably further his career better from Cincinnati City Council than he could from the court.

Judge GUSWEILER had no derogatory information relating to Mr. KEATING and felt that he had impeccable morals. He noted that KEATING had a number of children, was prominent in sports and interested in youth and athletics.

NEWSPAPER LIBRARY FILES

[redacted] Librarian, Cincinnati Enquirer, a daily newspaper of general circulation in the Cincinnati, Ohio, area, furnished his file on CHARLES H. KEATING, JR. and the Citizens for Decent Literature, Inc. which contained the following pertinent information:

b6
b7C

The Cincinnati Enquirer, 617 Vine Street, in article of April 3, 1946, reported that CHARLES H. KEATING, a member of the University of Cincinnati Swimming Team, had won the National Intercollegiate Breast Stroke Championship the previous weekend at the Yale University pool, New Haven, Connecticut, where he beat Ohio State's previously unbeaten [redacted] in the 200 yard final with a yard to spare.

b6
b7C

The June 3, 1958, issue of the Cincinnati Enquirer contained an article captioned, "Stiffen Penalties on Smut Purveyors", which reported under a Washington by-line on January 30, 1958, that CHARLES KEATING, JR., a young Cincinnati attorney, told a "House judiciary sub-committee today that severe penalties are needed 'to quell' the indecent literature business". KEATING was accompanied by his daughters, [redacted] age 7, and [redacted] age 6, as he was also sworn in to practice before the U. S. Supreme Court.

The February 28, 1960, issue of the Cincinnati Enquirer contained an article "Decent Literature Unit Dons National Cloak" which reported that the Citizens for Decent Literature (CDL), a movement founded in Cincinnati about five years ago by Cincinnati attorney CHARLES H. KEATING, JR. to "fight obscene literature, went national officially yesterday with the unanimous acceptance here by interested parties from across the nation of a national organization plan". Approximately 400 persons attended meetings and workshops at the Hotel Netherland Hilton and Mr. KEATING was named the Chief Legal Counsel of the group.

Aims of the National CDL were listed as follows:

"To create public awareness of the nature and scope of obscene or pornographic literature."

"To encourage the reading of decent literature."

"To expect the enforcement of the laws pertaining to obscene or pornographic literature."

"To serve as a medium for the accumulation and dissemination of information pertinent to the problem."

The November 30, 1965, issue of the Cincinnati Enquirer contained an article captioned, "Attorney to Get XU Medal" which reported that CHARLES H. KEATING, JR. founder and national co-chairman of Citizens for Decent Literature, had been awarded the St. Francis Xavier Medal of XU, which is given annually to men who "demonstrate in today's world the qualities of health of mind that distinguished St. Francis Xavier". KEATING, as founder of CDL, was instrumental in that organization gaining "world-wide recognition for its approach to the control of obscene and pornographic books and pictures."

The June 4, 1966, issue of the Cincinnati Enquirer contained an article captioned, "Loyola Award Given Keating", which reported that CHARLES H. KEATING, JR., Cincinnati attorney, and founder of the CDL, was to be presented the 1966 Daniel A. Lord Award from Loyola Academy during graduation exercises and was cited for "distinguished service toward the advancement of Catholic Secondary Education" through his work to promote publication and sale of decent literature.

The August 4, 1968, issue of the Cincinnati Enquirer contained an article captioned, "Smut Fought 13 Years", reported that CHARLES H. KEATING, JR., Cincinnati attorney and founder of CDL, has, for the past 13 years, endeavored to "Rid America of hard core professional pornography". CDL was reported as having 300 chapters throughout the country.

"But so far decency's won - lost record is dismal. CDL lost 23 or 26 cases in the U. S. Supreme Court in the last year".

"And if Associate Justice Abe Fortas is approved as the Court's new Chief Justice, 'then the ballgame is over for decency' KEATING said."

"On the other hand, if Fortas' nomination is rejected, 'it will be because of our efforts'..."

