Subject: Conversation with Mark Zaid and Comments from Dettlebach

Zaid called me today to say that he had lunch with Brian Dettlebach this week. Mark mentioned that Dettlebach said that someone on the Hill (perhaps Sen. Dole) had created a Committee to examine independent presidential commissions and boards. Zaid had no further details, but suggested that Dettlebach could fill us in on the details. Perhaps it is worth a call from you to Dettlebach to check in? Dettlebach also suggested that sending press releases to the appropriate committee staffers on both sides of the Hill, although he did not know who all of the appropriate people were on the relevant committees. It is probably a good idea, particularly when we start announcing the actual release of documents.
