Remycabs 5-50-62 and 4-3-62 concerning plans of captioned subject to visit the United States and participate in a TV debate with RICHARD GOODWIN, United States Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Américan Republics Affairs, and FUENTES' failure to secure a visa for that purpose.

Very little publicity was given to the FUENTES matter in Mexico, and on April 25, 1962, the Embassy reported that although no visa had been given to FUENTES, no communication had been received by the Embassy up to that time sympathetic to FUENTES or criticizing the Embassy's action.

On April 18, 1962, the communist oriented magazine. SIEMPRE, for which FUENTES writes, carried an open letter by him to Mr. GOODWIN and an editorial concerning the matter. The State Department was cognizant of both.

As the matter quickly became a dead issue, a fact for which the Ambassador has expressed himself as grateful, there appears to be no purpose served in keeping this matter pending. Accordingly, this matter is considered RUC'd.

VISA DENIAL BARS LEFTIST'S DEBATE

Mexican Writer Was Slated to Score 'Alliance' on TX

By TAD SZULC/ Special to The New York/Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6— Carlos Fuentes, a leading Mexican novelist with leftist leanings, has been refused a visa to enter the United States although a high State Department official previously had agreed to a television debate with him on the prospects for the Alliance for Progress in Latin America.

State Department officials said today that the visa had been refused after, the discovery that Señor Fuentes might be a member of the Communist party. However, he had no trouble being admitted to the United States last October in connection with the publication of his latest novel by a New York publisher.

The Nation-wide debate between Senor Fuentes and the Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs, Richard N. Goodwin, was to be recorded here tomorrow for presentation Sunday aftermoon on "The Nation's Future," a program of the National Broadcasting Company.

It was understood that Mr. Goodwin accounted on March "11"

It was understood that Mr. Goodwin accepted on March 21 the network's invitation to discuss with Señor Fuentes whether Latin America could develop successfully under President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress

Entry Is Refused Subsequent information from the United States Embassy in Mexico was reported to have indicated, however, that Señor Fuentes was believed to be a member of the Communist party. Therefore, the visa was refused, under the provisions of the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act.

The department had the option of seeking a special waiver for Senor Fuentes from the Department of Justice, but it was not judged in the national in-work issued an announcement in New York last night that the program was being canceled. It said that "Mr. Goodwin previously had agreed to debate with Mr. Fuentes on the subject of "How Can Progress Best Be Achieved in Latin America?"

The officials would not explain why Senor Fuentes alleged Communist connections were not known last October when he came to New York for the publication of his novel, "The Good Conscience,"

His latest book, "as well as a novel he published in 1960, "Where the Air is Clear," received widely favorable reviews in United States newspapers and magazines, His first novel was a best seller in Latin America.

Officials here said that the Officials here said that the Embassy had cabled that Señor Fuentes was a Commu-nist and had been in consulta-tion with "Communist leaders in Mexico" in preparation for the debate. The department, therefore upheld the Embassy's decision not to grant the way.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PROPLE OF THE UNITED STATES

by Carlos Fuentes

The author of the following letter is a Mexican novelist and political commentator, presently on the staff of Politica, a semi-monthly Mexican newsmagazine. Mr. Fuentes was invited by the National Broadcasting Corporation to take part in a TV debate with Richard N. Goodwin, U. S. Under-secretary of State for Latin American affairs. The debate was supposed to take place on April 8, 1962. In order to visit the United States for the debate, Fuentes required the permission of the U. S. Ambassador Thomas C. Mann and the debate could not take place.

TO THE SOUTH OF YOUR BORDER, MY UNITED STATES FRIENDS, stretches a continent which is in revolutionary ferment. A continent that commands tremendous riches and, in spite of this, lives in such misery, such neglect, as you have never known and can hardly imagine. Two hurdred million people live in Latin America, 140 million of whom live in conditions of servitude, 70 million live outside the money economy; 100 million are illiterate, 100 million suffer from endemic diseases, 140 million are undernourished.

Today these poverty striken masses have decided to put an end to this situation. Latin America, for centuries the mere object of historical exploitation has decided to take historical action into its own hands. You will ask yourselves: What is the reason for this backwardness in Latin America? Why? We obtained political independence almost at the same time and now the people of the U. S. are prosperous, free, democratic, and Latin Americans are poor, subjugated, incapable of governing themselves. You sigh with relief: Now everything will change, thanks to United States generosity. The Alliance for Progress will solve the problems which grieve Latin America. Thanks to those 20 thousand million dollars, Latin Americans will forget their illusions of Revolution, which means bloodshed, which would destroy democracy and human rights, and instead will be able to change peacefully. In a short time they will set up democratic societies patterned after that of the U: S.

You are much given to wishing for good things, to what is called "wishful thinking." You have always believed that what is good for you is good for everybody, in all countries and at all times. You don't know of the existence of specific historical factors. You refuse to understand that in reality there are two worlds: the world of the rich countries and the world of the poor countries. You refuse to admit that, necessarily, the solutions that the poor countries demand have to be different from yours. You have had four centuries of uninterrupted development within the capitalist structure. We have had four centuries of continuous underdevelopment within a feudal structure.

Please understand the key word: STRUCTURE. Your origin is in the capitalist, liberal, protestant revolution. You were not chained to the past at your birth. You founded a society which, from the property of the past at your birth. order of its time. You created an economy destined to create riches in the social vacuum of Anglo-Sama America. You did not have to compar and assimilate the resistance of aboriginal cultures. You could start from soratch in a non, virgin society, without feudal ballast. Cur societies, on the other hand, were built as an extension of the moribural feudal order of the Middle Ages; us imherited its out-of-date structure, we embodied its evils and institutionalized them, outside the revolution of the modern world.

If you are descendents of the Referration, we are descendents of the Counter-referration - servitude of labor, religious dogme, big landholders, denial of political, economic and cultural rights of the masses, a closed border against the circulation of modern ideas. Instead of creating the lith for ourselves, we exported it to Spain and Portugal. When we obtained political independence we did not get economic independence: the Structure remained the same.

Please understand that the latin American drama is the persistence of this feudal structure through four centuries of misery and stagnation, while you had your industrial revolution and developed a liberal democracy. You must understand that the only solution for latin America is to destroy this structure once and for all.

But is a revolution necessary, you ask yourselves? Why not destroy this structure by evolution? For a simple resear: because liberal capitalism has had its historical opportunity in Latin America and has shown itself incapable of making an end of feudalism.

During the 19th century, economic liberalism — laisses faire — was superimposed on the feudal structure of latin America. Beside the landholding class of the colony rose a new class of oligarchs who dedicated themselves to the export trade.
These capitalists converted us into countries which are single-crop producers, exporters of raw materials for the markets of the mestern world. The utopia of these oligarchs was the following: given the international division of labor, certain regions would have the task of producing raw materials, and others that of manufacturing goods made from them. This complementary interchange would assure the well-being of all.
We know now that this does not follow necessarily. We know now that in the long run the prices of manufactured goods are always higher than those of raw materials. We know now that when there is a depression in the principal economy those who suffer most are the satellite economies, the producers of the raw materials.

Between 1929 and 1938 Latin American exports went down by 70 per cent. Then there was hunger in Cuba? Fifty per cent of its working force was unemployed, the national banks were bankrupt, sugar land was bought at a discount by U. S. citizens. The myth was smashed. If we really were "complementary economies," our standard of living should be identical with yours.

In order to overcome the effects of economic liberalism, many Latin American countries after 1930 entered a new phase — that of protectionist capitalism, the purpose of which was to stimulate the industrialization of Latin America and make her less dependent upon the export of raw materials. But this native, liberal capitalism was also superimposed upon the feudal structure without destroying it. It left the great masses of workers and peasants to themselves and reserved progress for an urban minority. This process ended with the crystallization of a dual society in Latin America: the modern capitalist society of the cities and the feudal society in the country, that is to say, the society of the minority more and more prosperous and, in contrast, the society of the majority many and more miserable.

In the last years the abyse between the two has grown wider and wider. Tapitalism, then, has not succeeded in solving latin America's problems. It has not been able to destroy the feedal haritage. It has not been capable of mounting a genuine collective development of latin America. This is latin America. A broken-down feedal castle with a carboard capitalist facade.