"Keating insists that CDL aims not to censor communications or to burn books but to 'enforce laws already existing against the guys who put hard core pornography in the corner cigar store stand.' He estimates that 75 to 100 publishers are doing a $2 billion smut business."

The March 20, 1969, issue of the Cincinnati Enquirer contained an article captioned, "St. X to open pool in fall" which reported that St. Xavier High School, Cincinnati, Ohio, will open a $500,000 natatorium next fall through the generosity of CHARLES H. KEATING, JR. and WILLIAM J. KEATING to be built in memory of their father, CHARLES H. KEATING, SR. The pool will be an eight lane, 50 meter olympic indoor pool and will be finished by June, 1970.

Librarian, Cincinnati Post-Times Star, 800 Broadway, made available files on appointee and CDL which contained no additional information.

MAGAZINE ARTICLES

Personal Secretary to CHARLES H. KEATING, JR., Keating, Muething and Klekamp, 18th floor, Provident Tower, Fourth and Vine Streets, furnished six reprints concerning obscenity and pornography which appeared in the Reader's Digest published at Plainville, New York, beginning in May, 1964, and ending December, 1968, which contained the following pertinent information concerning KEATING:

b6
b7C

An article captioned, "Poison In Print - And How To Get Rid of It" by CLARENCE W. HALL, which appeared in the 1964 issue of Reader's Digest, which reported that CHARLES H. KEATING, JR. of Cincinnati, Ohio, founder of a fast growing organization called Citizens for Decent Literature (CDL), said: 'Fearing a phony cry of censor, we have been jeered into a national sheepishness about taking action against this evil. Lick that timidity and you've gone a long way to lick the problem.' Keating should know. A former all American swimming champion and U. S. Navy fighter pilot, '6'4" young lawyer and his CDL have effectively proved that the tide can be swept back by concerted community action. The two instruments of his attack are (1) An aroused citizenry; (2) Enforcement of existing laws that make the distribution and sale of obscenity a crime...

"...Keating's concern over the flood of printed poison was galvanized one day in 1956 when he noticed youngsters at a newsstand snickering over a display set apart from the rest of the magazines and paperbacks. Moving over for a look Keating was shocked. Besides "girlie" magazines featuring nudes in suggestive poses, dozens of publications depicted not only raw sex but stories of abnormal sex behavior. By any decent citizen's definition, this was pornography, dirt for dirt's sake...

"The first arrest in the Cincinnati drive was that of a stationery and candy store proprietor caught selling lewd publications to grade school students...

Immediately other dealers began cleaning up their stands. When they asked CDL for a list of offended magazines, Keating sent them instead, a copy of the city ordinance "We're not a censoring body", he said, 'The law is plain enough!'. During the next two years seven other dirt peddlers were brought into court, all were convicted, all but one appealed; all appeals failed... News of Cincinnati's success brought hundreds of appeals for guidance from other communities. In September, 1962, CDL went 'national' with headquarters - a clearing-house of information freely supplied to any community - in Keating's law office. CDL's biweekly publication, 'The National Decency Reporter', alerts all chapters to significant court decisions, analyzes cases where convictions have been overturned. Its counseling film, 'Perversion For Profit', is a shattering expose of the obscenity racket.

"A growing potent arm of CDL is its youth division with more than 200 chapters...

"CDL advises all chapters, adult and youth, 'Demand only that the laws against distribution and sale of obscene publications be enforced. Don't tell people what they can or cannot read. Limit yourself to calling attention to materials you believe violate community standards, and bring it to the proper authorities - preferably a jury decision - to determine whether the material is, in fact, obscene...

CDL has testimony from police chiefs, court psychotherapists, and FBI Director J. EDGAR HOOVER, establishing a direct relationship between the stimulus of obscene publications and criminal behavior, both adult and juvenile."

An article appearing in the February, 1967, issue of the Reader's Digest captioned, "A Victory over the Smut Peddler", by O. K. ARMSTRONG, which reported that "CHARLES H. KEATING, JR., Chairman of Citizens For Decent Literature, a national organization with more than 300 chapters, says 'The Supreme Court decision of last March 21, 1969, makes it a different ballgame...

