Strange phone calls from Michael Jackson

SUPERSTAR AND FAN: Michael Jackson with Terry George in 1983

By DENNA ALLEN and ANDREW CHAPMAN

SUPERSTAR Michael Jackson made an extraordinary sexually explicit transatlantic telephone call to a 13-year-old British schoolboy fan, it was revealed yesterday.

Now details of the allegations made by Terry George are to be handed to Scotland Yard and Los Angeles police investigating the Jackson child sex scandal.

American detectives are also planning to question LaToya Jackson, who has voiced concern about 50 boys visiting the home she shared with younger brother Michael. Last night she instructed her lawyer to contact the Los Angeles Police Department.

Disturbing

Meanwhile, Terry George, now a 28-year-old disc jockey, has spoken for the first time about the disturbing late-night phone call Jackson made to his home when he was just a boy. The multi-millionaire singer asked Terry, then 13, about sexual activities in graphic terms. At the same time the star described his own intimate physical actions during the conversation. After the Jackson scandal exploded last week, Terry said: 'I can believe that the allegations are true because of what happened. me. If it hadn't been that phone call I would never have believed it was possible. But when I first heard the news I immediately felt part of it all.

Jackson's strange call to British boy

'I'd only dared tell a handful of my closest friends, because I thought nobody would believe me. At last now they know I was telling the truth about what Michael Jackson said to me.

'He just came straight out with his questions. I just giggled. I felt embarrassed and awkward. I didn't really understand what he was talking about.

'I tried to steer him off the subject and then he asked: "Do you believe I'm doing it now?"

'I said "Are you?" I felt sick. I was shocked. I tried to talk about something else but he brought it back into the conversation. I was uncomfortable.

'The whole conversation lasted about 15 minutes, but he talked about this intimate sexual act for five minutes or so. Then he said he'd phone me the next day.

'Looking back I could have hung up, but he was a superstar and I was flattered and I didn't want him to stop ringing me.'

The friendship with the Yorkshire boy started as part of Terry's hobby of collecting autographs and interviews with stars. Paul McCartney, Kim Wilde, Cilla Black, Boy George — all share a place in his treasured photo album.

Intimate

With a small tape recorder, — a Christmas presents from his proud parents — Terry would wait at stage doors and inside hotel lobbies hoping to snatch a few words and a photograph.

He had already captured Omar Sharif, but his greatest scoop came in February 1979 when he coaxed an interview from Jackson, then 20, who was performing in Leeds. Terry eavesdropped in the lobby of the Dragonara Hotel listening for details of room numbers from porters and cleaners. One let it slip that the Jackson entourage had taken over the eighth floor.

Terry slipped into the lift and knocked on Jackson's door. The superstar answered and invited him into his suite for an exclusive interview.

The questions were innocent fanzine trivia, but it was a magical 30 minutes for the young boy.

'He spoke to me like a friend,' recalls Terry. 'He made me feel special and at the end of it he asked if we could keep in touch and we swapped telephone numbers and addresses.'

Several days later Terry answered the phone at his home in Leeds. Jackson was on the line calling from his London hotel.

'Hi, it's Michael... is Terry there?'

Again the conversation was easy and casual as the superstar chatted about the tour. Jackson returned to the US, but more calls followed over the next three months. 'Sometimes he rang in the middle of the night,' says Terry. 'Once my father answered. He boasts that he's spoken to Michael Jackson.'

But then came the call in late spring 1979 that shattered the innocence of the relationship.

And very soon afterwards the calls began to peter out. They came to an abrupt end when Terry's parents phone was cut off because he had run up a £340 bill calling the US. His mother said: 'You've been phoning that Michael Jackson, haven't you?'

Charges

Terry tried calling Jackson several times, reversing the charges from a phone box. When he got through it became clear his superstar friend didn't want to know.

The final rejection came four years later when Terry tried to rekindle their friendship when Jackson came to London again. Terry tracked him down and was even photographed alongside his idol, but now the management were on hand to issue the polite brush-off.

'I felt used because he'd wanted my friendship when I was just a boy. Now I was a young man he just didn't seem to want to know,' says Terry.