This is the picture of the historical failure of capitalism in Latin America: continued dependence because of monoculture — in Brazil coffee constitutes 71. % of the exports; in Bolivia tin constitutes 60 %; in Chile, copper 63 %; in Costa Rica, bananas 60 %; in Colombia, coffee 82 %; in Honduras, bananas 75 %; in Haiti, coffee 63 %; in Venezuela, oil 95 %; in Nicaragua, coffee 51 %; in the Dominican Republic, sugar 60 %.

In Chile and Brazil, 2 % of the population own 50 % of the land. In Venezuela, 3 % of the population own nine-tenths of the land. In general in Latin America, with the exception of Mexico and Cuba, 5 % of the population own half the land. More than half of all Latin Americans are farmers who work in conditions close to slavery. Moreover, only 24 % of the land of Latin America can be cultivated. Of this percentage, vast areas are not being cultivated either so the landholders can maintain their profits, or for purely irrational reasons. The majority of the Latin American countries have to import a good part of their food; only Uruguay and Argentina are relatively self-sufficient. Agricultural output is very low compared with the amount of labor involved. And the international prices of agricultural products constantly fluctuate and go down.

The present systems are incapable of increasing production and utilizing national resources at the rate necessary for a growing population.

As a result, the average annual growth of production per capita in Latin America, which in 1955 was 2.2%, went down in 1959 to 1%, and in 1960 to nothing. That means that today, under the dual feudal-capitalist system, latin America DOES NOT PROGRESS.

The persistence of the feudal structure keeps the masses from access to education and insures the concentration of political power in the hards of a handful of landowners and the capitalists of the cities. The latin dustricen armies, equipped and financed by the United States, ensure that this order is maintained, as we have just seen in Argentina. Ecuador and Guatemala.

At precent, 4% of the oppolation of Latin America raceive 50% of all the national income. The upper classes have hoarded L thousand million dollars in foreign banks. A great percentage of their local investments are unproductive: securizes with fixed interest, real estate, luxury consumption.

At present, a good part of the latin American aconomy does not serve its own development but constitutes only a prolongation of foreign economic domination and exploitation. The oil of Venezuela, the tin of Bollvia, the copper of Chile, the minerals of Peru don't remain in these countries nor do they promote the development of these countries: the mines and oil fields of Latin America are enclaves of the United States economy and only benefit that economy. But since this is a topic which concerns you very closely, we will deal with it further later on.

The key question is: how den we overcome the factors of underdevelopment in Latin America? The answer is clear: for the short run, stabilization of the prices of raw materials; for the long run, economic diversification and industrialization. For you want this to happen via a peaceful evolution and through the Allience for row, end. And we think with Revolution. Lette examination between

The only structural reform that the Alliance for Progress provides for has to do with an agrarian reform. Now please remader that the basis of political power lies in the big land holdings. Do you certainly believe that a class which is founded upon domination of the land will give up its reason to exist?

Agrerian feudalism is the necessary condition for the wealth and the political domination of the ruling classes of Jentral America, Chile, Peru, Argentina, Brazil, Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador. Do you believe these classes will commit voluntary suicide? A Peruvian oliganch told me recently, "If the gringos force us to distribute the land, we recaliste by expropriating their mining companies."

No, my United States friends, an agrarian reform in Latin America, as Mexico and Cuba have shown, can be made only by revolution, with arms in hand. That is what the members of the Peruvian communities, the commerce, are starting to do, and peasants of northeast Brazil, and outcasts of Chile, Ecuador, Colombia. Don't let yourselves be deceived by the false agrarian reforms: the distribution of sterile land, without credits, without machinery, without schools or hospitals. They might deceive you but they cannot deceive the peasant masses, nor stifle their revolutionary zeal.

The Alliance is going to be applied by governments who are not truly representative of their peoples, by governments who are representing the old feudal order, whose only interest is in safeguarding wheir privileges. See where your dollars go—as in South Vietnam, as in South Korpa, as in lean and Spain: into the bank accounts of a handful of people, into the importation of luxury sutomobiles, into construction of high-rest apartment houses.

The Alliance does not even mertion one of the basic factors of Latin American backwardness, that of occnomic deformation imposed by the foreign domination of our economy. All New you jump! You replace to admit this. You have assisted Latin American development. Which development? You have, you think, disinterestedly given up your dollars and your technical officiency.

We have talked already of the domination of national resources: iron, copper, tin, coal, lead, sine, patroleum. These resources, in your hands, become a part of your own economy, they are not being used for the internal development of our countries. The Alliance does not even speak of this. It does not plan that the iron and petroleum of Venezuela should serve to create neavy industry in that country, that the copper of Chilo or the lead of Peru chould be the motor for national industrialization. Our industrialization has to be light, temporary, but nothing more.

You are also the masters of latin American export trade. Sixty per cent of our export trade is with you, at prices which you set. U. S. commanies manipulate 75 % of our business transactions. You impose the conditions and the prices. Last year the Alliance gave 150 million dollars to Colombia; but in that same year Colombia lost 450 million dollars because of the decline in coffee prices. You will say that this cannot be controlled, it depends upon supply and demand.

And I ask you, the New York office torker the drinks his or her cup of coffee at 11 o'clock in the morning and you the boundife the serves coffee for breakfast: Are you paying more, or less, for the coffee you consume? You are paying more, right? But the Brazilian and Colombian passant and coffee grower get paid less and less. Where is the difference? The keeps the profit after charging you more and paying us less? Ask the gentlemen at the coffee exchange in New York who are fattening their bank accounts at yours and our expense. Ask the great cotton syndicates how much they pay for a bale of Mexican cotton and how much they resell it for to the Inglicing managerly in Hong Kong and how much it sells for to the government of Communist Union that you detest so much.

The Anderson Clayton Company profits five times more from this operation than the Mexican grower. And ask the State Department why it prevented Mexico from selling its suspine oranges to Czechoslovakia in enchange for machinery which we need and which you don't sell us or sell us too expensively. Ask the State Department why this crop rotted on the wharves of Tampico while you traded gaily with the Communist countries and permitted Adenauer's Germany to be the main Western market for that sort of investment. Yes, you have invested 10 thousand million dollars in Latin America. Strangs we have always been open for your investments, and we remain poor. You talk of your properties in Latin America and call us thieves when we expropriate them. But ask your investors. Ask them how much they invest and how much they send back to the United States. You munt to know? Detween 1950 and 1955 they invested 2 thousand million dollars, earned 3,500 million and returned to the United States 1,500 million. In a single year, 1959, you earned 775 million dollars; you reinvested only 200 million, sent to the United States 575 million.

In the last seven years latin America lost, through these remittances, 2,679 million dollars. You take out a lot, leave a little, and this little is distributed unjustly — where is the true benefit for our economy? Is it just, that these profits in no way serve to remady the terrible proverty, ignorance and sickness of the great majority of latin Americans, who with their slave labor made these profits possible? You, people of the United States, tell me whether this is just. And we say, haven't you got your investments back with a profit, and isn't it just for these riches to be used for the benefit of all because they have been created by all, although today they benefit only a dozen corporations.

And lastly, in the short year of its existence, the Alliance for Progress has been accompanied by acts of political aggression which strip it of all its value. These acts are the invasion of Cuba in April, 1961, and the violation of inter-American law at Punta del Esta in January, 1962. The U. S. responsibility for the invasion of Playa Giron is indisputable: President Kennedy assumed complete responsibility with full knowledge that he violated not only the inter-American treaties but the United States our laws: The Neutrality Act and the U. S. Legal Code.

You beast that your form of government is based on law. Why did you permit your government to violate the law? Don't you have public representatives to defend it? Don't you have a procedure to "imprach" the President if he violates the law? Why do you permit such irrational action by your government, its CIA, and a gang of mercenaries recruited among the assasins and sadists of the Batista tyranny? Or do you agree with your government in considering legal rights a dead letter in view of political necessities? If this is the case, you yourselves are giving the go-ahead to Colduster, the John Dirch Society and all those fascist forces which, since the time of McCarthy, have risen up in the United States.

You have murdered the comen and children of Playa Giron. You have bombed the first liveable homes, the first schools, the first hospitals of those Cubana who never before, during the long U.S. protectorate over Cuba, hid a roof over their heads, or could read, or had health.

And you have done this in the name of liberty, democracy and free enterprise. What do you want us to think of these resonant words when they are used to assassinate people and to destroy the first samples of a really better life? We think as Simon Boliver did 150 years ago: "The United States seem destined by Providence to plague us with evils in the name of Liberty!"