Any area that decides to rid itself of obscenity can do so by competent enforcement and vigorous prosecution.
There is no excuse for pornographers to be in business
after the court's decision."

Anti-Smut Leader Takes Campaign to Congress

MAY 28 1960

WASHINGTON, May 27 (UPI)—The leader of a nation-wide anti-smut movement piled hundreds of magazines before a House subcommittee today and claimed the publications "caused" a spirit of wantonness.

Charles H. Keating Jr. of Cincinnati told the Post Office subcommittee he got the magazines from citizens who bought them at newsstands and sent them to his Citizens for Decent Literature organization.

Keating conceded that he solicited the magazines in letters sent "to all communities and citizens interested in decency."

Against Censorship

Keating said his organization was against "state censorship" but he advocated creation of state legislative bodies with subpoena powers to investigate the problem of pornography.

Keating, a former Navy fighter pilot, said his organization had two purposes: to educate the public about pornography and to force enforcement of valid statutes making obscenity crime."

He claimed many prosecutors and police officials were not attempting to press their cases because they were "brainwashed by the mass media."

He said 500 communities were definitely interested in forming citizens anti-smut groups and another 300 communities had expressed mild interest.

Keating said opponents of citizens groups "will yell censorship, art, borderline and other undefined words and phrases to disguise the rot they peddle."

Subcommittee Chairman Kathryn E. Granahan (D-Pa.) said she had only five letters opposed to Keating's viewpoints, one signed by a writer from Holy City, Cal.

decent, adj. (F. or L. DECENT, fr. L. DECENS, DECENTIS, pres. part. of DECERE, to be fitting or becoming; akin to L. DECUS glory, honor, ornament, Gr. DOKEIN to seem good...)

—Webster's New International Dictionary, Second Edition.

I may be old-fashioned and utterly out of tune with the age but I was trained to give the benefit of the doubt to all people. My grandmother, God rest her soul, told me: "You must believe a man's words, until his actions tell you the truth." My grandfather was more skeptical. He said, "Watch out for the man who announces his own goodness; he is trying to drown out something else."

Homilies aside, I have had some shocking disappointments lately. The latest case in point took place in Visalia, the county seat of Tulare, close to Merced, the town in which I spent some of my most formative years. There, last month, an important book trial took place. It was the result of a civil suit for declaratory relief brought by Tulare Dist. Atty. Jay R. Ballantyne against two book-dealers, Gordon S. Hogue and Clarence Weinberg, involving three paperback books and an illustrated magazine. The suit was tried before Superior Judge Meredith Wingrove, a visiting jurist from Kings County.

Before I go into the trial itself, let me hasten to say that we, in Los Angeles County, who pride ourselves on our enlightenment, could take a few lessons from Tulare. Down here we do not content ourselves with going after books or paintings. We go after writers, painters, publishers and seek to jail them as well as to suppress the works of their pens. While I am at it, the coverage of the Visalia trial by the Visalia Times-Delta is a model of objective journalism. Both sides were covered, accurately and right down the middle.

The Visalia trial was notable for another fact. It was the first time that Charles H. Keating Jr., national co-chairman of Citizens for Decent Literature, appeared as an expert witness for the prosecution (indeed, the only expert witness for the prosecution) and thereby hangs another tale. The Citizens for Decent Literature has been an active organization in trying to cleanse (by their standards) the newsstands and bookstores of America, one of a group of vigilante organizations concerned about the moral health of the nation. Naively, I understood the CDL to be an educational and propaganda organization, trying to elevate the taste of the readers of this country. Obviously, they are not limited to this role. In fact, we in Los Angeles County, possibly uniquely in the country, have a CDL attorney, James J. Clancy, who is also a deputy district attorney, heading a drive on "pornography" here which curiously coincided with Chief Deputy Dist. Atty. Manley Bowler's recent and unsuccessful campaign to be elected to the office of District Attorney.

One of the targets of Mr. Clancy's detergent and deterrent efforts, both as a CDL attorney and a deputy district attorney, is the artist Connor Everts, against whose series of drawings, "Studies in Desperation," Mr.

