FROM SA [REDACTED]

SUBJECT NEIL ARMSTRONG
INFORMATION CONCERNING

On January 29, 1976, Detective [REDACTED] Lebanon Police Department, Lebanon, Ohio advised that he had been contacted by several people working at the Lebanon Town Hall including his mother. [REDACTED] stated that on the previous day, two individuals, one a male Negro, the second a male white, had appeared at the Town Hall asking numerous questions about NEIL ARMSTRONG, the former astronaut, what his address was, how many children he had, where his children went to school, and inquired if he frequently ate at the Golden Lamb Restaurant and other personal questions.

These two individuals also went to the Town Tax Map Department and viewed diagrams of subject's property and adjacent property and asked several questions about ARMSTRONG in that department.

According to [REDACTED] no one really questioned these two individuals, although they were suspicious and these individuals stated they had been in town just to take some photographs of the house as they were tourists.

[REDACTED] advised the only description he was able to get was they were both fairly young and male, and well-dressed. The Negro appeared to have a type of necklace, which had a quarter moon with a star on it. No one observed what type of automobile or any other details about these individuals.

[REDACTED] advised that on the following day, [REDACTED] came to the Town Hall and was quite concerned as to these two individuals and made a statement to one of the town employees, "I didn't think they would go this far".

1st Moon Man

Associated Press

President Nixon announced yesterday he has appointed Neil A. Armstrong, first man on the moon, to be chairman of the Peace Corps Advisory Council.

Armstrong, the 39-year-old astronaut who was commander of the Apollo 11 mission, will remain in the space program. A civilian, he will receive no more than $1,000 a year expense money for his duties with the advisory council.

President Nixon last week named Apollo 11 command module pilot, Col. Michael Collins, as assistant secretary of state for public affairs.