'Looking back it was wrong of Michael. The call wasn't from a young teenager, but a grown man.'

Now Terry has sworn an affidavit for the Los Angeles Police Department and is prepared to travel to California to help their enquiries.

Superintendent Michael Hames, head of the Obscene Publications Squad, said yesterday: 'We will investigate this matter alongside the Los Angeles police.'

what was happening.

They claim fear of threats by Jackson's associates stopped them from talking until now.

The Quindoys are seeking $500,000 (£330,000) in back pay from the superstar, who celebrates his 35th birthday today.

Mr Quindoy, who is preparing a book about the singer, said: 'Michael is such a big man. I was trying to protect him, but it lingered in my mind that it was a civic duty to tell the truth.'

The initial scandal erupted when a dentist in a custody battle alleged his 13-year-old son had been sexually abused at Jackson's home.

Jackson's staff claimed the man was trying to extort millions of dollars.

A Los Angeles TV station claimed last night that, while denying all allegations, Jackson's staff had offered the father £230,000 to keep quiet but he had refused.

Hoping

Meanwhile Detective Bill Dworin, of the Los Angeles police child exploitation unit, said he was hoping to speak to Jackson's elder sister LaToya, who has voiced concern about Michael's boy guests.

'We are aware she might be able to identify other children who have spent time in Michael Jackson's company,' he said.

Visitors to the ranch included Home Alone star Macaulay Culkin, 12, and Australian Wade Robson, 10, who both insist they were not sexually assaulted.

Several former employees rallied to the star's defence. One said Quindoy and LaToya had misinterpreted simple kindness.

And Jamee Ruth Newkirk, a former executive at Jackson's ranch, said: 'I never had evidence of anything mischievous... if someone spent the night, they had their own bedroom.'

● Pepsi-Cola last night denied Los Angeles newspaper reports that they were investigating Jackson's life with a view to dropping him after a £9 million, ten-year association.

DIANA...speaks candidly

DIANA'S VISION:

I'll make my boy the people's king

PRINCESS DIANA has revealed her vision of a down-to-earth monarchy for the future with William as "the people's king."

She has told close friends how she is determined that William will rule without the "arrogant" views of the Palace.

The Princess has vowed to show her sons how ordinary folk in Britain live and make them "feel in their hearts the people's hopes, joys, problems, fears, ambitions and disappointments."

Diana has even decided not to divorce Charles so that she can shape the princes' personalities and future. Full astonishing story—Pages 4 and 5.

Brit DJ tells of shock call

By CHARLES YATES and DAVID WOODING

A BRITISH disc jockey has told how Michael Jackson made an obscene phone call to him when he was a star-struck schoolboy.

Terry George was only 13 when he had a bizarre late-night conversation with the superstar — who described how he was fondling himself at the other end of the line.

Terry, now 28, is passing on details of the sex chat to Los Angeles police probing the Jackson child-abuse allegations. He first met the star when, as a schoolboy autograph hunter, he managed to interview him in his home city of Leeds.

They became pals and regularly had transatlantic chats — until in one call Jackson, then 20, asked him in graphic detail about sexual activities.

The millionaire told how he was performing a sex act on himself as they spoke.

Terry said he believes the abuse allegations against Jackson — "because of what happened to me."

CONCERT

His revelations are being relayed to the management entourage of the singer, in Singapore on his world tour.

Yesterday 47,000 fans, including actress Liz Taylor, turned a sell-out concert at Singapore's National Stadium into a huge 35th birthday party for Jacko.

He was driven there in a van, peering from behind curtains with a mask over his nose and mouth.

Terry went on: "If it hadn't been for that call I would never have believed the allegations were possible."

"But when I first heard the news I immediately felt

Tecs hired for Pepsi 'probe'

PEPSI-Cola has hired a detective agency to investigate Jacko, it was claimed yesterday.

The soft drinks giant, whose ads are fronted by the star, has told Kroll Associates to "examine Jackson's character", U.S. newspapers say.