Clancy is attempting to protect the community. Less dedicated folk might think, as I do, that what Los Angeles needs is more Connor Everts. Particularly, since Mr. Everts' work has been compared to Goya's "Horrors of War" by local critics, and his paintings and drawings have appeared in the Gallery of Modern Art in Washington, D.C., the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, the Museum of Modern Art in New York, the Pasadena Art Museum, without offending the sensibilities of viewers every bit as concerned with art as Mr. Clancy, that protector of the public morals, who told the owner of the gallery displaying Mr. Everts' work: "My mind is set like concrete against modern art."

But let us give the benefit of the doubt to Mr. Clancy and to Mr. Bowler, who appointed him, and to the County Board of Supervisors, who approved this special appointment. Let us not be too quick to raise questions. Mr. Clancy is sworn to uphold the law, to protect us against possible contagion. Let us examine the performance of his CDL colleague in Visalia, the eminent Mr. Keating. And then let us

on to other activities of the CDL. Assistant Dist. Atty. Robert G. Bereman, who prosecuted the case for Dist. Atty. Ballantyne in Visalia, called Mr. Keating to the stand as an expert witness. Mr. Keating is a Cincinnati attorney who specializes in tax and business law and whose CDL post is an unpaid one. Mr. Keating testified that the books, in his opinion, were obscene under the law. Like all expert witnesses, Mr. Keating was subject to cross-examination by defense attorney Stanley Fleishman, a specialist in these cases and a long-time adversary of Keating and the CDL point of view. There was no love lost between them. Cal 10

Mr. Keating began his testimony on Tuesday, Oct. 20. His cross-examination was not completed by the close of court that day. He told Judge Wingrove that he had a speaking engagement in Salt Lake City the next day. Both sides stipulated that Mr. Keating would be allowed to fill his speaking engagement and return to complete the cross-examination. The defense put on its experts, Henry Madden, Fresno State College librarian, Dr. Jay Ziskin, psychologist and counselor at California State College at Los Angeles, both of whom testified that in their opinion the material was not obscene. They were cross-examined. It was time for Mr. Keating to return for his cross-examination. Mr. Keating did not appear. There was a report that Mr. Keating's plane was misdirected. The trial went on.

The following day, Dr. Roger Chittick, associate professor of English at Fresno State College, testified that in his opinion the books were not obscene. He was cross-examined. Mr. Keating did not appear. The judge instructed the assistant district attorney to produce Mr. Keating for cross-examination by Tuesday, Oct. 27. Mr. Keating did not appear. Instead, he sent a telegram to Judge Wingrove, stating that the press of business kept him from returning to Visalia.

Judge Wingrove, who takes the law seriously, called Keating's action arrogant, said that Keating, as an attorney, should know that he is violating his oath as an attorney by not returning to Visalia to complete his testimony. "As far as this court is concerned, he is in contempt of court." He called Keating a "discredit to the bar." Later, he said, "... had he been in California, it wouldn't take me 15 seconds to get a bench warrant out for him."

The books and the magazine were held not obscene. He said: "I can't say it's utterly without social importance ... I wouldn't recommend this type of literature ... but it's not forced on people. I don't think it's likely to demoralize society in the United States."

As for Keating, the judge said: "He's out for this group (CDL). He wants to remove everything that doesn't meet his particular approval. He's a crusader along this particular line."

For those of us who have testified as expert witnesses in obscenity trials, Mr. Keating's position may be understandable if not justifiable. It is not pleasant to have to undergo cross-examination. But that is part of the law. It is easy to dish it out, the question is whether you can take it. Mr. Keating disappointed me.

Is there a lesson in all of this for the average citizen? I think there is an important one. It is not simply Visalia or Los Angeles, this case or that case. It is the old issue of the means and the end. Does any means justify the end? In a free society, in a society which wishes to guarantee the free flow of ideas and information, the means are most important. For we corrupt the spirit of the law, when we bend it, or circumvent it, or abuse it. Those who preach the need for a moral resurgence, for a restoration of decency, should by their acts defend the law, respect the law. And if they disagree with the law, they should work to change the law.

