The Black Vault is the largest online Freedom of Information Act (FOIA)

Amerika the Unbeautiful

William F. Buckley Jr.

The screening by ABC of a television show that depicts what life would be like under Soviet occupation has evoked primal shrieks of indignation, of which an essay in The New York Times by John E. Mack is representative. Mr Mack is identified as (brace yourself) "academic director of the Center for Psychological Studies in the Nuclear Age, which is connected with the department of psychiatry, an affiliate of the Harvard Medical School at Cambridge Hospital." Mr Mack objects to "Amerika" on the grounds that it induces fear and loathing of Russia by Americans.

Now that introduces the first — and foremost — misunderstanding, known in logic as the "fallacy of division." Although all Soviets are Russians, it does not follow that all Russians are Soviets. For convenience, we here designate "Soviets" as willing instruments of Soviet policies. These policies are best summarized as the maintenance of a totalitarian state at home, with the ambition to extend totalitarian control abroad. It does not follow that fear and loathing of the Soviets as here distinguished, is the same thing as fear and loathing of the Russian people. The former are people like Stalin, Andropov and Gorbachev. The latter are people like Bar-yshnikov, Rostropovich and Solzhenitsyn.

It is perhaps easier to focus on this distinction if we remind ourselves that the principal victims of the Soviets are Russians. The population of the Gulag Archipelago, which reached about 12 million at its peak, was overwhelmingly Russian ("Russian" here defined as people who reside within the borders of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, never mind whether the U S S R. has claim to such as Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania, or, for that matter, the Ukraine).

Mr. Mack complains that the creators of "Amerika," in that they depict raping and killing and massacre, are indulging "in familiar Russian-Nazi stereotypes," and that the "most malignant" of these "is the idea that the Kremlin's purpose is to crush all independent thinking and bring about the final solution to the American problem."

Well, yes, actually.

What is a "stereotyped" front-line Soviet agent? We received reports from the Afghan front a few months ago that the latest ploy of the Soviet army there was to plant explosives in children's toys and drop them in centers of resistance — to take care, so to speak, of incipient juvenile delinquents. That would strike this observer as at the very least a venture in discouraging independent thinking. Now who gave those instructions? A Soviet stereotype? Or a flesh-and-blood Soviet general, working under the tight command structure — that is, working for the Kremlin?

And if a "final solution" to the problem of America is not an ambition of the command structure of the Soviet state, why do the Soviets squat there with 12,000 nuclear missiles? One nuclear missile would be quite enough to deal with the producers of "Amerika." Mr. Mack quotes George Kennan as saying that the Soviet leadership (as Mack puts it) "does not wish, intend or have the capability to occupy the United States." That is a 24-karat half-truth.

The Soviet Union's lack of desire to "occupy the United States" is exclusively an aspect of its incapacity to occupy the United States. But it does desire to dominate American policy, and to do this by an admixture of strength and intimidation. If the day should come when that were to happen, there would be a prevalence of the Soviet will over U.S. policy; yes, the satellization of the United States. Say it can't happen, but do not ever say it is not willed by Soviet leadership.

As the logic of the wheel is to turn, so the logic of Soviet policy is to reduce the United States to satellite status. And if that were to happen, life in the United States would be pretty much as depicted in "Amerika," never mind that the agents of repression would be predominantly American, not Cuban. There are less than 20,000 Soviets in Cuba, but no political prisoner rotting in the Isle of Pines cares much for the racial pedigree of his oppressors.

Mr. Mack reports that a Soviet "journalist" (that's the equivalent of referring to a "Department of Defense journalist"), shown a preview of ABC's "Amerika" in Lincoln, Neb., wrote about it in "a Moscow newspaper." What he wrote was, "Feeling hurt and hateful, I silently cried in the hushed cinema." The Soviet journalist, if he cried in the hushed cinema, did so either a) because he was told by the KGB to cry; or b) because he saw, re-enacted, the barbarities routinely committed by the regime he lives under. About this, we should all cry, while keeping our powder dry. To make certain we won't ever have the same things here to cry about.