At Funta del Este the second act of aggression was committed under the pretext of the Alliance for Progress. Maybe for you the rules of inter-American law are not very-important. But for us they are the result of a long struggle. We have wen them in the course of an entire century. We wan them with the invasion of Mexico and the ammenation of half our territory, with the ametilation of Colombia, with the Platt Americant, with the murder of Meders, with the desupation of Vera Gruz and Pershing's punitive expedition, with the intervention in Medic, Dicaregue and Santo Domingo, with the death of Sandine, with the campaign and the pressures against the Mexican Revolution, with the violation of Guatemala. It east us much blood to set up these standards: self-determination, non-intervention, respect for territorial integrity, equal rights for nationals and foreigners, peacaful solution of disputes, the right of each American state to organize itself as it best sees fit. At Punta del Este all these rules were violated by your government. A combany of legal construction was trampled in the dirt. It doesn't matter, said Secretary Bask: "It is not up to the Foreign Ministers to discuss legal matters, but to make political decisions."

The OAS ceased to be a legal organization to become a quite undisguised political weapon of the United States. And the Alliance for Progress presented itself like a friendly loincloth to cover the naked intervention of the United States, an intervention to serve the political and economic interests of the United States.

For many years, many latin Americans believed in an eventual change of U. 5. policy towards latin America; they believed also in the ability of the inter-American organization to uphold at least the minimum rudiments of our severeignty. We have to thank President Kennedy that in only one year he destroyed these illusions. The New Frontier turned out to be the same as the Republican Old Grard. Today Latin Americans know that they must not believe in any charge in the United States government nor in the OAS. They can only believe in themselves, in their ability by themselves to destroy the old feudal structure and replace it with a radically new society, through which a new nation can be built.

Revolution? Yes, because as Merico and Cuba have demonstrated, only armed revolution can destroy forever the Prestorion guardo," guardians of the old order. Or do you believe that this Army, which he Argentine has just mullified the popular will and disposed of the constitutional President, is going to disappear voluntarily from the political scene? Do you think that this Argentine Army, with more officers than the U.S. Army, should devour 50% of the mational budget? And do you believe it just, you U.S. tampayers, that your money is used to occup these "pretorian guards"? With your money, these armies imprison and assassimate workers, torture students, cancel out elections.

Revolution? Yes, because as Mexico and Cuba have demonstrated, only revolution can bring about the structural changes which are capable of modernizing our countries, bringing our resources out of stagmation, winning back our alienated and badly used resources, carrying out agrarian reform, creating a domestic market, diversifying production, promoting popular education and starting industrialization.

Revolution: You cry to high braves, throw up your hands and weep about violence and bloodshed. Yes. Unforturately, the ruling classes of a feudal country could never be persuaded that their hour has come. The Count of Aranda, in the 18th century, could not convince them, and President Kennedy, in the 20th century, cannot either. Porfirio Diaz and Fulgencio Esticts were convinced only at the point of a gun.

Blood? Yes, historical backwardness has to be paid for in blood. Injustice is paid for in blood. Remember Jefferson. From Spartacus to Fidel Castro, through the protestant revolutions, the English, the French, the U. S. Revolutions, the Mescrean and the Russian Revolutions, all revolutions are made with violence. Revolutions are made with violence. Revolutions are made by men who are hungry, brave, angry and desperate.

But democracy and liberty? You whimper. Why, instead of installing representative democracy, human rights, free elections and a free press, why do the latin American revolutions impose a dictatorship of the left in place of the deposed dictatorship of the right? Why do they impose a one-party system, cause waves of exiles, suppress freedom of the press and elections? Why do they rely on protection from extracontinental powers?

That's what's worrying you, that's what you don't understand. You Ahg should try to remember. You have a very bad memory. You would do well to remember. your own revolution, in the 18th century. You too had your traitors, your defectors and your executions. Like every revolution, yours bred counterrevolution. At that time you had a population of 3,500,000 people, and 70,000 of them fled from the United States to Canada. You expropriated the belongings and the land of the exiles without paying them any indemnity. You suppressed the pro-British press. You won the revolution with the help of an extracontinental power, France. Without the presence of the French troops of Rochambeau and of the fleet of De Grasse, you would not have beaten the English. You endured a slanderous press campaign; you were called bandits and savages by the monarchial press of Europe. You employed "exctic doctrines," those of the French Encyclopedists, to work out a regulation regime, a henesy incompatible with the status our defended by the Holy Alliance. You were the devils, the heretics. it was you who were incompatible. You had to resist the counterrevolutionary invasion of 1812, your own Plays Giron, with the improvised militia of Andrew Jackson. But you, while you were still a colony, had already effectively practiced representative democracy. You did not know femilism. You were already protestants and capitalists: you did not maintain yourself at the expenses of the exploited, illiterate and hungry masses.

Nowadays, a true revolution in Latin America is the same as a war of independence. It will have to start from the very foundation and create conditions which in the end will permit the practice of democracy. There cannot be democracy as you understand it on empty stomachs, empty minis, and in empty bovals. Democracy is not a cause, it is a result.

Sacrificing democracy for the revolution? But there never was any democracy in Latin America. There was democracy on paper and in words. Sacrificing elections? But in Latin America elections have been only a ceremony and a fraud! Sacrificing human rights? Which? Those of the people who do not eat, do not read or write, who live in humiliation and terror? Sacrificing freedom of the press? But in Latin America there is no such freedom. There is only a press which is anti-national, corrupt, at the service of the interests of feudalism and of the predominant foreign power.

No, the problem is different. With the revolution the majority of the paople will come into power, those who for centuries have had neither voice nor vote. In the eyes of these paople the corrupt press, the fraudulent elections, the submission to foreigners, free enterprise, and the human rights of the minority which suppressed them are sympnomous with those centuries of exploitation, of negation, of non-existence. This is not that interests the people. They are interested in real democracy, in seeing their true aspirations made reality. They are interested in destroying the old structure of exploitation. They are interested in creating a new structure of their own which must be national, repular, of collective benefit, conscious that there will be many errors and failures but with the conviction that this time they are working for themselves and for their future and not for a handful of feunal landholders and foreign companies. This transformation will certainly demand great sacrifices and will not be easy to bring about; the weight of four centuries of alienation is against it. But there is no other way. The only alternative is to support the old injustice indefinitely.

Can't you understand that? Why are you so hysterical, so suspicious, so indignant when a revolution starts the liberated energies of a nation on its new way and so indifferent, so tranquil, so appreciative, when this nation is exploited, tyrannized, debased by a feudal oligarchy. Why didn't you start any press campaigns against Somoza, why didn't you invade the Venezuela of Perez Jimanez, why did you help frujillo for 30 years, why didn't you declare Streesener incompatible?

What do you want us to think when you have supported and are still supporting regimes of corruption and crims, while at the same time you launch crusades against honest regimes of working people — against Cuba?

But it doesn't matter any more what you do or do not do. We know the way already. Open your eyes wide. Today it is Cuba. Tomorrow ... Open your eyes. The armed forces of the privileged classes will be defeated. The old structure will be torm down. The land, the mines, the companies will be retrieved. They will be put to work for all. There will be difficulties of conversion and of organization. But in the long run the economy will be diversified, illiteracy will be wiped out, the idla land will be cultivated, the liberated peacent will increase his consumption, our own resources will be used for national industrialization, culture will reach out to the workers and peacents, we will build decent houses, hospitals, roads, schools.

A dream? We will show you. This is our challenge. Feudalism and capitalism have not achieved any of this in four centuries. You said the nationalization of petroleum in Mexico was a dream; that within a year the foreign companies would come back because we Mexicans were incapable of running such a complex industry. You were right: we were incapable. We went through very difficult times, just as difficult as those Coba is going through now. But in time, as happens now in Cuba, we formed our technical cadres, our specialists, and we marched forward and became more efficient than the old companies and we are using the petroleum for our own benefit; in a sensible way. Let's not forget this experience: where the Latin American becomes master of his land, his industry, his work, the centuries—old incompetence leaves him and he shows what he is capable of. This is going to happen, don't think if isn't, in all of Latin America in the coming years. Nobody learns how to swim if he doesn't go into the water.

Revolution, yes? Don't deceive yourselves, people of the United States!