To the extent that the Citizens for Decent Literature and other groups work in these areas of education, they should have the respect of the community and even of those who disagree completely with them. Unfortunately, there are disquieting signs that this is not always the case. Just a few weeks ago, members of the California Library Assn. met here and compared notes on the methods of harassment, threat and intimidation used by certain groups to "cleanse" library shelves of books they do not like or approve. Booksellers and news dealers have been the subject of pressures uncomfortably like those in authoritarian lands. The National Decency Reporter, organ of the CDL, has published an article by Keating urging prosecutions of local "obscenity peddlers" regardless of the possibility of being overruled by higher courts.

I am certain that the intentions of the great majority of those people concerned about the mass of lurid and tawdry literature are honest and sincere. But, in tampering with free expression, they must be even more careful and decent (i.e., fitting, decorous, honorable, respectful of the law) to be above suspicion of contempt for the laws which guarantee that freedom. Victory in that "dim and uncertain area," as one Supreme Court justice called it, which "often separates obscenity from constitutionally protected expression," may be purchased at too great a price.

Request received 4/25/69, for investigation of Keating who is being considered for Presidential appointment, position not stated. Keating, aged 45, is attorney with offices in Cincinnati, Ohio. He founded Citizens for Decent Literature, Incorporated, in 1956 and since then has become nationally known as an expert regarding obscene and pornographic literature. Persons interviewed commented favorably regarding his character, associates, loyalty, and reputation. Investigation complete.

Bureau files reveal FBI investigated Keating in 1956 and 1957 for possible violation of Atomic Energy Act and for fraud against the Government. In that regard it was alleged in June, 1956, while representing Research Laboratories of Colorado, Incorporated, Keating submitted application to Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) requesting "Q" clearances for officers of this company. Based on information in this application, including statement that [redacted] was elected President of this corporation, AEC granted the requested clearances. In August, 1956, [redacted] advised AEC his designation as President was possibly illegal and also he alleged Keating furnished classified AEC information to unauthorized persons. Results of that investigation were furnished to Department of Justice and by letter dated 2/15/57, Department said there was insufficient evidence to establish violation of Atomic Energy Act or espionage statutes. Also, by letter dated 5/9/57, Department stated facts failed to constitute suitable basis for prosecution under fraud against the Government statutes. A summary of foregoing information was included in enclosed summary memorandum.

Keating—Smut Foe

This article describes a situation of such magnitude that the U. S. Commission on Obscenity and Pornography has been appointed to seek a remedy.

Named to the committee by President Nixon June 13 was Charles H. Keating Jr., 45-year-old Cincinnati attorney, founder and legal counsel to Citizens For Decent Literature. He succeeded former U. S. Sen. Kenneth P. Keating, who has been named ambassador to India. The two Keatings are not related.

The Cincinnati lawyer, a longtime advocate of an anti-obscenity campaign, and who has been active in anti-smut work for some 12 years, said upon his appointment to the U. S. commission:

"I shall serve on the commission with the objective of seeing these criminals jailed. The decent people of this country want to strike back at the filth peddlers. I propose to be an articulate, active representative for these citizens."

Hello:

Rackets by mail as well as by transcription - radio and television are nothing new, but it seems to me that this one is probably one that needs to be looked in to. Of course, all of us in Montana and America are against filth, and certainly garbage ought to be kept in the alley where if of right belongs, but I would suspect that this letter has fallen into the hands of a lot of decent "Little Old Ladies of both sexes" who have probably dug down into their meager bank accounts and sent checks to this man, and depleted their bank accounts of money they can not well afford to deplete - All in his "good cause" - or so they hope.

Being a Mayor who is young and suspicious, I have my doubts about the motives of one Charles H. Keating, Jr. of 1811 Provident Tower, Cincinnati, Ohio, and would suggest that he be investigated for what he is.

Please advise.

Sincerely,
