You will recall that in my memorandum to you dated July 12, 1951, captioned [Redacted] I reported the results of a conversation which Supervisor Sam J. Papich held with [Redacted] of the CIA and with [Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Large Redacted Block]

In talking to Papich, the captioned individual expressed a continued admiration for the Bureau, stating that his association with Bureau personnel during the last war gave him the most satisfying years of his life. He has the greatest admiration for the Director, and he still believes that the Bureau is the only organization capable of handling foreign intelligence in an efficient manner. [Redacted]

[Redacted]

The above is being furnished for record purposes in order to reflect the attitude of [Redacted] toward the Bureau. It is possible that sometime in the future he may be in such a position whereby his services could be utilized by the Bureau. If such an occasion arises, it is believed that [Redacted] would be most cooperative.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

None. This is for your information.

The following information is submitted with reference to

[Redacted]

It appears that the Central Intelligence Agency, in general, has gained greatly in prestige since it was taken over by General Smith. This prestige is reflected in favorable publicity and lack of criticism in the newspapers, an increased reliance on it by the other intelligence agencies, and the apparent close associations by General Smith with the President and other policymakers. The enhancement of CIA's standing appears in general to be due to the following factors:

(1) General Bedell Smith has a personal prestige and standing far greater than prior heads of the agency. He is apparently close to the President, consults with the President on a weekly basis, and attends all the meetings of the National Security Council. He has close friendships with a number of Senators and Representatives, which he can use to advantage. General Smith is paid greater deference by the heads of the service agencies due to his military prestige and the fact that he outranks all of them. General Smith has a dynamic, aggressive personality, is intelligent, and commands respect.

(2) [Redacted]

For a long period, the service intelligence agencies, as well as the State Department, were distrustful of CIA, reluctantly turned any matter over to them, and were reluctant to relinquish any jurisdiction to them. However, the tendency seems to be at present to "dump" matters on CIA because CIA has the money to spend. In other words, the intelligence agencies seem to be more willing to let CIA take over projects and jurisdiction than they have been in the past.

As a matter of information, [redacted] of CIA were given a tour of our Records Section on August 21, 1951. They were accompanied on this tour by Mr. Waikart.

Both of these gentlemen later advised me how much they appreciated being given this tour and that they felt this tour would be very helpful to them in setting up a similar section within CIA.

C.I.A.

2-1

On 5/5/51 the Bureau was advised in a letter to the Director, entitled CIA Checks, that [redacted] CIA, had advised that the personnel problem in the CIA file rooms had been alleviated and barring any unforeseen circumstances, it could reasonably be expected that the length of time required for searching FBI flimsies should vary only slightly one way or the other from the then requirement of eight days.

The CIA maintained this rate of return for approximately sixty days after which the time required for flimsy returns began to lengthen until at present it is taking approximately 22 days.

According to [redacted] CIA, [redacted]

[redacted] stated that it was his opinion that the reduction of the backlog [redacted] would take six months, after which he hoped the time required for FBI searches could be materially shortened. Meanwhile [redacted] has tried and stated he will continue to try to shorten this span of approximately 22 days during the six months period.

b3

While [redacted] did not indicate that [redacted]

Continuing efforts will be maintained by the WFO representative to alleviate this situation and any material change will be promptly reported to the Bureau.

Reference is made to the attached memorandum, dated September 24, 1951, reflecting that CIA had made a survey of outgoing and incoming communications to and from the FBI.

The Director noted, "Is there any significance to CIA making this survey? H."

It is believed that the survey in question means little other than possibly a juvenile attempt on the part of CIA to ascertain if they are outstripping us in dissemination. The results of the survey, 700 to 400 per month in favor of the FBI, was no doubt a rude awakening to CIA.

Special Agent DeLoach of Liaison confidentially ascertained on September 21, 1951, that General W. B. Smith, Director of CIA, had ordered his subordinates to make a survey on a three-month basis of communications being received from the FBI within CIA and those communications sent from CIA to the FBI.

A three-month tally reflecting the results of this survey has disclosed to CIA that the Bureau is averaging 700 communications per month to that Agency. CIA averages 400 per month to the FBI.

General W. B. Smith, Director of CIA, has telephonically contacted Mr. DeLoach relative to the FBI preparing a summary regarding possible ways in which the Communist Party, USA might attempt to undermine confidence in the United States Government.

General Smith indicated that he would appreciate the summary being as factual as possible, however, that he would additionally appreciate the summary containing methods by which attempts of this nature could be made. He indicated that he had no intention of disseminating this summary and that it was strictly for his own information and guidance. He stated that his request was strictly of a personal nature.

General Smith was advised that his request would be made known to the Director and that he would be contacted later as to a decision in this matter. It was additionally indicated that such a summary would entail a considerable amount of work in view of the broad generalities involved, however, that we would be glad to consider his request.

OBSERVATIONS:

It is believed that this particular request seems to be of a personal nature and reflects the interest of General Smith on a national level. It is also believed that he does not have in mind any attempt to disseminate this particular summary to other agencies as a product of CIA efforts.

Although the summary would undoubtedly involve a rather large research project, it is believed that it would be a worthy undertaking and very definitely a timely project.

It is further believed that this summary would not only prove valuable to General Smith in his administration of matters at CIA but that it would additionally prove valuable to other interested intelligence agencies, the White House, the Department of State, the

Office Memorandum • UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

TO : DIRECTOR, FBI

DATE: 10-13-51

FROM : SAC, WFO

SUBJECT: CIA CHECKS
CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY

On 8-6-51, the Bureau was advised in a letter to the Director entitled "CIA CHECKS" that [redacted] CIA, had advised that a span of 22 days for searching FBI flimsies was unavoidable because CIA was furnishing another government agency with information relative to a Displaced Persons program thus causing a delay in FBI searches.

b3

This is to advise that for the past 15 days, the length of time required by CIA for searching FBI flimsies has averaged approximately ten days, except the few cases involving extensive research and/or the writing of memoranda. These latter cases presently number nine; the most delinquent having been submitted to CIA on 9-4-51.

No reason has been advanced by [redacted] CIA, for this improvement but he has advised CIA will try to maintain and improve this average as well as reduce the number of delinquent cases.

~~EXPEDITIOUS PROCESSING~~

Any appreciable change in the length of time required by CIA to search FBI flimsies or in the situation generally, will be promptly reported to the Bureau.

As you will recall, General W. B. Smith of CIA was included on the invitation list for the Liaison representatives cocktail party on October 22, 1951. General Smith notified the Liaison Unit of his acceptance on October 9, 1951.

On October 10, 1951, General Smith advised Mr. DeLoach that he found it necessary to be in New York City at Governor's Island to make a speech on October 22, 1951. However, he stated he contemplated flying back to Washington that night and would probably be present at the above mentioned social function.

General Smith indicated that if he found it impossible to attend the function in question he would call Allan Dulles, his Deputy Director, from New York City and instruct him to represent CIA at this particular function.

General Smith was advised that we appreciated his thoughtfulness in advising of this matter and that we sincerely hoped he would be able to personally attend the function.