Open your eyes. Ask the Peruvian Indian who lives in the primitive Indian communes, who chews coca and sate rate, whether he wants fraudulent elections or Revolution. Ask the Chilean miner who drags himself through the mines of lots if he believes in free enterprise or in Revolution. Ask the peasant of northeast Brazil if he wants capitalism or Revolution. Ask the student who was castrated by the dictator or Paraguay if he wants Stroessner's free press or Revolution. Ask the Guatemalan peasant who was liberated by Cistillo Armas if he wants the Alliance for Progress or Revolution. Ask the Latin American who it is that corrupts the press and the trade unions, who supports the armies and the oligarchies, who pays the miserable wages, who is the master of the mines and of the cil wells. Ask him in whose hands the dellars of the Alliance will end up and whom they will serve. Ask him if we believe in the free world of Franco, Salazar, Chiang Mai-shek and Myo Dinh Diem. Ask and you will know why Nixon was epat upon. Ask the man who lives in the possess of Misery, the slums of Buenos Aires, in the fayels of Rio de Janeiro, in the gallamps of Santiago, whether he is afraid of Communism. This beggar, this coreast will answer you that he is only afraid of his present oppressore who explicit him in the name of capitalism and representative democracy, and that he prefers anything so long as it is sownthing different.

Ask these men if they are against Cubs, if they believe the lies of the "free press" of our countries, if they don't know that the former U. S. colony of the Caribbean is our hope because there the military caste, the big landholdings, the foreign domination, the plunder, all this has ceased there and all are working together, with their guns at their shoulder. Yes, U. S. friend, with their guns to defend their revolution, and they move forward together in spite of aggression and boycott.

Ask these men if they are afraid of the help from the Soviet Union. Ask them if there is a Soviet company in Cuba which exploits the Cuban economy for its own profit. You see, U. S. friend? The world has changed. Latin America is no longer your preserve. The world advances. And you are staying outside this advance. Are you going to help these inevitable revolutions or are you going to harass them with invasions, press campaigns and economic aggression? It doesn't matter. The revolutions are going to go forward. The world has changed. You cannot put out all the bonfires in Latin America, Africa and Asia.

But try to understand. Try to understand that a revolution in latin America can affect a handful of U. S. corporations, but never the actual well-being you are enjoying. Try to understand that our true development which can only be achieved by revolution, far from endangering you, will benefit you. Don't let yourselves be deceived by this handful of companies and investors. Understand that the more rapidly our basic development takes place, which can only be achieved by revolution, the sconer you will have more buyers and the closer we will be to a planned world economy which will be rational and interdependent.

Understand: Latin America is not going to be your backyard any more. We are going to join the rest of the world. Which world: Apparently, a world marked by the political polarization of two centers of power. The United States and the Soviet Union, confronting each other from irreversible positions but each held back by the knowledge that in a "hot war" there will be neither winners nor losers, but only the total destruction of the human race.

But behind this apparent fact there is today another one — the rising of the underdeveloped nations and the possibility that they will dissolve this polarization, diversify and rationalize the international political positions and confront them with the foremost task of peace: to help the economic and social development of these nations. The USSR, as far as it can, is doing this already. And what about you? Because the first measure of cooperation is to know how to respect the revolutionary change which is taking place in these countries.

And there is a third fact, that has a truly universal aspect: beyond the quarrels which are so much in the spotlight of our world, modern science is opening new ways for the advance of all mankind, regardless of their political ideology, their religion, sex, or race, and is making it possible to achieve a truly human life, free from sickness, ignorance or hunger and full or promise for personal as well as collective creative achievements.

Please look beyond the intellectual provincialism of the "cold war." Try to see what it is we want, we people of the hungry, revolutionary, underdeveloped part of the world.

We do not wish for the destruction of the people of the United States because we love them for their great peoples, their great statesmen - Lincoln, Franklin, Rossevelt, their great artists and writers like Poe, Melville, Faulkner, Marian Amberson, O'Meill, Mills. We do not want hatred and atomic war, not the continuance of the cold war, but instead a world of peace in which we can grow without out-dated deformations, without senseless exploitation. We want a world in which we all co-exist, not with mutual tolerance but with mutual respect and friendship.

We are different from you. Our problems are not the same as yours. Our decisions and our ways have to be different from those you think are universally valid. Don't be provincial. Understand the wany sidedness of the world. Understand that we want real progress, not the unfair lies of today. We want to be. We want to live with you as loyal friends, not as wick, undernourished and ignorant slaves. We want human development to be organized rationally so that science, at last, can distribute its benefits everywhere. We want to achieve a peaceful synthesis of opposed positions which are not and cannot be eternal.

They were not eternal between the Greeks and Romans and the barbarians, between Guelphs and Ghibellines, Catholics and Protestants, monarchists and republicans. We want to free ourselves from slavery. And we want to free you from a worse alienation than that of the slave: that of the overlord master.

Latin America knows its way. Nobody, my United States friends, is going to hold back these 200 million people.

CARLOS FUENTES ANALYZES KHRUSHCHEV'S IDEAS

Soviet theory of art challenged

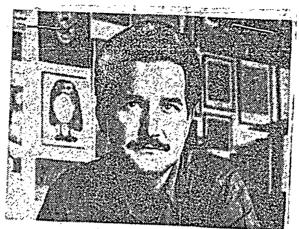

By Carlos Fuentes

WRIGHT MILLS once told me about a worker he saw in the airport at Omsk, who finished washing the floors and sat down to rest with a copy of The Red-and the Black in his hands. Perhaps no people on earth read the great writers of the past more than the Soviet people: Dickens and Balzac, Goethe and Heine, Stendhal, Jack London and even that sacred cow of both camps, Ernest Hemingway, run into enormous editions. The example offered by Mills is valid, for it illustrates a central fact of Soviet life and one of the revolution's greatest triumphs: a country that was 90% illiterate in 1917 is almost 100% literate to-

The example goes beyond statistics. Russia, traditionally a pyramid of rigidly separate parts, divided into a summit of absolute power and a mass of anonymous subjects, has converted itself into a society. An educational effort without historical parallel, the need to count on qualified workers and technicians, 3 million graduates a year from 40 universities more than existed at the downfall of tsarism, free compulsory primary and secondary education—all this speaks to us of radical transformation of socio-economic structures. The transformation has opened up culture and productive work to millions who, hardly two generations ago, were destined to vegetate in their fitts and perpetuate their ancestors' servitude. In turn, it has produced a transformation of mental structures.

Between the triumph of the revolution and the death of Stalin came 30 years of toil, and armed struggle, with that capacity for resistance which, in Tolstoy's and Dostoevsky's novels, seems like an almost supernatural quality of the Russian people. Today the generation that was sacrificed for the creation of Soviet power is demanding the fruits of its sacrifice. In officially opening the doors to de-stalinization, Khrushchev merely admitted from the top a social fact that was imposing itself from below.

The Russian people wanted their reward in terms of more consumer goods, less centralization, cultural freedom and an end to police terror. The Stalin era was submitted to a critical process from which, objectively, that regime's irrational defects as well as its constructive aspects had to emerge. Isaac Deutscher writes of Stalin having taken over what was essentially "a nation of savages"—today the world's second industrial power after "the work of 20 generations was done in 20 years." As Deutscher adds: "The whole nation was sent to school. Its mind has been awakened in such a way that nothing can put it back to sleep."

SUCH IS THE GREAT PARADOX: a nation rises into culture, but the ultimate fruit of culture literary and artistic creation—is an object of suspicion if not of repression. Khrushchev's March 8 speech to Soviet writers and artists dramatizes the paradox once again. It is an old, negative, useless speech. Old because it reflects fear, as does everything old: a fear which, if it could have been politically justified in the period of Soviet weakness and imperialist harassment, becomes grotesque in 1963 when the U.S.S.R. is one of the two great world powers. Useless because Khrushchev, as a good Marxist, must know that social life develops with irreversible and dialectic characteristics; the birth of a new generation of Soviet artists and writers is not spontaneous but the result of social development within the U.S.S.R. And negative not only be-cause it obstructs the aspiration for creative—that is, peaceful—communication of Soviet intellectual youth; but also because it strains the sympathy of radical literary and artistic movements around the world, and serves to harden the tragic separation of the Cold War.

Let us say it quite simply: we (I know I speak for many Latin American writers and intellectuals) want a socialism of our own, an economic and social organization that can resolve the problems of hunger, disease and ignorance of 200 million Latin Americans.

not only gives back the land to those who work it but develops the country technically, educates the peasants and promotes greater agricultural productivity. It means creating an internal market of consumers with growing opportunities for work, education and material well-being. It means industrialization based on the maximum, rational, planned utilization of our own resources. It means political and economic independence from foreign capitalism. It means peace and cooperation among all nations.

