thoroughly believes that operations and net were clear and that source's investigation and arrest by CIA was purely coincidental. Source suggests for activities of group to continue as before but with source completely disconnected from net and operations until certain that source is not under possible surveillance and possible follow-up checking by CIA. After some time, group can take over source's operations and contacts, while source devotes himself exclusively and actively to his cover-up activities and to strengthen his cover as told to CIA officers.