Kroll is largely staffed by former CIA officers. One writer said: "If you want someone to dig up the dirt, they are the people." Pepsi denied the probe.

Banner headlines... in support of Michael not a feeler

LONDON PROTEST

HUNDREDS of fans marched in London yesterday to sing their support for Michael Jackson.

They waved banners saying: "Michael is a healer not a feeler" and "You'll never Moonwalk alone."

They sang Happy Birthday at the demo near Eros' statue in Piccadilly Circus.

Interior designer Louise Ayre, 21, of Beckenham, Kent, said: "He's innocent. I'm in love with him and these allegations are blackmail."

Chris Rich, 11, from Barnet, North London, said: "If he asked me to go to his ranch Neverland I'd be really happy."

Student Ann Stephenson, 20, of Bedford, said: "The Press is saying the stories have ruined his career, but this demonstration shows we still support him."

Sonya Henson, 27, of Barnet, said: "He'll never be able to go around his fairground rides with kids hanging off him without people raising an eyebrow."

at this meeting that the demands were made. The father repeatedly demanded the money to fund a film project. His demands were refused.

"He said he would accuse Michael of being a child molester if we failed to pay up."

Jacko, pictured above performing in Singapore last night, remained silent throughout the meeting, Pellicano said.

Chandler, 42 — whose son claims the star performed oral sex on him — "stormed out" after an hour.

Later that day, Pellicano claims Chandler's lawyers offered Jacko "a deal" in which the father would receive more than £3million a year over four years.

Horrors

This was also "turned down flat," he said.

"We believe the child-abuse charges stemmed from these meetings," he added. "Mr Jackson adamantly denies all the charges against him."

But last night the source close to Dr Chandler said he was "furious" at Pellicano's claims.

"It is true he tried to reach an out-of-court

Jordy... 'abused by star'

settlement with the Jackson camp," he said.

"But it was to spare his son the horrors of a massive court case.

"Jackson's side offered Dr Chandler £220,000 to drop the charges. But by then Dr Chandler had reported the matter to authorities.

"He is very upset by Jackson's attempts to discredit him and his son. He absolutely believes Jordy is telling the truth. He acted in the boy's best interests"

The dentist's lawyer Barry Rothman said: "There was no blackmail attempt. We stand by our charges."

Police yesterday revealed they had begun a probe into the alleged blackmail attempt

A spokesman for Los Angeles police said: "Both sides are making charges against each other and we will look at all sides.

"Our inquiries regarding the child sex abuse claims against Mr Jackson are still very active.

"We are talking to dozens of children who have known him."

Cliff: It's the price of fame

CLIFF Richard has backed Jacko — and says the child-abuse claims are part of the price of fame.

Cliff, 52, told a Christian festival in Corby, Northants: "He's probably the best singer alive and look at what he's going through.

"When you become a public image, you're up for grabs and very, very vulnerable."

part of it all. I'd only dared tell a handful of my closest friends, because I thought no one would believe me.

At last they know I was telling the truth, about what Michael Jackson said to me."

Terry told a Sunday newspaper: "He just came straight out with his questions.

"I felt embarrassed and awkward. I didn't really understand what he was talking about. I tried to steer him off the subject and he asked, 'Do you believe I'm doing it now?'

"I said, 'Are you?' I felt panicky. I was shocked.

"The whole conversation lasted about 15 minutes and he talked about this intimate sexual act for five minutes or so.

"I could have hung up, but he was a superstar and I was flattered and I didn't want him to stop ringing me."

The pair's friendship started in February 1978 when Terry tracked Jacko to his room at the Dragonara Hotel, where he was staying before a performance.

Over the next three months they spoke several times on the phone — often "in the middle of the night."

Then came the conversation that shattered the relationship.

In 1983 Terry tried to renew the friendship when Jacko was in London. They were pictured together but the star's entourage brushed him away from any further contact.

Terry said: "I felt used because he had wanted my friendship when I was just a boy.

"Now I was a young man he didn't seem to want to know."

The storm surrounding Jacko blew up last week after it was alleged he abused Jordy Schwartz, 13, son of a rich California dentist.