Yes—but socialism also means mastering the alienations typical of bourgeois society. It means critical freedom to build socialism and prevent its deformation. It means respect without qualifications for the right to tell the truth—not only to expose the enemy but, above all, the duty of looking honestly at one's own reality. It means the opportunity for all men, in all orders of life, to achieve their fullest and truest expression. It means humanism—a radical approach to the human condition, to its contradictions and conflicts even within socialism. It means disalienation. And it means reason against unreason, not the replacement of an old irrationality by a new one.

To regard literature and art as no more than weapons of economic and social transformation—as does Khrushchev in his speech—is in fact idealism explicitly rejected by Marxist thought. Even if one reduces art and literature to their partial character of historical testimony, they must still in any type of society reflect social conditions faithfully. But their function is of course more than documentary: in any society, they perform a critical task. We will not discuss what a critical attitude means in bourgeois society. Criticism of the bourgeoisie is a negation of the bourgeoisie. In a socialist society it should reassume its positive content-criticism as dialogue, as a system of understanding, as a theoretical and empirical elaboration of the special problems of socialism. In this sense criticism is the antithesis of dogma. In this sense all socialist thought is-or should be-critical. I am aware that on the economic, political and social levels criticism in this correct sense has been restored in the U.S.S.R. Unfortunately this is not the case in art and literature. 49 1 2 a grandantin ory may be, life is always broader than any theory, including the Marxist. The artist and writer are confronted with the totality of life, not just Marxism-Leninism. The socialist world is obliged to fight against any form of allenation on pain of negating itself; and the artist's and writer's freedom is a condition for the very building of socialism, provided that criticism fulfills a positive and disallenation function. How can this be expected to happen if the State imposes one sole literary and artistic theory, "socialist realism"— an official theory which excludes any possibility of critical communication?

An artistic theory—which is not the same—ac-e. theory of government—lives from a plurality of tendencles, from discussion and polemics around the theory.
But "socialist realism," the literary and artistic expression of Stalin's personal irrationality, is a total distortion of realism and of socialism. This is so primarily because it excludes criticism of Soviet society itself. In this way it led to a servitor, sycophantic interature and art: Stalin's was the best of all possible worlds, amen. By negating criticism in art and literature it sanctified a series of rigid dogmas which have nothing to do with the very essence of Marxism—to observe and understand dialectically the real course of history.

The sanctification of a servitor and dogmatic art made it impossible to face up to Soviet reality and to enlist the Soviet intelligentsia in the building of so-cralism. Such is the extreme paradox of "socialist realism." Khrushchev complains that novels about the Stalin-era concentration camps are now being written. But would not the realist, the socialist, the humanist thing have been to write these novels during the ter-

"Dirty pictures, comrade?"

About these articles...

On these pages, the GUARDIAN this week presents excerpts of an address, "The Great Strength of Soviet Literature and Arts," given by Premier Khrushchev on March 8 at a meeting of Communist Party and government leaders with Soviet writers and artists in the Kremlin; and a commentary on this speech and on the question of "socialist realism" in the arts by Carlos Fuentes, Mexican critic and socialist political activist and one of Latin America's most distinguished novelists (Where the Air Is Clear). The exchange is of particular interest in the light of a meeting of the Central Committee of the Soviet CP scheduled for May 28 to discuss the role of the artist and writer under socialism. The GUARDIAN invites readers' comments on these divergent views.

ror itself, to point out that the camps and secret police and the power of Beria were deforming socialism? The least that can be expected of realism is that it should speak about reality. Unhappily, Khrushchev's new directives tend to plunge writers into the same anti-realist and anti-critical prostration. It was depressing that Soviet writers could not refer to the events while they were happening; it is even sadder that the critical and realist function should not be fulfilled after they have happened. Yet only by the exercise of this function can a return to the old errors be avoided.

HE IMPOSITION OF DOGMA over criticism, and of optimism over realism closed out all possibility of individual expression by the artist, and in consequence the possibility of all art. The tree of literature and art is known by its fruits. The Soviet revolution; like any authentic revolution, signified the liberation of all the people's vital forces. Lenin frankly disliked modern art but his humanism made him understand that only a sensitive and intelligent art, respectful of each artist's personal search, awake to moral problems, could contribute to socialist development.

Between 1918 and 1930 the U.S.S.R. lived through a decade of impressive artistic and literary achievement. Eisenstein, Pudovkin, Donskoi and Dovschenko in the cinema, Meyerhold in the theater, Prokofiev in music, Block, Mayakovsky, Yesenin, Khlebnikov and Pasternak in poetry, Pilniak, Ivanov, Babel, Fedin, Zoshschenko, Furmanov and Sholokhov in the novel. What did all these great artists prove? That a revolutionary vision of society can only express itself through revolutionary forms of art. That against the rigid conventions of bourgeois expressive art at the turn of the century, the revolutionary vision of the world should oppose a new form which would contain a total realism more expressive of human life, a true break with the limiting forms of bourgeois art. And that the literary, cinematographic and musical tevolution within Soviet society, with its original character wi-free affirmation, coincided with a parallel revolution of free criticism within bourgois society.

In describing the artistic movement of the West as "decadent." "imperialist" and under suspicion of counter-revolutionary taint. "socialist realism" perhaps committed its major crime. It shut the door to revolutionary conmunication between the first socialist state's writers and artists and those who, in Western countries, saw no distinction between the critical renovation of the arts and their radical criticism of bourgeois society. The coincidence of the artistic and literary revolutions in the U.S.S.R. and the Western world could have been a revolutionary weapon of incalculable effectiveness. Many European and North American writers and artists of the 1920s and 1930s thought, perhaps naively, that through their vanguard art-radically critical of the forms, mental categories, esthetic vision and "good conscience" of bourgeois soesthetic vision and "good conscience of bourgeons and baud; Orson Welles would not have been possible withpreparing the way for a better world under the sign preparing the way for a better world under the sign East and West, and Khrushchev's anathema against its of revolution. Stalin and Zudanov useressly satisfied restoration, cannot benefit peace and understanding gentsia. The sad burden of the Cold War and anti- among men. communism is in large part due to this Stalinist alienation. It ended by convincing many Western artists that' they really were "decadent" and "reactionary;" that; their work was socially useless-exactly what bourgeois society said of it—and that the only road they could take was the adventurist (Malraux) or the ab-, surd (Camus)...

Yet those who neither let themselves be seduced by the bourgeoisie nor depressed by Stalinism gave the clearest proof that a great critical art, revolutionary both in form and content, was not only possible but identical with socialism. Bertolt Brecht, Pablo Picasso, Paul Eluard, Pablo Neruda, the renewers of plastic, dramatic and poetic vision in our time, are the best. answer to a "socialist realism" which takes comfort in calendar art, Victorian wedding-cake palaces, optimist films that would shame the most dedicated Hollywood happy-ending producer; and symphonies and novels potboiled to Stalin's petty bourgeois taste.

ENIN SAID IN 1919: "A culture cannot be built: one can only reconstruct a culture resulting from "the modernists" want to paint the evolution of all humanity We must collect and claim it as the new and progressive in art." But all the culture bequeathed by capitalism: with it we worth while to comment seriously on this remark, one can only reconstruct a culture resulting from will build socialism. We have to accept all of science, (Continued on Page 7)

The Fuentes critic

all of technology, all of knowledge, all of art, without which it will be impossible for us to build a communist society." If these words are true, one must admit that 40 years of culture are missing from the U.S.S.R. today-years illuminated by the names of Miro and Pollock, Joyce and Faulkner and Mann and Kafka. Hindemith and Alban Berg and Stravinsky, Le Corbusier and Niemeyer and Lloyd Wright, Welles and Bunuel and Antonioni, Brancusi and Henry Moore.

Universal artistic achievement lives from intercommunication of concepts, forms, discoveries. Mayakovsky would not have existed without Whitman and Rimout Eisenstein. The destruction of this bridge between

Why did Khrushchev take this backward step? The renovation of socialist democracy, dead for so many accades, signified a magnificent encounter of the leadrs with the people. The popularity of the regime in general, and of Khrushchev in particular, is due to the government's identification with the democratic needs risen from below. Supported by the people, Khrushchev has defeated the Stalinist old guard, destroyed the secret police and embarked on decentralization and de-bureaucratization of the Soviet apparatus. Why the step backward in the realm of culture when, with the people's support, he could also win this battle against the Stalinist cavemen who remain in influential posts in cultural organizations? Is it a concession to rigidity in a field he thinks of minor importance?

Khrushchev is a great statesman, but his artistic taste is deplorably revealed in the sentence of his speech about the beautiful snow-covered fir trees which which seems to suggest that Nikita Sergelvitch's driving vocation is to be the Walt Disney of the Eastern camp? What is lamentable is that the U.S.S.R. has no critical school to explain to the public, and of course to Khrushchev, the development and significance of modern painting. The submission, or non-existence, of Soviet criticism is in great measure responsible for this vacuum between creation and comprehension.

But we are speaking from Latin America—and we are with Yevtuschenko, Nekrassov, Tvardovsky and the youngsters of Novy Mir, with Voznesensky and Solzhen. itzin and the anonymous painters, sculptors and musicians. They will open the doors of communication, They, and not the servitors of "socialist realism," will speak for a great, sad, happy people, for human beings capable of anger and love, passion and hatred, strength and weakness, light and shadow. For they are the real men of the revolution, a revolution won with suffering; elfort; contradiction, terror, toil and faith. An lifeversible revolution—and a revolution because these mell are part of it and speak for it to all mankind.

speech on art

The following are excerpts from the spaceh of Premier Khrushckev at a meeting of party and government leaders with men of letters and art, March 8, 1963.

I—The building of communism and the tasks of creative art

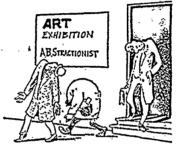

The activities of the writers, painters, composers, sculptors, film and theatrical workers, and all of intellectuals, constantly have the attention of the party and the people. And this is perfectly understandable. We are living at a time when literature and art, as Lenin predicted, have become an integral part of the cause of the whole people.

Of great importance in the battle for communism we are waging is the education of the people in a spirit of communist ideals. And this is the main task of the ideological work of our party at present. We must bring all the party's ideological weapons, including such a powerful means of communist education as literature and art, into combat order. The party and its central committee are of the opinion that Soviet literature and art are developing successfully

It would be harmful, however, to overestimate the successes in literature and art and not to see the serious shortcomings in the work of writers, painters, composers, film and theatrical workers. There have been important shortcomings, and in a number of cases also errors, which cannot be tolerated.

Our people need a militant revolutionary art... The artist must be able to see the positive things and to rejoice at them since they comprise the essence of our reality; he must support these things but, meanwhile of course, he must not overlook the negative aspects and all that interferes with the rise of what is new, in life ...

All those who look at our reality from the sidelines, however, will fail to see and to reproduce a truthful picture of life. It unfortunately happens that some representatives of the world of art judge reality only by the smells coming from the latrines, portray people in a deliberately ugly way, and lay gloomy colors on thick in their paintings, colors which can only plunge people into a state of despondency, hopelessness and ennul. They depict reality according to their own biased and distorted and subjective impression through anemic stereotypes of their own invention.

In their creative work in recent years, writers and artists have been paying great attention to that chapter in Soviet society which is bound up with the Stalin personality cult. Works in which Soviet reality during those years is truthfully reflected from party positions have appeared. One could give as illustrations among other works Alexander Tvardovsky's Distant Horizons, Alexander Solzhenitsyn's One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich, some of Yevgeny Yevtushenko's poems and Grigory Chukral's picture Clear Skies.

At the same time, we consider it necessary to draw the attention of all creative workers to certain mistaken motives and tendencies in the works of individual authors. These wrong tendencies consist mainly in concentrating attention one-sidedly on instances of lawlessness, arbitrary reprisals and abuse of power.

We live in a period of acute ideological struggle, in the period of the struggle for the minds and the re-education of people. Figuratively speaking, you writters and artists are the smiths who reforge human psychology. You have strong tools in your possession, tools which should always be used in the interests of the prople.

II—We are against peaceful enexistence in the sphere of ideology

It is the task of the artist actively to contribute by his works to the assertion of communist ideals. A vivid example of patriotic, party understanding of the artist's mission are the works of our outstanding writer Mikhail Sholokov. Take his novels And Quiet Flows the Don and Virgil Soil Upturned, his story The Fate of a Man, and the chapters from his novel They Fought for Their Country. These are real works of art of great force and revolutionary spirit, works imbued with the spirit of communist partisar-ship and the spirit of the class strug-

Those who think that both socialist realism and formalist and abstractionist trends can peacefully live together in Soviet art inevitably backslide into positions of peaceful coexistence in the sphere of ideology which are alien to us.

Abstractionism and formalism, whose right to a place in socialist art is advocated by some of their champions, are forms of capitalist ideology

Comrade Ehrenburg's memoirs include the following paragraph which I shall quote: "There was a multplicity of literary schools: comfutists (communist futurists), imaginists, proleculitists, expressionists, fuists, non subjectists, presentists, accidentists, and even nothingists. Of course, some of the theoreticians talked a lot of nonsense. But I feel like defending those remote times."

It appears that the author of the memoirs has great sympathy for the representatives of the so-called "left" art, and assumes the task of defending this art. The question arises: defending it against whom? Apparently against our Marxist-Leninlst criticism. Comrade Ehrenburg is making a gross ideological mistake, and it is our duty to help him realize this.

At our last meeting Comrade Yevtushenko came out in defense of abstractionism. He attempted to justify his position by alleging that there are good people both among realists and formalists, and he referred to the example of two Cuban artists who had sharply differed in their views on art and then died in the same trench fighting for the revolution. I should like to advise Comrade Yevtushenko and other young writers to prize the confidence of the masses, not to seek cheap sensations and not to play up to the sentiments and tastes of the philistines.

On New Year's Day I was returning to Moscow from the suburbs. It was a poetic day, a most beautiful Russian winter's day. That day the forest was especially beautiful. I said to my companions: "Just look at these firs, at their apparel, at the snowflakes which are glistening and sparkling in the rays of the sun, how wonderfully beautiful all this is. And now the modernists, the abstractionists, want to paint these fir trees upside down, and claim it as the new and progressive in art."

It is impossible that such art will ever be recognized by normal people . . .

III—The guidance of the Leninist party
—the guarantee of all our success

The press, radio, literature, painting, music, the cinema and the theater are a sharp ideological weapon of our party. And it sees to it that this weapon is always in fighting trim and hits the enemy without fail. The party will not allow anyone to blunt this weapon or weaken it effect.

The party's criticism of formalist perversions is in the interests of the development of literature and art, which play an important role in the spirifual lift of our society... On questions of creative art the central committee of the party will demand of everyone—from the most distinguished and famous worker in literature and art to the budding young artist—that he abide unswervingly by the party line.

I should like to touch upon another question, which is connected with the glucidation of the period of cult of the individual in literature. Magazines and hublishing houses are said to be flooded with manuscripts about the life of the people in exile, prisons and camps:

I repeat once again that this is a very dengerous theme and difficult to used with. The less responsibility is felt for the present and future of our country and the party, the more lightheartedly do those who like sensations and "spicy" stuff pounce upon this material.

A sensation, "spicy" stuff, is produced and who falls upon it? This "spicy" stuff will, like carrion, attract files, huge fat files, and all kinds of bourgeois scum will crawl from abroad.

What was this poem [Yevtushenko's Babi Yarl criticized for? It was criticized because the author was unable truthfully to show and condemn the fascists and precisely the fascist criminals for the mass slaughter perpetrated by them at Babi Yar. The poem presents things as if only Jews were the yietims of the fascist atrocities whereas, of course, many Russians, Ukrainians and Soviet people of other nationalities were murdered by the Hitlerite butchers. The poem reveals that its author did not show political maturity and was ignorant of historical facts.

"If it hadn't been for the fact that the bar's in here I should never have got your father past the Blue Period."

Comrades, we have discussed here a wide range of questions which are of importance to our state and to the ideological work of the party. The fact that we are meeting together in a comradely atmosphere, that we are discussing together problems which are of concern to all of us, is an expression of the new streation that has developed in our country in recent years.

Enclosed for your office, Detroit, and Legat, Paris, are single copies of Legat, Mexico, cablegram 9/21/65 which is self-explanatory.

New York Office is acquainted with subject's background as a leading Mexican communist writer who has frequently visited this country for short business stays.

Department of State through liaison channels has advised that subject has not been granted a visitor's visa in the past to visit the United States due to his current membership in the Communist Party of Mexico. The normal procedure for him to enter this country after refusal of requests for such visas has been to obtain an official Mexican passport and thereafter obtain a diplomatic visa from the United States Embassy in Mexico.

Department of State furnished a copy of a letter from the Inter-University Committee for Debate on Foreign Policy at Ann Arbor, Michigan, which had been directed to various prominent people throughout the country and abroad, soliciting aid or attendance at a session of the committee to be held at Ann Arbor on 9/17/65 and later at an International Teach-In scheduled at the University of Toronto 10/8-10/65. data of so called "Non-American Participants." Carlos Fuentes of Mexico was listed as a participant and described as an internationally known Mexican author. It was stated he was educated at the University of Mexico and at the Institue des Hautes Etudes Internationales, Geneva. He was head of the Department of Cultural Relations, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, 1957-1959. This data concluded by setting out the titles of various literary works authored or coauthored by the subject.

The Detroit Office has previously furnished information indicating that the subject was scheduled to attend and/or speak before a session of the Inter-University Committee for Debate on Foreign Policy scheduled for 9/14-18/65 at the University of Michigan.

Department of State has advised it would be extremely interested in determining if subject actually attended the aforementioned teach—in at the University of Michigan. Department of State noted that subject's attendance would have been in violation of the subject's visa.

New York and Detroit should immediately contact available sources to determine if the subject attended the teach-in as mentioned and if his activities to date in this country justify investigation by the Bureau. Results of this inquiry should be furnished expeditiously in a form suitable for dissemination. Detroit should submit its communication in this matter immediately.

In view of the subject's quasidiplomatic status in this country, no actual investigation of his activities should be conducted without prior Bureau authority. Current inquiry should be limited to established sources as mentioned above.

NOTE:

Subject has managed to circumvent State Department entry restrictions in the past for short business stays. It appears State is attempting to establish a basis for refusing official visas to him in the future if his participation in the teach-in can be verified. Subject is scheduled to remain in the U.S. until 10/8/65 departing that date for France. The stated purpose of his visit according to Legat, Mexico, was to contact his publishers and business manager in New York City. His official visa listed subject as officer of the Mexican Institute of Fine Arts. State Dept. information and request received 9/22/65 by O. H. Bartlett from Robert McCarthy, Office of Security, Dept. of State.

Dear Colleague.

The Inter-University Committee for Debate on Foreign Policy is the continuing organization which emerged out of the National Teach-In on Vietness in May and a subsequent meeting at Ann Arbor, Michigan in June. It is the purpose of this committee not only to raise cortain questions and criticisms of the present policy of the United States government, but to open up discussion on alternative paths which might be considered.

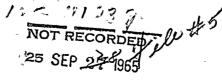

The international conference described in the enclosed booklet is one of three activities being spensored by the Inter-University Committee. The other two activities are a series of trips to Vietnam by members of the academic community and the International Teach-In in Toronto. The coparate trins were made during the summer, and a third trip, planned to coincide with the Afro-Asian conference, will include Algiers and Saigon. The purpose of these trips is to provide the academic community and the country at large with much needed information and perspective on the complexities of Vietnam today. The International Teach-In in Terento Will provide a platform, now found not even in the United Nations, for the major interested parties in the current crisis in Vietnam and the Dominican Republic. The general theme of the Teach-In is Revolution and Response, Academics and government spokesmen from communist, non-communist, and third world nations will present their views to an audience that will span, via closed circuit radio at least, both Canada and the United States To these two activities should be added the international conference in Ann Arbor, Michigan, which, as the enclosure details, aims at the formulation of new perspectives on and alternatives to our policy in Vietnam.

That you can do. Your support is needed for these activities. This may take any or all of the following forms.

- 1) Sponsorship of the international conference in Ann Arbor, which implies only endorsement of the statement of assumption and the call for new perspectives on Vietnam. It does not imply a priori endorsement of any document produced by the members of the study groups.
- Sponsorship of the International Teach-In in Toronto, which implies only endorsement of the plan to hold this event at which the major contesting parties may present their case.
- 3) Financial contribution to the Ann Arbor conference, the Toronto Teach-In, and the trips to Algiers and Saigon. The costs of travel, arrangements, and widespread dissemination of the proceedings will be heavy. Your support is needed.
- 4) Attendance at the open sessions of the Ann Arbor conference on Friday afternoon and evening, September 17, and at the International Teach-In on Friday night, Saturday, and Sunday, October 8-10, at the University of Terento.

CONFIDENTAL

Re: Carlos Fuentes Macias

A confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised October 2, 1965, that an international conference entitled "Alternative Perspectives on Vietnam" was held at the University of Michigan (UM), Ann Arbor, Michigan, September 14 - 18, 1965. This conference, he said, was sponsored and arranged by the Inter-University Committee for Debate on Foreign Policy, which organization he described as a national, academically oriented, organization aimed at influencing United States foreign policy through campus protest directed at same.

Source advised that one Carlos Fuentes of Mexico, described as a writer, had been announced as one of the speakers and/or participants in above described conference, in materials circulated concerning the conference, prior to September 14, 1965.

Source advised he was certain subject did not make a public speech at this conference. He said he was equally certain that he was not mentioned in any publicity releases by the sponsoring organization as a participant in the conference.

Source said he could not with certainty say that Macias was not a participant, inasmuch as the sessions of this conference were entirely closed until September 17, 1965, when public sessions were held September 17-18, 1965, composed of formal speeches and seminars. He said Macias was not identified with any of these public sessions, September 17-18, 1965.

Source speculated that it was highly unlikely that any prominent participant from outside the United States would have been a quiet participant in this conference, without any publicity of his attendance. In this connection he noted, the sponsoring organization was seeking all the publicity which could be obtained from this conference and made extensive releases regarding any distinguished attendees.

Re: Carlos Fuentes Macias

Source additionally noted that several of the distinguished foreign persons, previously announced as expected participants in this event, did not attend. He observed that the sponsoring group appeared to have invited many national and international dignaturies in the hope of securing a good number of newsworthy participants. He said that several Nobel prize winners were invited, but did not attend.

Source advised October 15, 1965, that he had reviewed all materials available to him concerning above conference and could locate no confirmation that Macias was a participant in this conference.

- t. Corlos Turites Medico has been found ineligible to receive a visa because of his membership in the Communist Party of Henico. He is a well-known writer where publisher in the United States, Moger W. Straus Jr., of Ferrar. Straus and Givour. Inc., has invited him to come to New York in the summer of 1966 in consection with the publication of Fuentes' new movel, Wight Num In addition, Fuentes has received invitations to visit Machington, Long Island, Cornell, Chicago, and Connecticut Universities in the fall and winter of this year.
- 2 Travol plans have not yet been made available. Formton has indicated, henever, that he will probably be traveling with a regular, rather than en official, Eculean passport
- In view of the number of trips Mr. Feentes is considering, the Embassy recommends that the Attorney Ceneral be requested to grant a waiver of the grands of excludedility under Section 212(d)(3)(h) of the Act, valid for six menths and for suitiple entries to the United States. Such a waiver would permit the Embassy to issue non-immigrant vises of the appropriate classification valid for slagic entries upon the receipt of the individual vise applications, provided the applicant had made known his travel itinorary and the purpose of each trip. The Embassy would forward the latter information to the Department as soon as it become evaluable.

LEFTIST NOVELIST IS BARRED BY U.S

Fuentes Halted at San Juan as 'an Undesirable Alien'

By HENRY RAYMONT

Carlos Fuentes, a leading Mexican novelist with leftist leanings, was denied permission by United States immigration officials to land in San Juan, Puerto Rico, last Saturday on the ground that he was "an undesirable alien."

In a letter made public here yesterday by Mr. Fuentes's lit-erary agent, Carl Brandt, the 39-year-old author said immigration officials had torn up his transit card and treated him "like a common criminal." A Justice Department spokesman in Washington confirmed that Mr. Fuentes had been prevented from leaving the tourist vessel Virginia de Churruca, on the way from Barcelona to Veracruz, Mexico. The spokesman, Jack Landau, said the author's name was listed as "a party. person considered undesirable" by the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service, but he declined to give any reason.

Mr. Fuentes, whose father is the Mexican Ambassador to Portugal, has long been identified with leftist causes, and has been known for his sympathy to Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba. Last, August, however, he joined a number of French and Latin-American intellectuals in denouncing the Soviet led invasion if of Czechoslovakia, which Mr. Castro endorsed.

Mr. Cuneo, Central Office, called today and requested that we obtained any information available from San Juan regarding the subject who was probably DOB'd there upon arrival sometime this week.

I called Mr. Longo at San Juan who talaphonically furnished the following information:

Subject arrived at San Juan on 2/22/69 aboard the M/V Virginia de Churuca as a passenger. He boarded the vessel at Barcelona destined to Vera Gruz, Subject was born 11/11/28 in Panama and is a Mexican elejzen, holding Mexican passport No. 18-66. He resides at Segunda Chrada de Calsana No. 16. Mexico D.F. His name appliars in the SLOB under code U166, file A12 724 926 ELP.

SII Britt handled subject on arrival and informed him that he was not eligible for the TRYOV privilege and could not be allowed to go ashers in San Juan. Form I-259 was served on the steamskip agents for the removal of the subject as an inadmissible TRYOV.

Another passenger, a USC, who boarded the vessel at Expelene mentioned to SII Britt that subject is a notorious anti-American Communist author. He has allegedly written a book chtitled "Cambio de Piel" (Change of Skin) which has been benned in Spain for being so bitterly unti-US. This same USC stated that a certain group of other passengers stayed very close to the subject during the entire voyage. They were:

Refusal to Let Fuentes Enter Puerto

By HENRY RAIMONT

The old controversy over whether aliens sould be pre-vented from visiting the United States because of their political beliefs has been revived by the refusal of immigration officials to admit Carlos Fuentes, a prominent wexican novelist with leftist leanings, into San Juan, P.R.

The issue was raised by two former officials of the Kennedy and Johnson Administrations amid a mounting storm of protest over the Fuentes said last week that he was stopped by immi-gration officials and "treated like a common criminal" when he attempted to land in San Juan on Feb. 22. He had been on his way from Spain to Mexico aboard the tourist vessel Virginia de Churruca.

Abba P. Schwartz, former head of the State Department's Burgau of Security and Con-

Bureau of Security and Con-sular Affairs and an advocate of liberal immigration and trayel policies; said here yesterday he hoped the action repre-sented "an isolated instance" sented "an isolated instance" and not a reversion to the inore extrictive policies of the 1950's. In a telegram to Senator J. W. Fullsrights Bemocrat of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Mr. Schwartz said that the Fuentes case illustrated the need for change in the immigration law "to prevent further gration law "to prevent further senseless and embarrassing sit-senseless and emparrassing su-uations, in the United States, foreign relations.

He specifically urged the re-vival of legislation to strike from the law the exclusion of from the law the exclusion of persons who are past or present members of the Communist party or other proscribed organizations.

Another former high State Department official William D. Rogers, who was head of the Alliance for Progress program and is now a Washington law-yer and president of the Center for Inter-American Relations ter for Inter-American Rela-tions, in New York, called on the Nixon Administration to make clear that the Fuentes in-cident "was an aberration" and not general policy.

"The notion that Fuentes's presence among us could in any sense damage our national in-terest is unworthy of serious discussion." he said in a letter to Secretary of State within

Rico Revives Controversy

Over Immigration Polic

P. Rogers, who is no relation.

"To the contrary," he continued, "it is his rejection which will cause us immense harm. It will be interpreted by the youth, and intellectual community in Latin America as meaning that our commitment to free expression is superficial and will confirm the impression to some that we are timid and to some that we are timid and fearful of criticism of Latin-American writers."

Observing that in recent years there has been a growing effort by United States univer-sities and private foundations to expand contacts with Latin-American authors, Mr. Rogers urged the Nixon Administration to announce "in clear and convincing terms that it would welcome Fuentes and other leading Latin-American writers to our shores, regardless of their political opinions."

Meanwhile, protests to Secretary Rogers and Attorney General John N. Mitchell were made public over the weekend by several literary societies.

The Authors League of America, Inc., disclosed that a telegram, had been sent to the officials by sits president, Rex Stout. The telegram said:

"The refusal to permit Carlos Fuentes to land in Puerto Rico is shocking and reprehensible and on behalf of the 5,000 writers who are members of this organization we deplore and condemn it and urge that it be revoked forthwith." Robert "Halsband, president of the American Center of the International Pen Club, sent a similar message noting that as "one of Latin America's out-standing writers" Mr. Fuentes had participated in the organization's international congress in Nov. Nork in June, 1966. He called the recent action against

Mr. Fuentes "a disgracia, un-believable muddle."

A Justice Department spokes-man said yesterday that Mr. Fuentes's presence at the Pen Club meeting in 1966 and an earlier visit in 1964 had been made possible through a temporary waiver, which the At-torney General can extend to persons otherwise excluded from the United States by the immigration law.

He said that there was no record that the author had asked for such a waiver for his planned temporary stop Puerto Rico.

REMARKS

Mr. Fuentes is a prominent Mexican author and has been found by Ameribassy Mexico to be ineligible for a visa under Section 212(a)(28).

The Subject is the beneficiary of two approved petitions to enable him to teach literature at New York University, New York, New York, from September 1, 1970, to February 1, 1971 (petition number NYC-N-30321) and at Columbia University, New York, New York, from February 1, 1971, until May 31, 1971 (petition number NYC-N-30473). He will be accompanied by his wife and minor daughter and plans to arrive in New York during the early part of September or the latter part of August by ship and would remain in the United States until May 31, 1971.

Mr. Fuentes has been the beneficiary of waivers in the past and in view of the public relations factors involved, the Embassy recommends that another waiver be granted, valid for one entry prior to September 15, 1970, and for admission until May 31, 1971.

Carlos Fuentes Macias Internal Security-Mexico

This investigation is predicated upon information furnished by the United States Department of State (USDS), American Embassy Paris, on August 19,1970, to the effect that Carlos Fuentes Macias would be granted a visa to be effective from September 15,1970 until May 31,1971. The USDS further advised that Fuentes' address was 5 rue Sebastien Bottin, Paris 7, France. His Alien Registration Number is A 12 724 926. His occupation is that of a writer and his purpose of entry is to teach at New York University, New York, New York.

Inquiry at New York University (NYU), Washington Square, New York, New York, on September 15,1970, revealed that the subject was not on the faculty and no information was presently available concerning him.

On October 19,1970, Faculty Employment, NYU, advised that the subject was originally scheduled to lecture for the Fall, 1970, semester but for personal reasons he has not as yet come to the United States. He is due to arrive in February, 1971, and will teach one course in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences entitled "Latin America: Cultural Roots". She stated that there is no further information concerning him.

On September 24,1970, a confidential source who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that the subject is scheduled to teach at Columbia University, 116th Street and Broadway, New York, New York, during the Spring, 1971 semester. His appointment runs from January 1,1971 to June 30,1971, and will lecture in the Schools of the Arts, Division of Writing. His address is listed as 2A Cerrada de Galeana 10, D. F. She could furnish no further information concerning him.

The 1/21/61 issue of the "Saturday Review", contained an article entitled "Aftermath of Revolution", which was a eulogy of C. Wright Mills, author of the book "Listen, Yankee", which praised the Cuban Revolution and condemned Jules DuBois, who wrote an article criticizing the Revolution. Several prominent Mexican intellectuals signed the article, including novelist Carlos Fuentes, and publisher Arnaldo Orfila-Reynal (105-113739).

ON ONE OCCASION IN 1968, HE DENIED AN INVITATION TO ATTEND A WRITERS' FORUM IN NEW YORK BECAUSE OF RESTRICTIONS RACED ON HIS VISA BY THE U. S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE, BASED ON MEMBERSHIP IN THE PCM. AT THE TIME, SUBJECT WAS QUOTED IN THE LOCAL PRESS DENYING PRESENT OR FORMER MEMBERSHIP IN THE PCM AND SEVERLY CRITICIZED THE "IMPERIALISTIC POLICY OF THE U. S. GOVERNMENT".

ON ANOTHER OCCASION IN JANUARY, 1971, HE WAS SCHEDULED TO BECOME A PROFESSOR OF WRITING AT COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY IN NEW YORK, BUT SENT A TELEGRAM OF RESIGNATION, STATING "AS PROTEST AGAINST RENEWED AIR ATTACK ON NORTH VIETNAM, I AM RESIGNING MY POSITION ON YOUR STAFF THIS UP-COMING ABOUT LITERATURE WHILE AMERICAN IMPERIALISTS MURDER WOMEN AND CHILDREN. STOP."

UNTIL RECENTLY, AND FOR A PERIOD OF APPROXIMATELY TWO YEARS, SUBJECT SERVED AS THE MEXICAN AMBASSADOR TO FRANCE. ADMINISTRATIVE:
